RIGID RENT LAWS IN MAKING

Jewish-Arab Armistice Asked By Bunche To Replace Truce

New Fighting Is Reported As Jews Capture Fortress

[By The Associated Press]

The acting Palestine mediator called on the United Nations Security Council yesterday (Tuesday) to order a Jewish-Arab armistice to replace the much-violated holy land truce.

Dr. Ralph Bunche submitted his peace plan in the midst of a series of Palestine developments, which included:

New fighting in the Negev Desert where reliable sources in Tel Aviv said Jewish forces captured the British built fortress of Iraq Suweidan after killing 100 Egyptians.

An Israeli request for a U. N. investigation of reports Britain had sent large numbers of troops and arms shipments to Trans-Jordan and some to Palestine. British officials denied these reports.

Fear Open War

A Tel Aviv dispatch said most people there, including Israel's army commanders, believe the Holy Land war will flare into the open again soon. The belief is the battle will be with the Iraqis in the Arab triangle of Central Palestine.

Under the plan which Bunche outlined before a closed Security Council session in Paris, the proposed armistice would be made effective by creation of demilitarized zones between Arab and Jewish forces on all fronts.

Another key proposal in the Bunche plan is for the "settlement of all outstanding problems of the truce" through the good offices of the acting mediator.

The council will meet privately again tomorrow (Wednesday) to continue discussions on the proposal. Initial reaction was scant. A U. S. spokesman said the resolution would be sent to Washington for "sympathetic" study. A British spokesman said Britain was not opposed to the plan in principle, but believed the same results could be obtained by broadening the Negev resolution, passed by the council last week, for withdrawal of Israel's forces.

An Israeli spokesman raised several objections to the Bunche resolution, although he stressed that the Israeli Government has consistently favored direct negotiations with the Arabs. He was strongly opposed to the suggestion for demilitarized zones.

Abdullah Inspects Troops

(Dispatches from Amman, Trans-Jordan capital, said King Abdullah inspected Arab Legion troops at Nablus Tuesday. An Arab Legion communique said 100 Jewish shells fell among Iraqi positions near Besher in North Trans-Jordan. Military sources were quoted as saying they believed a probing process preliminary to heavy attacks on the Iraqis was in swing.

(Two violent explosions also rocked the no man's land outside the new gate of the old city of Jerusalem.

(Egypt complained to the U. N. in Paris that Jewish troops also were attacking the Faluja pocket southeast of Tel Aviv.)

Should fighting break out on the central front the main question here is whether the Iraqis would have to fight alone, as the Egyptians were left to do in the south last month and as Fawzi Bey Al Kaukji's irregular Arabs were obliged to do in the north a little over a week later.

Trans-Jordan's Arab Legion was quiescent while the Egyptian position in the Negev Desert was shattered and Kaukji was chased back into Lebanon in lightning Israeli campaigns. The Iraqis took only a minor part, while the regular Syrian and Lebanese armies looked on.

(Premier Nazahim Amin Alpachaci in Baghdad on Monday bitterly criticized other Arab countries for refusing to agree to a unified military command. He said Iraqi troops were now free to take whatever decisions they liked, and even the Iraqi cabinet could not interfere. Iraqi refused to join in the Arab League decision of last July to accept the second Palestine truce.)

Truman Lays Reform Plans Of New Term

Studies Program Of Legislation With Key Aides

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 9. (INS)—President Truman sat down tonight with Vice President Alben W. Barkley and his key aides to map the broad program of legislative reforms he will present to the new Democratic Congress in January.

Cabinet changes and a realignment of the Democratic high command also were on the agenda of the party chiefs.

Vice President Barkley and Leslie Biffle, who will take over his old job of Senate Secretary in January, arrived at Key West late this afternoon from Washington.

Greeted By President

They were greeted by the President at his vacation quarters on the U. S. Submarine Base after a drive from the Boca Chica Airport.

The president, who met Barkley on the palm shaded green lawn of his quarters with members of his staff, said to the Vice President:

"Hi, boss, how are you?"

Then he observed:

"You almost ran over my cat."

A black and white stray tabby, unnamed, has taken up his home on the President's station and scooted across the driveway as the car in which Barkley rode drove up.

Barkley rejoined:

"I thought it was a photographer."

The President laughed, and said:

"I wish I could qualify—it would would be a lot easier job."

Barkley Is Noncommittal

At the airport, upon arrival, Barkley was noncommittal about Cabinet changes. Asked who would leave the cabinet, he said:

"I don't have to tell you who it will be. There's a little man down below here who can tell you about those things."

Those close to the President intimated, however, that both Secretary James V. Forrestal and Secretary for Air W. Stuart Symington are on the list.

Now that Vice President Barkley and Biffle are on hand, the next arrival awaited on the Presidential vacation scene is Rep. Sam Rayburn (D), Texas, who is slated to become Speaker of the House again in January.

BACKFIRE STARTED—Flames leap into the air for a backfire started yesterday to keep a disastrous brush fire from destroying the little community of Silverado, Calif., which is seen in the foreground.

Small Hurricane Cited Off Coast

MIAMI, Nov. 9 (INS)—A small tropical hurricane located in the Atlantic Ocean off Florida was moving in a west northwest arc today in the general direction of the eastern seaboard.

Winds of 75 miles an hour—full hurricane force—were clocked by Navy planes which flew into the storm this afternoon.

The Miami Weather Bureau reported in a 2:45 p. m. (EST) advisory that the storm center was last carried about 470 miles due east of Melbourne, Fla., at latitude 28 longitude 73.

The hurricane was speeding along at a clip of 16 miles an hour and winds of gale force whirled around an area 100 miles in diameter.

Weather forecasters said the hurricane is expected to gain some intensity an dcontinue its west northwest movement for the next 12 hours.

Ships in the stor marea were advised to exercise caution.

Tropical storms are rare this late in the year, although the Atlantic-Caribbean hurricane "season" does not end until November 15.

Calif. Canyon Fire Threatens 350 Homes

SANTA ANA, Calif., Nov. 9 (AP)—A fire fighting army beat back flames today that had swept through the brush almost to within scorching distance of approximately 350 homes in Silverado Canyon.

Temporarily successful and aided by decreasing winds, the weary forces redoubled their efforts to control the fire in unpopulated side canyons on the Santa Ana Mountains.

Three hundred men had formed a solid line atop a ridge between Ladd and Silverado Canyons. The fire was burning fiercely in Ladd and a couple of its tongues lapped over into Silverado. Flames crept down the side of Silverado toward the houses, many of them fine estates. At one point the fire was within 100 yards of Silverado Community Church.

The men dug furiously to create firebreaks, using bulldozers and hand tools. They had 38 pumper trucks available and finally they succeeded in running hose lines up the slope. They drenched the flames, beat them back up to the ridgetop.

Conditions Favorable

Then Joseph Scherman, state forester for Orange County, sighed in relief and said: "Conditions are much more favorable—with good luck in the next day or so we might be able to call it (Silverado Village) safe."

Supervisor Hamilton Pyles, Cleveland National Forest, added that the active (burning) fire front had been reduced to seven miles. It was not yet controlled, but yesterday the fire line was 18 miles long.

Silverado Canyon lies about 50 miles southeast of Los Angeles. All of its residents and those from other nearby areas—a total of some 1,500 persons—were evacuated yesterday.

The fire was whipped up yesterday from ashes of last week's blaze when gales whipped through canyons. So far, more than 43,000 acres have been burned over.

Winds today had slowed to a 25 to 30 mile-an-hour rate but fast enough to race the blaze along a 15 mile line uncontrolled front.

The U. S. Forestry Service used helicopters to bolster its position along the ridge line, dropping experienced asbestos clad forest fighters into the bad spots.

1,560 Fight Fire

There were 1,560 firefighters in the entire area. Army, Navy and Marine personnel made up the bulk of labor gangs although trusties from nearby prisons were in there too.

Forestry officials tentatively set 10 a. m. tomorrow as their goal for controlling the fire but none was optimistic about making it then.

The situation at nearby El Toro Marine base was reported "well in hand," although the flames reached within 500 yards of the 900-building base.

Meanwhile, hundreds of thousands of dollars in damage was counted as the winds lashed southern California. Citrus loss was heavy.

Chinese Reds Open Nanking Gateway Drive

Suchow Menaced By Three Columns In Hard Fighting

NANKING, Nov. 9 (AP)—Suchow, gateway to Nanking, was menaced today by three Chinese Communist columns driving in hard from the north, west and east.

Simultaneously, Communist guerrillas knocked out a 100-mile stretch o fthe rail linking Suchow with Nanking. Suchow is 170 miles by air and 208 miles by rail northwest of Nanking.

Adding to the troubles of the hard-pressed government division on the Suchow front was an unofficial but reliable report that six regiments there went over to the Communists.

Gen. Chen Yi's Communist Armies of Eastern China appeared bent on isolating Suchow, headquarters fo rall government forces in that area, and setting it up for a knockout blow.

Unofficial reports reaching this nervous capital gave this picture of Suchow's shaky position:

The perpendicular bar of this position is the railway from Nanking to North China. The cross bar is the East-West Lunghai railway east and west of Suchow.

One Communist column, moving directly south, has captured Hanchuang, on the railway to North China 24 miles north of Suchow.

A second Communist column, trying to crumple the western wing of this line, has seized Tangshan, on the Lunghai Railway 47 miles west of Suchow.

The third Communist column, falling upon Suchow's eastern flank, has overrun Tancheng, 70 miles east and slightly north of Suchow.

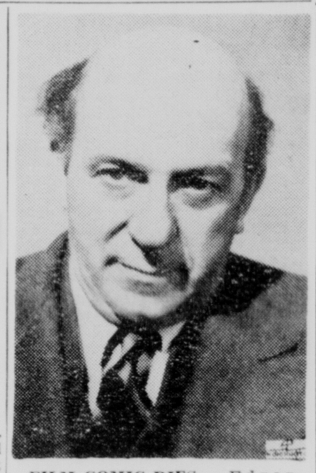

The southern corridor stretching down to Suchow from Nanking is seriously threatened. Still other Communist forces are striking from the west far to the south of Suchow.

They now threaten Pengpu, which is on the Nanking railway 100 miles south of Suchow. Pengpu is 108 rail miles northwest of Nanking.

All rail traffic between Suchow and Pengpu has been suspended because guerrillas have repeatedly cut the line. Service between Pengpu and Nanking is irregular.

A government military spokesman maintained that the western flank of Suchow's defenses had been strengthened by a victory south of

Comet Equal To Halley's Visits Earth

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 9 (AP)—The most beautiful comet since Halley's paid an earthly visit 38 years ago is sweeping through the skies tonight—and giving astronomers a merry chase in trying to chart its course.

A Californian got the first American glimpse of the new comet—and an Arizona astronomer reported later that it appeared there moving in a southwesterly direction.

This means folks in southern United States stand a good chance to see the phenomenon tomorrow just before dawn; whether those in more northerly regions such as Chicago, New York and Boston get a view remains in doubt.

Dr. Dinsmore Alter, director of Griffith Observatory in Los Angeles, said he followed the comet for an hour with naked eye and field glasses and called it "the most beautiful comet since Halley's in 1910."

"It showed a peculiar sheath-like effect of the head," he said, "preceding the nucleus and then sweeping backward to form the long, bright tail."

Astronomers here said the comet might be around for a few mornings for Americans to see—and the time to look is just before sunrise.

First sighted by a South African observer Sunday, the comet has been spotted rushing through the skies since then by watchers in Argentina, Mexico and Australia.

OHE Will Seek Wartime Power For 'One Year'

Will Ask Jail Terms, Fines For Violators

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Plans to ask Congress for some wartime rent powers extended "at least one year" beyond next March 31, were reported today by a spokesman for Housing Expediter Tighe Woods.

He said Woods will seek authority to sue landlords for triple damages in behalf of tenants, in cases of overcharge. Criminal penalties — a jail term or fine, or both—also will be sought, the spokesman said.

As a still further tightening, it was stated, the armed forces probably will request that Woods be empowered to restore rent ceilings in areas of revived defense activity, in cases where control has been lifted.

Remove Some Controls

The Office of Housing Expediter (OHE) has found it possible to remove ceilings from all or part of only 17 of the 600 areas under control when the present law took effect last April 1, the spokesman said. This is in spite of the fact, he added, that decontrol studies have been undertaken in all areas, embracing more than 13,000,000 families, and 250 of the studies have been acted upon—mostly with a decision to continue the ceilings.

"In the great majority of cases we have been unable to decontrol because the demand for housing has not been met," the official said.

Under existing law, Woods lacks authority to restore controls in an area once the ceiling has been abolished. The military establishment is expected to join Woods in a request for recontrol powers, the spokesman said, in view of plans to reopen some defense plants and to reactivate certain posts and stations of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The construction of rental building has failed to keep pace with unexpected postwar population growth in many areas, the OHE official reported.

This is particularly true of the West Coast, he added. However, such eastern cities as Erie, Pa., have undergone a virtual doubling of population and employment in their metropolitan areas since the start of the war.

College Towns Listed

College towns are another source of concern to housing authorities, he added, because of record enrollments and the high percentage of ex-GIs who are bringing wives and children to the campuses.

The treble-damage provision was part of the original OPA Price Ceiling Act. Under today's law, a tenant may obtain three times the overcharge only if he himself sues in Federal District Court. If OHE sues in his behalf, it can recover the exact amount of the overcharge.

"We have found that few tenants wish to go into Federal Court because they are afraid of eviction," the spokesman said.

"We will propose that Congress empower OHE to seek treble damages in the tenant's behalf, and protect the tenant from retaliation by restoring Federal control over evictions."

OHE cannot now act in an eviction case until the tenant has been ousted. Evictions now are govered by local laws.

The spokesman reported that Woods is satisfied with the working of the present decontrol machinery. Local rent advisory boards operate in each area to recommend whether the community should be kept under ceilings or freed from control. Woods has authority, after conducting his own investigation, to turn down a decontrol request.

"Definite Suspect" Held In Glen Burnie Killings

FERNDALE, Md., Nov. 9 (AP)—Anne Arundel County police announced today the arrest of a "definite suspect" in the killings of a young Glen Burnie, Md., couple almost two months ago.

The man, a negro, was said to have been in possession a pistol which fired bullets of the same caliber as those which killed Miss Mary Kline, 18, and her escort, John H. Mahlan, 25-year-old war veteran.

Police said the man is about 38 years old and lives in Marley, a short distance from the spot where Mahlan's bloodstained car was found September 18.

Authorities Comment

Authorities, when asked for comment on the arrest, said:

"It looks good."

In Annapolis, Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., said that "I feel right confident that we have come to the end" of the search for the killer of Miss Mary C. Kline, 18, and her escort, John H. Mahlan, 25-year-old war veteran.

The man was questioned about the case three weeks ago, then released. He was taken into custody again last night, police said, after they learned he had a gun.

The pistol was sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington.

Late today, Chief John H. Souers, Jr., of the county police force said, the FBI reported it was of the caliber to fire bullets of the type which killed the young couple.

Police said the bullets are of a caliber not unusual in foreign weapons but rare in American-made firearms.

Further studies are being made to determine if the markings of the death bullets correspond to those fired from the gun in question.

Suspect Denies Knowledge

Anne Arundel county officials said the man, under questioning, has denied any connection with the Mahlan-Kline case.

Miss Kline and Mahlan, good friends who went out together about once a week, left the girl's home on a date the night of September 17.

Their parents reported them missing when they did not return home that night. Mahlan's bullet-pierced car was found the next day, and their bodies were found two days later along a dead-end road

Elizabeth's Baby To Get Princely Title On Arrival

LONDON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth's baby will receive the title of Prince or Princess of Edinburgh and be addressed as "royal highness," King George VI said today.

The King's announcement, published in the London Gazette, changes a ruling by the King's father in World War I. Under that ruling, only children of the King or the King's sons were made princes of princesses. Children of a King's daughter, even if she were heiress to the throne as Elizabeth is, were not included.

Had it not been for the new decision, the baby expected to arrive at Buckingham Palace this weekend would be: only an earl if a boy, taking the title Earl of Merioneth from among those held by the father, Prince Philip. If a girl, the child would have been called Lady Mountbatten, taking her own christian name and the father's surname.

Grocers' Head Dies

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9 (AP)—Harry Wesley Walker, who organized the Retail Grocers' Association of Baltimore 25 years ago, died last night in his home at the age of 72. Walker also was instrumental in forming the Independent Grocers' and Meat Dealers' Association, a state-wide group.

World War Three Over For Ex-Wac Seeking 'Peace'

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (INS)—An ex-Chicago Wac who said life with her husband was a "small World War III" will celebrate this Armistice Day with a divorce.

The ex-Wac is Mrs. Frances Nielsen, 30. Her husband is Fred. She told a Circuit Court judge:

"When I came back from the was I looked forward to peace and comfort with my husband. Instead I found a small World War III. I want to celebrate this Armistice Day by getting rid of him."

The judge granted the divorce. Mrs. Nielsen waived alimony.

Dulles Charges Soviets Hold Up Case On Greeks

PARIS, Nov. 9 (AP) — American Delegate John Foster Dulles accused the Soviet Bloc tonight of trying to frustrate the United Nations Assembly with a filibuster in the Greek Case.

The Soviet Bloc heatedly denied the charge, but members of the assembly's 58-Nation Political Committee showed their impatience by clamping a 10-minute limit on all future speeches in the debate.

The vote to restrict the discussions was 42 to 1. Ales Bebler, Yugoslav delegate, cast the lone vote against the limit. He has spoken longer than any other delegate on the question.

Dulles spoke up after Bebler had demanded repeated roll call votes on almost every decision the committee made. For the past two days the committee has been moving slowly through a paragraph-by-paragraph vote on a resolution sponsored by the United States, Britain, France and China.

"Filibuster Apparent"

Dulles told the committee the filibustering tactics of the Slav minority had become apparent and said:

"If it (the filibustering) continues, it will frustrate the effectiveness of the General Assembly even more than the veto obstructs the Security Council."

Russia has used the veto 28 times in the Security Council and has been accused by some delegates of paralyzing the council.

Dulles said he was certain the committee would support any move the chairman, Premier Paul-Henri

Rioting Chinese Storm Food Shops

SHANGHAI, Nov. 9 (INS)—Rioting Chinese mobs stormed food shops and restaurants in Shanghai today in what was described as "the worst economic crisis in 100 years."

Police in armored cars roared through the streets answering calls from shopowners. But the hungry crowds seized whatever food they could lay hands on.

Serious deterioration of the currency situation, coupled with the determination of many shopkeepers to hoard merchandise until values are stabilized led to the crisis.

Silver Dollar Smiles

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 9 (AP)—A smile will be worth a dollar tomorrow in Pennsylvania's capital city. The local optimist club plans to hand out 1,000 silver dollars to the wearers of the brightest smiles in town in honor of "smile day."

Probe Of Commie Spies May Be Ended For Good

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (INS)—The House Un-American Activities Committee is expected to drop permanently its probe of alleged Communist spy rings in the government.

The indictment yesterday of its chairman, Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R) N. J., and the election defeat of two other Republicans on the committee, makes it unlikely that any activitiy of importance will be undertaken before January 3.

On that date, Democrats will take over control of the committee. Informed sources predicted today that they will steer the unit's work to new matters rather than to the unfinished business of a GOP-dominated committee.

Thomas was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury yesterday on charges of having conspired to defraud the United States Government through salary "kickbacks" of "dummy" employes. He was also accused in the indictment of having made false pay claims against the government.

Labor's League for Political Education, headed by AFL President William Green, demanded today that Thomas, Rep. O'Konski (R) Wis., and Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., be stopped "at the door" and prevented from taking their seats in the 81st Congress.

Sentiment among the few House members in Washington appeared to be against challenging the right of Thomas to his seat. One source predicted that the House would await the outcome of Thomas' trial.

The labor organization did not go into detail in demanding that O'Konski be kept from his seat. It repeated charges of a columnist that Ferguson benefited from financial transactions involving some Chrysler Corp. products.

An Un-American Activities Committee source predicted that the unit would drop not only its spy investigation but also fail to resume hearings on Communism in Hollywood and other promised probes.

Unfinished business of the committee includes the Hiss-Chambers controversy. It will likely be left to the courts to answer the question of whether Alger Hiss or Whittaker Chambers lied under oath.

Child With Year To Live Will Get Best Medical Care

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Medical Society today promised "the best the profession can offer" toward prolonging the life of an eight-year-old girl who has been given only a year to live.

Dr. Gilson Colby Engle, president of the society, said yesterday he had received a letter from the child's father, Edward J. Hickey, Jr., Pomeroy, Pa., begging for suggestions of "any scientific means" to help his daughter, Hope, a rheumatic fever victim.

Dr. Engle said he had mailed an immediate reply to the worried father.

Hickey, in his letter to Dr. Engle asked him to recommend "surgery or any other scientific means where even the slightest possibility of saving or prolonging the child's life exists."

"The chances of success, I know, are one in 999. However, for the sake of my child and all those who are or will be stricken, it is a chance that must be taken," Hickey wrote.

Gromyko Wins Award

LONDON, Nov. 9 (AP) — The Moscow radio said tonight Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko had been awarded the red banner of labor for "outstanding services rendered to the Soviet State in the diplomatic sphere."

Parents' Aid Is Sought In Smashing Football Lottery

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9 (AP)—States Attorney J. Bernard Wells today asked parents to come forward with information to help him smash football betting syndicates operating in high schools.

Vice squad operatives meantime arrested a second man charged with running a football pool.

He was identified as Myron (Fats) Scherer, 18, and released in $500 bond for a hearing before a magistrate on lottery charges.

Wells said he also would extend his inquiry into the city's parochial schools. He already has announced his intention of taking the results before the grand jury.

"This investigation is to discourage a vicious exploitation of children by racketeers," he declared.

"There are plenty who can give valuable information, and it remains to be seen whether they will stand idly by or come forward."

Surely, Wells said, parents must have considerable knowledge of their children's participation in the pools.

He conferred today with the principals of eleven public schools and some of them were questioned later by assistant state's attorneys.

Wheeling Downs Official "Guilty" In Tax Evasion

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 9 (AP)—William G. Lias, president of Wheeling Downs, pleaded guilty in Northern District Federal Court here this afternoon to one of five counts of income tax evasion.

The other four counts were dropped after District Attorney C. Lee Spillers read a letter from Assistant U. S. Attorney General Theron L. Caudle.

The letter stated that it was the belief of the Justice Department "that a very substantial jail sentence should be imposed."

"This appears to be a very flagrant tax evasion case and should the judge ask a recommendation of you it is the belief of this office that a very substantial jail sentence should be imposed," Caudle's letter to Spillers read.

The letter added that it was the policy of the Treasury Department to drop other counts when a person entered a guilty plea to one of several charges in tax matters.

There was no indication when sentence would be imposed by Judge William E. Baker or whether a settlement offer had been made by Lias.

Lias was indicted last April. The government charged he evaded $903,000 worth of taxes between 1942 and 1946. The count to which he pleaded involved the alleged evasion of $117,000.

Lias was represented by Attorney Carl G. Galbraith, Wheeling.

Jewish-Arab Armistice Asked By Bunche To Replace Truce

New Fighting Is Reported As Jews Capture Fortress

SANTA ANA, Calif., Nov. 9 (AP)—A fire fighting army beat back flames today that had swept through the brush almost to within scorching distance of approximately 350 homes in Silverado Canyon.

Temporarily successful and aided by decreasing winds, the weary forces redoubled their efforts to control the fire in unpopulated side canyons on the Santa Ana Mountains.

Three hundred men had formed a solid line atop a ridge between Ladd and Silverado Canyons. The fire was burning fiercely in Ladd and a couple of its tongues lapped over into Silverado. Flames crept down the side of Silverado toward the houses, many of them fine estates. At one point the fire was within 100 yards of Silverado Community Church.

The men dug furiously to create firebreaks, using bulldozers and hand tools. They had 38 pumper trucks available and finally they succeeded in running hose lines up the slope. They drenched the flames, beat them back up to the ridgetop.

Conditions Favorable

Then Joseph Scherman, state forester for Orange County, sighed in relief and said: "Conditions are much more favorable—with good luck in the next day or so we might be able to call it (Silverado Village) safe."

Supervisor Hamilton Pyles, Cleveland National Forest, added that the active (burning) fire front had been reduced to seven miles. It was not yet controlled, but yesterday the fire line was 18 miles long.

Silverado Canyon lies about 50 miles southeast of Los Angeles. All of its residents and those from other nearby areas—a total of some 1,500 persons—were evacuated yesterday.

The fire was whipped up yesterday from ashes of last week's blaze when gales whipped through canyons. So far, more than 43,000 acres have been burned over.

Winds today had slowed to a 25 to 30 mile-an-hour rate but fast enough to race the blaze along a 15 mile line uncontrolled front.

The U. S. Forestry Service used helicopters to bolster its position along the ridge line, dropping experienced asbestos clad forest fighters into the bad spots.

1,560 Fight Fire

There were 1,560 firefighters in the entire area. Army, Navy and Marine personnel made up the bulk of labor gangs although trusties from nearby prisons were in there too.

Forestry officials tentatively set 10 a. m. tomorrow as their goal for controlling the fire but none was optimistic about making it then.

The situation at nearby El Toro Marine base was reported "well in hand," although the flames reached within 500 yards of the 900-building base.

Meanwhile, hundreds of thousands of dollars in damage was counted as the winds lashed southern California. Citrus loss was heavy.

Suchow Menaced By Three Columns In Hard Fighting

NANKING, Nov. 9 (AP)—Suchow, gateway to Nanking, was menaced today by three Chinese Communist columns driving in hard from the north, west and east.

Simultaneously, Communist guerrillas knocked out a 100-mile stretch o fthe rail linking Suchow with Nanking. Suchow is 170 miles by air and 208 miles by rail northwest of Nanking.

Adding to the troubles of the hard-pressed government division on the Suchow front was an unofficial but reliable report that six regiments there went over to the Communists.

Gen. Chen Yi's Communist Armies of Eastern China appeared bent on isolating Suchow, headquarters fo rall government forces in that area, and setting it up for a knockout blow.

Unofficial reports reaching this nervous capital gave this picture of Suchow's shaky position:

The perpendicular bar of this position is the railway from Nanking to North China. The cross bar is the East-West Lunghai railway east and west of Suchow.

One Communist column, moving directly south, has captured Hanchuang, on the railway to North China 24 miles north of Suchow.

A second Communist column, trying to crumple the western wing of this line, has seized Tangshan, on the Lunghai Railway 47 miles west of Suchow.

The third Communist column, faling upon Suchow's eastern flank, has overrun Tancheng, 70 miles east and slightly north of Suchow.

The southern corridor stretching down to Suchow from Nanking is seriously threatened. Still other Communist forces are striking from the west far to the south of Suchow.

They now threaten Pengpu, which is on the Nanking railway 100 miles south of Suchow. Pengpu is 108 rail miles northwest of Nanking.

All rail traffic between Suchow and Pengpu has been suspended because guerrillas have repeatedly cut the line. Service between Pengpu and Nanking is irregular.

A government military spokesman maintained that the western flank of Suchow's defenses had been strengthened by a victory south of

Comet Equal To Halley's Visits Earth

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 9 (AP)—The most beautiful comet since Halley's paid an earthly visit 38 years ago is sweeping through the skies tonight—and giving astronomers a merry chase in trying to chart its course.

A Californian got the first American glimpse of the new comet—and an Arizona astronomer reported later that it appeared there moving in a southwesterly direction.

This means folks in southern United States stand a good chance to see the phenomenon tomorrow just before dawn; whether those in more northerly regions such as Chicago, New York and Boston get a view remains in doubt.

Dr. Dinsmore Alter, director of Griffith Observatory in Los Angeles, said he followed the comet for an hour with naked eye and field glasses and called it "the most beautiful comet since Halley's in 1910."

"It showed a peculiar sheath-like effect of the head," he said, "preceding the nucleus and then sweeping backward to form the long, bright tail."

Astronomers here said the comet might be around for a few mornings for Americans to see—and the time to look is just before sunrise.

First sighted by a South African observer Sunday, the comet has been spotted rushing through the skies since then by watchers in Argentina, Mexico and Australia.

OHE Will Seek Wartime Power For 'One Year'

Will Ask Jail Terms, Fines For Violators

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Plans to ask Congress for some wartime rent powers extended "at least one year" beyond next March 31, were reported today by a spokesman for Housing Expediter Tighe Woods.

He said Woods will seek authority to sue landlords for triple damages in behalf of tenants, in cases of overcharge. Criminal penalties — a jail term or fine, or both—also will be sought, the spokesman said.

As a still further tightening, it was stated, the armed forces probably will request that Woods be empowered to restore rent ceilings in areas of revived defense activity, in cases where control has been lifted.

Remove Some Controls

The Office of Housing Expediter (OHE) has found it possible to remove ceilings from all or part of only 17 of the 600 areas under control when the present law took effect last April 1, the spokesman said. This is in spite of the fact, he added, that decontrol studies have been undertaken in all areas, embracing more than 13,000,000 families, and 250 of the studies have been acted upon—mostly with a decision to continue the ceilings.

"In the great majority of cases we have been unable to decontrol because the demand for housing has not been met," the official said.

Under existing law, Woods lacks authority to restore controls in an area once the ceiling has been abolished. The military establishment is expected to join Woods in a request for recontrol powers, the spokesman said, in view of plans to reopen some defense plants and to reactivate certain posts and stations of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The construction of rental building has failed to keep pace with unexpected postwar population growth in many areas, the OHE official reported.

This is particularly true of the West Coast, he added. However, such eastern cities as Erie, Pa., have undergone a virtual doubling of population and employment in their metropolitan areas since the start of the war.

College Towns Listed

College towns are another source of concern to housing authorities, he added, because of record enrollments and the high percentage of ex-GIs who are bringing wives and children to the campuses.

The treble-damage provision was part of the original OPA Price Ceiling Act. Under today's law, a tenant may obtain three times the overcharge only if he himself sues in Federal District Court. If OHE sues in his behalf, it can recover the exact amount of the overcharge.

"We have found that few tenants wish to go into Federal Court because they are afraid of eviction," the spokesman said.

"We will propose that Congress empower OHE to seek treble damages in the tenant's behalf, and protect the tenant from retaliation by restoring Federal control over evictions."

OHE cannot now act in an eviction case until the tenant has been ousted. Evictions now are govered by local laws.

The spokesman reported that Woods is satisfied with the working of the present decontrol machinery. Local rent advisory boards operate in each area to recommend whether the community should be kept under ceilings or freed from control. Woods has authority, after conducting his own investigation, to turn down a decontrol request.

"Definite Suspect" Held In Glen Burnie Killings

FERNDALE, Md., Nov. 9 (AP)—Anne Arundel County police announced today the arrest of a "definite suspect" in the killings of a young Glen Burnie, Md., couple almost two months ago.

The man, a negro, was said to have been in possession a pistol which fired bullets of the same caliber as those which killed Miss Mary Kline, 18, and her escort, John H. Mahlan, 25-year-old war veteran.

Police said the man is about 38 years old and lives in Marley, a short distance from the spot where Mahlan's bloodstained car was found September 18.

Authorities Comment

Authorities, when asked for comment on the arrest, said:

"It looks good."

In Annapolis, Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., said that "I feel right confident that we have come to the end" of the search for the killer of Miss Mary C. Kline, 18, and her escort, John H. Mahlan, 25-year-old war veteran.

The man was questioned about the case three weeks ago, then released. He was taken into custody again last night, police said, after they learned he had a gun.

The pistol was sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington.

Late today, Chief John H. Souers, Jr., of the county police force said, the FBI reported it was of the caliber to fire bullets of the type which killed the young couple.

Police said the bullets are of a caliber not unusual in foreign weapons but rare in American-made firearms.

Further studies are being made to determine if the markings of the death bullets correspond to those fired from the gun in question.

Suspect Denies Knowledge

Anne Arundel county officials said the man, under questioning, has denied any connection with the Mahlan-Kline case.

Miss Kline and Mahlan, good friends who went out together about once a week, left the girl's home on a date the night of September 17.

Their parents reported them missing when they did not return home that night. Mahlan's bullet-pierced car was found the next day, and their bodies were found two days later along a dead-end road

Elizabeth's Baby To Get Princely Title On Arrival

LONDON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth's baby will receive the title of Prince or Princess of Edinburgh and be addressed as "royal highness," King George VI said today.

The King's announcement, published in the London Gazette, changes a ruling by the King's father in World War I. Under that ruling, only children of the King or the King's sons were made princes of princesses. Children of a King's daughter, even if she were heiress to the throne as Elizabeth is, were not included.

Had it not been for the new decision, the baby expected to arrive at Buckingham Palace this weekend would be: only an earl if a boy, taking the title Earl of Merioneth from among those held by the father, Prince Philip. If a girl, the child would have been called Lady Mountbatten, taking her own christian name and the father's surname.

Grocers' Head Dies

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9 (AP)—Harry Wesley Walker, who organized the Retail Grocers' Association of Baltimore 25 years ago, died last night in his home at the age of 72. Walker also was instrumental in forming the Independent Grocers' and Meat Dealers' Association, a state-wide group.

World War Three Over For Ex-Wac Seeking 'Peace'

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (INS)—An ex-Chicago Wac who said life with her husband was a "small World War III" will celebrate this Armistice Day with a divorce.

The ex-Wac is Mrs. Frances Nielsen, 30. Her husband is Fred. She told a Circuit Court judge:

"When I came back from the was I looked forward to peace and comfort with my husband. Instead I found a small World War III. I want to celebrate this Armistice Day by getting rid of him."

The judge granted the divorce. Mrs. Nielsen waived alimony.

Dulles Charges Soviets Hold Up Case On Greeks

PARIS, Nov. 9 (AP) — American Delegate John Foster Dulles accused the Soviet Bloc tonight of trying to frustrate the United Nations Assembly with a filibuster in the Greek Case.

The Soviet Bloc heatedly denied the charge, but members of the assembly's 58-Nation Political Committee showed their impatience by clamping a 10-minute limit on all future speeches in the debate.

The vote to restrict the discussions was 42 to 1. Ales Bebler, Yugoslav delegate, cast the lone vote against the limit. He has spoken longer than any other delegate on the question.

Dulles spoke up after Bebler had demanded repeated roll call votes on almost every decision the committee made. For the past two days the committee has been moving slowly through a paragraph-by-paragraph vote on a resolution sponsored by the United States, Britain, France and China.

"Filibuster Apparent"

Dulles told the committee the filibustering tactics of the Slav minority had become apparent and said:

"If it (the filibustering) continues, it will frustrate the effectiveness of the General Assembly even more than the veto obstructs the Security Council."

Russia has used the veto 28 times in the Security Council and has been accused by some delegates of paralyzing the council.

Dulles said he was certain the committee would support any move the chairman, Premier Paul-Henri

Rioting Chinese Storm Food Shops

SHANGHAI, Nov. 9 (INS)—Rioting Chinese mobs stormed food shops and restaurants in Shanghai today in what was described as "the worst economic crisis in 100 years."

Police in armored cars roared through the streets answering calls from shopowners. But the hungry crowds seized whatever food they could lay hands on.

Serious deterioration of the currency situation, coupled with the determination of many shopkeepers to hoard merchandise until values are stabilized led to the crisis.

Silver Dollar Smiles

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 9 (AP)—A smile will be worth a dollar tomorrow in Pennsylvania's capital city. The local optimist club plans to hand out 1,000 silver dollars to the wearers of the brightest smiles in town in honor of "smile day."

Probe Of Commie Spies May Be Ended For Good

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (INS)—The House Un-American Activities Committee is expected to drop permanently its probe of alleged Communist spy rings in the government.

The indictment yesterday of its chairman, Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R) N. J., and the election defeat of two other Republicans on the committee, makes it unlikely that any activitiy of importance will be undertaken before January 3.

On that date, Democrats will take over control of the committee. Informed sources predicted today that they will steer the unit's work to new matters rather than to the unfinished business of a GOP-dominated committee.

Thomas was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury yesterday on charges of having conspired to defraud the United States Government through salary "kickbacks" of "dummy" employes. He was also accused in the indictment of having made false pay claims against the government.

Labor's League for Political Education, headed by AFL President William Green, demanded today that Thomas, Rep. O'Konski (R) Wis., and Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., be stopped "at the door" and prevented from taking their seats in the 81st Congress.

Sentiment among the few House members in Washington appeared to be against challenging the right of Thomas to his seat. One source predicted that the House would await the outcome of Thomas' trial.

The labor organization did not go into detail in demanding that O'Konski be kept from his seat. It repeated charges of a columnist that Ferguson benefited from financial transactions involving some Chrysler Corp. products.

An Un-American Activities Committee source predicted that the unit would drop not only its spy investigation but also fail to resume hearings on Communism in Hollywood and other promised probes.

Unfinished business of the committee includes the Hiss-Chambers controversy. It will likely be left to the courts to answer the question of whether Alger Hiss or Whittaker Chambers lied under oath.

Child With Year To Live Will Get Best Medical Care

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Medical Society today promised "the best the profession can offer" toward prolonging the life of an eight-year-old girl who has been given only a year to live.

Dr. Gilson Colby Engle, president of the society, said yesterday he had received a letter from the child's father, Edward J. Hickey, Jr., Pomeroy, Pa., begging for suggestions of "any scientific means" to help his daughter, Hope, a rheumatic fever victim.

Dr. Engle said he had mailed an immediate reply to the worried father.

Hickey, in his letter to Dr. Engle asked him to recommend "surgery or any other scientific means where even the slightest possibility of saving or prolonging the child's life exists."

"The chances of success, I know, are one in 999. However, for the sake of my child and all those who are or will be stricken, it is a chance that must be taken," Hickey wrote.

Gromyko Wins Award

LONDON, Nov. 9 (AP) — The Moscow radio said tonight Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko had been awarded the red banner of labor for "outstanding services rendered to the Soviet State in the diplomatic sphere."

Parents' Aid Is Sought In Smashing Football Lottery

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9 (AP)—States Attorney J. Bernard Wells today asked parents to come forward with information to help him smash football betting syndicates operating in high schools.

Vice squad operatives meantime arrested a second man charged with running a football pool.

He was identified as Myron (Fats) Scherer, 18, and released in $500 bond for a hearing before a magistrate on lottery charges.

Wells said he also would extend his inquiry into the city's parochial schools. He already has announced his intention of taking the results before the grand jury.

"This investigation is to discourage a vicious exploitation of children by racketeers," he declared.

"There are plenty who can give valuable information, and it remains to be seen whether they will stand idly by or come forward."

Surely, Wells said, parents must have considerable knowledge of their children's participation in the pools.

He conferred today with the principals of eleven public schools and some of them were questioned later by assistant state's attorneys

Wheeling Downs Official "Guilty" In Tax Evasion

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 9 (AP)—William G. Lias, president of Wheeling Downs, pleaded guilty in Northern District Federal Court here this afternoon to one of five counts of income tax evasion.

The other four counts were dropped after District Attorney C. Lee Spillers read a letter from Assistant U. S. Attorney General Theron L. Caudle.

The letter stated that it was the belief of the Justice Department "that a very substantial jail sentence should be imposed."

"This appears to be a very flagrant tax evasion case and should the judge ask a recommendation of you it is the belief of this office that a very substantial jail sentence should be imposed," Caudle's letter to Spillers read.

The letter added that it was the policy of the Treasury Department to drop other counts when a person entered a guilty plea to one of several charges in tax matters.

There was no indication when sentence would be imposed by Judge William E. Baker or whether a settlement offer had been made by Lias.

Lias was indicted last April. The government charged he evaded $903,000 worth of taxes between 1942 and 1946. The count to which he pleaded involved the alleged evasion of $117,000.

Lias was represented by Attorney Carl G. Galbraith, Wheeling.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Mr. Henny Youngman
c/o The Diamond Horseshoe
New York, N. Y.

Dear Henny

The other midnight I dropped in to see how your act was going over, and judging by what the "late" Dr. Gallup used to call "consumer reaction," you were doing fine. But down near the end of your turn something happened that worried me a little, and as an old admirer of yours, I think I ought to tell you about it.

As you undoubtedly remember, there was a bald-headed gent sitting at one of the ringside tables who had imbibed more than he could handle, and who heckled you several times. At the beginning you paid no attention to him, but after a while you did what every comedian does—you let him have it.

"That's a beautifu head of skin," you told him, "but the next time you order a toupee, get one with brains." And more of the same, including the oldie about his being so full of alcohol that if anybody gave him a hotfoot, he'd burn for three days.

• — • — •

Well, it wasn't much of a contest—it seldom is between the pro and the mateur—but when the befuddled customer finally paid his check and left, I heaved the well-known sigh of relief. I'm always jittery when a patron gets mad at one of my comedians, and perhaps it might not be a bad idea for me to tell you why. . . .

Back in 1909, a Chinese comic named Ah Hoon was playing at the famous little theatre down on Doyer Street, and to hear my laundryman tell it, he was a combination of Fred Allen, Milton Berle and yourself.

Ah Hoon, it seems, was a member of the On Leong tong, and night after night he needled the bigshots in the rival Hip Sing tong which was competing with his own outfit for the neighborhood opium trade. Not only did the Cantonese cut-up crack wise about the Hit Singers' ancestors and table manners, but he also impugned the quality of the honorable nose candy they were peddling, and this, of course, was very bad for business.

• — • — •

Naturally enough, the Hip Singers didn't relish having their tong kicked around, and so they sent a Rev. Huie Kim, head of the Morning Star Mission, to warn the comic that a lot of his blood would wind up where he wasn't unless he went easy on the ad libs. But Ah Hoon, who was all ham a li wide, only laughed and said, "I'm an artist, sir, and no one can interfere with my God-given prerogative to create as the mood and the malice move me."

When this was relayed back to the Hip Singers, they took a vote and decided that Ah Hoon's next playing date would be Keith's Celestial. And, forthwith, word was sent to the comic's housekeeper to serve him her best dinner December 30th because it was going to be his last. The lady passed this information on to the police, but having little faith in our constbulary, on the appointed evening she fed Ah Hoon everything from egg drop soup to lichee nuts.

By curtain time on the 30th, it was standing-room-only on Doyer Street, word having sifted through the back alleys that Ah Hoon was going to be killed onstage. But thanks to the uniformed policemen who were stationed throughout the audience, the death scene didn't come off.

• — • — •

Right after the show, Sergeant Coughlin escorted the frightened funnyman through an underground passage to his boarding house on Chatham Square, and carefully examined his bedroom. Seeing as how the room was on the fourth floor and its only window faced a blank wall, he informed Ah Hoon that he would be perfectly safe if he kept his door locked.

That night, armed guards of the On Leong tong were stationed in the tunnel, in front of the house and in the hallways to protect the comedian during the night, and others patrolled the streets of Chinatown, their eyes peeled and their hatchets primed.

Nevertheless, next morning Ah Hoon's body was found with a little red hole drilled neatly between the shoulder blades.

The police were stymied until a few weeks later when a building burned down in near-by Pell Street. In the wreckage, an alert policeman found a bo'sun's chair with long ropes attached to its rattan-covered arms.

• — • — •

When Sergeant Coughlin heard about the bo'sun's chair, he knew how Ah Hoon had been killed: His enemies had lowered a man down the side of the blank wall facing his bedroom, and for hours the murderer had waited in the dark, suspended in mid-air, until the comedian got up to go to the washroom in the hall. The gas light in the hall outlined Ah Hoon's figure when he opened the door, and the killer shot only once, piercing the comic's heart from the back.

"Find the best shot in Chinatown," Coughlin instructed his detectives, "and the crime is solved."

But it never was because in those days almost everyone in Chinatown was a good shot . . .

And that, my dear Henry, is what happened to one comedian who got a little too gay with the customers. I'm not suggesting that you stop sticking pins and puns into hecklers who try to break up your act, but for the duration of your contract, I would appreciate it if you would refrain from getting up in the middle of the night—no matter how bad your hands need washing.

But down near the end of your turn something happened that worried me a little, and as an old admirer of yours, I think I ought to tell you about it.

Billy Rose

As you undoubtedly remember, there was a bald-headed gent sitting at one of the ringside tables who had imbibed more than he could handle, and who heckled you several times. At the beginning you paid no attention to him, but after a while you did what every comedian does—you let him have it.

"That's a beautiful head of skin," you told him, "but the next time you order a toupee, get one with brains." And more of the same, including the oldie about his being so full of alcohol that if anybody gave him a hotfoot, he'd burn for three days.

Well, it wasn't much of a contest—it seldom is between the pro and the mateur—but when the befuddled customer finally paid his check and left, I heaved the well-known sigh of relief. I'm always jittery when a patron gets mad at one of my comedians, and perhaps it might not be a bad idea for me to tell you why. . . .

Back in 1909, a Chinese comic named Ah Hoon was playing at the famous little theatre down on Doyer Street, and to hear my laundryman tell it, he was a combination of Fred Allen, Milton Berle and yourself.

Ah Hoon, it seems, was a member of the On Leong tong, and night after night he needled the bigshots in the rival Hip Sing tong which was competing with his own outfit for the neighborhood opium trade. Not only did the Cantonese cut up crack wise about the Hit Singers' ancestors and table manners, but he also impugned the quality of the honorable nose candy they were peddling, and this, of course, was very bad for business.

Naturally enough, the Hip Singers didn't relish having their tong kicked around, and so they sent a Rev. Huie Kim, head of the Morning Star Mission, to warn the comic that a lot of his blood would wind up where he wasn't unless he went easy on the ad libs. But Ah Hoon, who was all ham a li wide, only laughed and said, "I'm an artist, sir, and no one can interfere with my God-given prerogative to create as the mood and the malice move me."

When this was relayed back to the Hip Singers, they took a vote and decided that Ah Hoon's next playing date would be Keith's Celestial. And, forthwith, word was sent to the comic's housekeeper to serve him her best dinner December 30th because it was going to be his last. The lady passed this information on to the police, but having little faith in our constbulary, on the appointed evening she fed Ah Hoon everything from egg drop soup to lichee nuts.

By curtain time on the 30th, it was standing-room-only on Doyer Street, word having sifted through the back alleys that Ah Hoon was going to be killed onstage. But thanks to the uniformed policemen who were stationed throughout the audience, the death scene didn't come off.

Right after the show, Sergeant Coughlin escorted the frightened funnyman through an underground passage to his boarding house on Chatham Square, and carefully examined his bedroom. Seeing as how the room was on the fourth floor, and its only window faced a blank wall, he informed Ah Hoon that he would be perfectly safe if he kept his door locked.

That night, armed guards of the On Leong tong were stationed in the tunnel, in front of the house and in the hallways to protect the comedian during the night, and others patrolled the streets of Chinatown, their eyes peeled and their hatchets primed.

Nevertheless, next morning Ah Hoon's body was found with a little red hole drilled neatly between the shoulder blades.

The police were stymied until a few weeks later when a building burned down in near-by Pell Street. In the wreckage, an alert policeman found a bo'sun's chair with long ropes attached to its rattan-covered arms.

When Sergeant Coughlin heard about the bo'sun's chair, he knew how Ah Hoon had been killed: His enemies had lowered a man down the side of the blank wall facing his bedroom, and for hours the murderer had waited in the dark, suspended in mid-air, until the comedian got up to go to the washroom in the hall. The gas light in the hall outlined Ah Hoon's figure when he opened the door, and the killer shot only once, piercing the comic's heart from the back.

"Find the best shot in Chinatown," Coughlin instructed his detectives, "and the crime is solved."

But it never was because in those days almost everyone in Chinatown was a good shot . . .

And that, my dear Henry, is what happened to one comedian who got a little too gay with the customers. I'm not suggesting that you stop sticking pins and pins into hecklers who try to break up your act, but for the duration of your contract, I would appreciate it if you would refrain from getting up in the middle of the night—no matter how bad your hands need washing.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

That Eightieth Congress is going down in history. And never coming up again.

It refused to play ball with Truman and Harry kicked it around a forty-acre lot. Proving that every president of the United States has a chance to be a boy again.

•—•—•

It fought Harry out to the fifth decimal point on everything because it didn't want to make a Democratic executive look good. That's happened before in American politics

They say I'm about the only commentator who straddled the issue. That's easy for a man who was born bow-legged. But I'll be honest about it. I was as surprised as the chicken that hatched in the egg-beater.

Traffic Check Plan Approved By Mayor And Council

At a conference yesterday, the Mayor and Council approved a traffic survey, designed to make the city eligible for federal and state aid and give an overall picture of the city's traffic problems.

Approval of the traffic survey followed an informal discussion of proposed street paving projects and their cost. Under the law, the survey would make the city eligible to receive state and federal aid amounting to 50 per cent of cost on its street projects.

Cost of the survey would also be shared. The overall cost is expected to be in the neighborhood of $17,000 with the city paying approximately $4,000, and the remainder to be paid by the federal government and state. As explained at a conference here in July, the survey cost is prorated, 25 per cent to the city, 25 per cent to the state and 50 per cent federal.

When the survey will actually start depends on when state officials can come here for a conference. Mayor Thomas S. Post said he will write to state officials and ask them to come here at an early date.

In July, George N. Lewis, Jr., of the State Roads Commission, and F. W. Lovejoy, of the Public Roads Administration, met with the Mayor and Council to point out the advantages of the survey. At that time, the group agreed that parking and narrow streets are the city's chief problems.

Yesterday the possibility of transferring Route 220 to Frederick Street from Bedford Street was broached. The possibility of having outgoing traffic use Frederick and incoming traffic on Bedford Street was also discussed.

The latter project is regarded as standing a good chance for federal funds if Frederick Street is widened at certain points.

Lewis told the council in July that the purpose of the survey is not to make suggestions but to determine the flow of traffic. To determine where the flow is heaviest motorists are stopped and asked where they are going and over what route.

Local street improvements do not enter into the state and federal aid possibility, that phase being designed to aid the flow of foreign travel which would, in turn, relieve congestion in the city.

The survey approved by the council yesterday will take about three weeks. Police will be needed to stop motorists. In addition to five or six local officers, approximately 36 persons would be employed under five or six supervisors from the State Roads Commission.

Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said that if federal and state aid is obtained on the street projects, there will be no need for bond issues. State gasoline allocations will be sufficient to cover the cost, he said.

State Education Head Visits County Schools

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, is one of three top State Department of Education officials who have been in the county for two days on a professional visit, according to Superintendent of Schools Charles L. Kopp.

Also in the group were assistant State Superintendent John J. Seidel, and Dr. Floyd Cromwell, director of guidance for the State Department of Education.

Seidel was taken on an inspection tour Monday that included the Allegany Trade School, a vocational training school for veterans on Pace Street. Kopp said Seidel was impressed by the courses offered there and termed it "the best in the state."

Superintendent Pullen, Seidel and Cromwell were to visit the school again yesterday.

Let's Get On With Task Of Banishing City Smoke

By failing to approve the appointment of a deputy director of smoke control, members of the City Council have further delayed honest and sincere enforcement of Cumberland's ordinance. The appointment was sought by Mayor Post but his order was delayed one week, at least, when Commissioner Reynolds questioned the necessity of naming an assistant to Director Hitchcock.

Probably Mr. Reynolds, as well as other members of Council, desired a little time to consider the matter, and that the appointment may be forthcoming at the next meeting of the Council. But the tossing of such obstacles in the way of a start toward full enforcement of the law should not be continued. To do so could very well lead to the conclusion that efforts to cleanse the Cumberland air are not to receive the wholehearted support of city officials.

If it were possible for the director of the smoke control ordinance to give his undivided attention to its enforcement there might be some basis for Commissioner Reynolds's comment. But it should be remembered that Director Hitchcock was brought here primarily as water superintendent and that the smoke control task was an added responsibility. To expect him to give both jobs the efficient attention they require, without the aid of a capable assistant, is quite unreasonable. One or the other, or both, will suffer and the desired results shall not be forthcoming. Both are vital to the health and welfare of the community and the people of Cumberland will not tolerate neglect of either. The delays toward smoke control have been too many, but now that the organization for carrying out the ordinance has about been completed the City Council should not further hamstring those who have been delegated the task of getting on with its enforcement.

Cumberland is not the only city to demand that greater efforts be made to harness smoke, grime and soot. New York's Mayor O'Dwyer is preparing a concerted drive for smoke abatement, while Baltimore residents are asking why better results are not being obtained under that city's anti-smoke ordinance. Proof that concerted action can secure smoke control has been furnished by a number of cities, the most recent being Pittsburgh, where results have been substantial, even startling.

Risking the chance of being branded alarmists, we feel that attention should be called to the tragedy which befell Donora, Pennsylvania, when toxic "smog" brought death to 19 persons. While the charge has been made that the air was poisoned by chemicals thrown off by an industrial plant, that fact has not yet been fully established. But the fact that something in the air was responsible for that tragedy is not denied, and it is warning enough that it could happen here.

It is not enough to move in on a situation after people begin to complain. The cause should be removed or curtailed once and for all and those responsible for contaminating the air should be required to cease practices which lead to it. Anti-smoke ordinances have become a necessity for every industrial community. These actually are anti-pollution ordinances, for most of them regulate fumes and dusts as well as smoke. Cumberland is fortunate to have one on its statute books. But it isn't worth the paper it is written on unless it is enforced. The Mayor and City Council should open the way by helping, rather than obstructing, a start toward that goal.

With election post mortems out of the way, the old reliable war in China is back in the news, and what Vishinsky says to the boys in Paris appears on the front page.

Honor The Living By Wearing A Forget-Me-Not

We can do nothing for those who made the supreme sacrifice in the wartime service of our country. But we can do honor to their memory by helping those who returned with wounds and permanent handicaps.

The opportunity to do this presents itself this week while the Disabled American Veterans organization conducts its annual Forget-Me-Not drive. Little blue flowers of remembrance are being sold on the streets by volunteers who have been enlisted in the great cause of aiding the service-handicapped. The sale is most timely in that it falls during Flower Week.

The funds obtained during this week-long campaign are to be used by the DAV to provide a free service to disabled veterans and their families, as well as the widows of all war veterans. This service covers the presentation of claims for government benefits. It means counselling and rehabilitation work. It means help in finding suitable employment for our disabled veterans.

The memories of war are beginning to dim. Wear a Forget-Me-Not and remember those who gave the most.

One explanation of Truman's victory is that the customary seven per cent listed as having no opinion finally went to the polls—oops!—voting booths.

As Europe Sees Our National Election

Still blinking over the unheralded outcome of the national election, Americans note with interest the reaction of Europeans. Three things stand out. The first is that now, as never before, Europe is vitally concerned with an American presidential election, and with reason. The second is that, in western Europe, general satisfaction is felt—or at least—that there will be no change of administrations, and inferentially of policies, including that which bears Mr. Truman's name. The third is that Socialists seek to discern similarities between the objectives of the winning party and their own programs abroad.

From behind the Iron Curtain come expressions that do not need a grain of salt. The Communists are very sore. They felt that Henry Wallace was carrying their banner. Some of them may even have thought he might win. Out of a total vote a little in excess of of 47,000,000 he polled a little more than 1,000,000.

"Ten of millions," say the Budapest papers, abstained from voting "in consequence of terror and fraud." Those are new names for overconfidence here on the part of what may have been millions of voters!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Tenacious Shingles

Dr. Van Dellen

Any one who has encountered a siege of herpes zoster (shingles) will agree that the disease is far from pleasant and occasionally it produces disability. This is true particularly in older individuals who suffer not only during the acute stage but are often left with painful neuralgia for weeks or months thereafter. Most victims are in this age group, although children and young people are not necessarily immune.

A virus is responsible for the malady. No one knows where the organism enters the body but it is believed to settle in the spinal cord, near the exit of a certain nerve. This site is close to the spot where the polio virus does its damage. For this reason, some authorities call herpes zoster "acute posterior poliomyelitis" in contrast to infantile paralysis, which is acute anterior poliomyelitis. The two disorders are caused by related organisms which settle in an area less than one-half inch apart and bring on symtoms that are entirely different. Moreover, the causative virus of shingles is identical with that producing chicken pox and many instances have been recorded in which an adult exposed to a youngster with chicken pox developed shingles and vice versa.

Herpes zoster is not difficult to diagnose after the typical rash occurs. But the victim is usually ill for three or four days before the blemishes arise and it is during this period that physician and patient are frequently at a loss as to what is wrong. The temperature is generally elevated, the individual feels fatigued and is botherd with neuralgialike pains over the involved nerves. Sooner or later, painful and tender blisters make their appearance along the line extending from the origin of the nerve in the back around to the front. The lesions last for a few days, rupture, and a crust forms over the remaining sores. The latter fall off ultimately, leaving scars as telltale evidence of the disease.

Any nerve can be attacked but when the structures leading to the eyes are involved, the condition is dangerous. The affected area is exquisitely tender and now and then discomfort persists long after the skin manifestations disappear. The ailment favors the overworked and the ill, often complicating leucemia, influenza, encephalitis, tuberculosis, and malignancies. Also susceptible are individuals who are receiving "shots" of arsenic, bismuth, gold, iodides, etc., but it is not clear whether a relationship exists between the two or the affair is coincidental.

In most cases, distress can be controlled with pain-killing drugs and by applying a soothing salve or lotion such as calamine with phenol. Flexible collodion forms a protective coating over the blisters, which lessens irritation. Every attempt should be made to keep the eruption dry as healing is thus encouraged. If this regimen is unsuccessful, many other remedies are available including cobra venom, X-ray therapy, injections of pituitary extract, and sodium iodide. Large amounts of vitamin B (thiamin chloride) have proved helpful. Procaine can be injected into the nerve but since relief is usually temporary, this treatment must be repeated from time to time. The residual pains which plague some sufferers for months or years are not easy to control and, as a last resort, surgery may be required.

Truman Holds Serious Post-Election Cabinet Session; Navy Chief Makes Killing On Truman "Hunch;" National Cat Week Honors Man's Good Friend

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—President Truman's first cabinet meeting after the election was no backslapping affair. It was a sober, down-to-business, back-to-work session.

Only humorous note came as the stragglers were filing in, when Vice President-elect Alben Barkley told about an incident occurring at a Kentucky political rally. When the chairman announced there would be a two-minute wait before going on the air, someone piped up:

"I would like to take the two minutes to say a prayer for the Democratic Party."

President Truman did virtually all the talking at the cabinet meeting and finished in less than fifteen minutes. He asked his cabinet to go to work on a future program which would put campaign promises into action. He said:

"I want you fellows to get your programs in shape for discussion immediately, because we've got to present them to Congress when it reconvenes."

Significantly the President gave no hint of firing anyone from the cabinet. He talked about his long-range program as if everyone present would take part. Only Secretary of State Marshall, now in Paris, did not attend. The man with the least to say was Dewey's friend, Secretary of Defense Forrestal, who didn't let out a peep.

Union Pacific Runs State Department

Truman advisers were discussing changes in the State Department. Donald Dawson of the White House staff remarked that Averell Harriman had been suggested as Secretary of State.

Remarked Clark Clifford: "One Union Pacific man in four years is enough."

(He referred to Undersecretary of State Bob Lovett who embarrassed Truman so frequently during the campaign. Lovett is a partner in Brown Brothers, Harriman and Co., while Ambassador Harriman owns a large part of the Union Pacific.)

He Bet on Truman

One man who didn't go wrong on the election was Navy Chief Francisco Regacho, aide to Adm. Louis Denfeld. Regacho backed up his hunch on Truman with cash and won $1,500.

"I was in the Navy six years under the Republicans," explains Regacho, "and I couldn't get promoted beyond 1st class. But under the Democrats I got to be chief. Naturally I bet on my friends. Also I knew my boss, Admiral Denfeld, was for Truman."

Pearson's Cat

Now that the election is over and we can worry about other things, I am reminded that this is National Cat Week, and that, thanks to my friend, Bascom Timmons, I am chairman of National Cat Week.

Behind that shrewd political visage of his, Mr. Timmons has a tender heart and a fondness for cats. He promoted National Cat Week last year, and, without consulting me in advance, got me appointed chairman for 1948.

Perhaps I should admit, however, that it was not so much Bascom, but my cat cinder that got me into this.

Cinder sits on my desk when I am writing a column and acts as unofficial censor. As far as I know she cannot read, but she has uncanny instinct. For when I heave a brickbat in the direction of Bascom's boss, Jesse Jones, Cinder purrs with pleasure. But if I want to start writing anything critical about her friend, Harry Truman, she stages a sitdown strike on the paper and won't move until I pry her loose.

Cinder is pure black—hence her name. Actually Cinder belongs to my daughter. When she was a small kitten my daughter took such a fancy to her that she insisted on taking her away to school and kept her there for a term.

Later my daughter graduated to other things and has been kept busy with a husband and son, so I have inherited Cinder.

While I realize that some people don't like cats, I would like to call their attention to the fact that the No. 1 enemy of our grain crop is rats. If the rats in our farm areas were eliminated, enough grain could be saved to feed all the people who starve in China.

And in cities, the rats carry more disease and filth than most of us realize. So, even if you don't like cats, remember—this week and all other weeks—that they are one of man's best friends in counteracting one of man's worst enemies.

Canadian Air Arsenal

The joint chiefs of staff in cooperation with the British have decided to make Canada the arsenal of the British air forces. Factories will be set up in Canada shortly to turn out jet bombers and transports plus a special Arctic jet fighter.

American aircraft companies have agreed to provide their technical "know-how" and help supervise production. Britain's famous jet fighters will still be made in England though later transferred in part to Canadian factories. As the first step in putting this plan into operation, Fairchild aircraft will permit its noted transport, known as the workhorse of the airways, to be manufactured in Canada under a special licensing system.

The U. S. Army and Air Forces enthusiastically approve of the idea for two reasons: 1. It will disperse the highly vulnerable British aircraft industry; and 2. boost production of fighters and bombers in the western hemisphere.

French Commie Crisis

The American embassy this week quashed a secret plan to bring Communists into the French government.

French Socialist leaders had quietly suggested the move as one way of stopping the Communist-led coal strikes now threatening French recovery. But American Ambassador Jefferson Caffery got wind of the deal, went to see Foreign Minister Schuman and solemnly warned him every nickel in Marshall Plan help would be shut off if this happened.

Schuman, who was against the idea anyway, agreed to talk to his colleagues. Using the threat of American disapproval as a weapon, Schuman succeeded in convincing French politicians to drop the whole idea—at least for the time being.

However, the American embassy fears an attempt to revive the plan later, especially if the Communists continue to order strikes in vital French industries.

Nothing Conclusive In Vote Congress Has Labor Mandate

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—President Truman owes his election to the farm vote and not the labor vote. Examination of the returns from those districts where supporters of the Taft-Hartley law were elected or defeated, as the case may be, reveals that, despite gains made by the Democrats in seats for the House of Representatives, Dewey captured the electoral votes in industrial states.

Likewise, it shows that the remainder of the Taft-Hartley Act supporters were in predominantly agricultural states where the labor vote in the districts affected has in most instances never been a controlling factor.

Not a single Democrat who had voted for the Taft-Hartley law was defeated, whereas three Republicans who voted against the law, and were thus on labor's side, failed of re-election—one in New York state, one in the state of Washington and one in Wisconsin.

In the states with the big electoral votes—the industrial states—carried by Dewey, the Republicans lost 27 who had voted for the Taft-Hartley Act. Many of these Republicans were in districts normally Democratic which had gone over to the Republican Party in November 1946 by a narrow margin.

Division of Lost Seats

Out of the 64 Republican members who lost their seats and who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act, there were 27 in the Dewey states and 37 in the Truman states in the west and north.

The electoral votes of these Truman states were not enough to win the election for Mr. Truman without the regular Democratic states in the south and the states carried by Thurmond. For virtually all the Democratic members of the House of Representatives who were re-elected from the south had voted for the Taft-Hartley Act.

The 37 congressional seats which the Republicans lost in the Truman states were spread out over the agricultural states, and it will be noted that with one or two exceptions, the majority of the delegation to the House from each state were supporters of the Taft-Hartley Act with few exceptions.

The box score of results based solely on how the Taft-Hartley Act supporters fared in the states carried by Truman is as follows:

	Seats Won	Seats Lost
California	11	3
Colorado	2	1
Idaho	1	1
Illinois	10	3
Iowa	7	0
Kentucky	3	1
Massachusetts	7	1
Minnesota	5	3
Missouri	1	8
Nevada	0	1
Ohio	9	8
Oklahoma	3	1
Utah	0	1
Washington	2	0
West Virginia	0	4
Wisconsin	6	1
Wyoming	1	0

Percentage of Defeated

Thus it will be seen that out of all the states whose electoral votes Truman carried, there are only three states where the majority of the Taft-Hartley Act supporters in the respective delegations of those states were defeated. When it can be shown that the congressional supporters of the Taft-Hartley Act elected outnumbered the members defeated in 18 states in the west and north carried by Truman, it certainly cannot be persuasively argued that the labor vote won the election for Mr. Truman in those 18 western and northern states

The big vote that was gotten out in districts where the labor unions organized the precincts developed largely in the industrial states where Mr. Dewey won the electoral votes. Certainly Iowa, which re-elected all its supporters of the Taft-Hartley law and yet gave its electoral vote to Truman, is a case in point.

It was the drop-off of the Republican vote in the farm states carried by Truman which turned the election. This, incidentally explains one reason why the polls on the general election as well as prophesies by campaign managers went wrong—the farm areas are hard to canvass because of the distance between farms and the uncertainty as to what proportion of the vote will go to the polls if the weather is inclement.

As for the Taft-Hartley Act repeal or modification, there certainly is nothing conclusive in the election returns to show that the majority of the people have given Congress a mandate on this question.

Pollsters Overlooked Basic Factors At Work Against Them

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

A twenty to one bet came through. Truman, the man the Democrats were afraid to nominate, was the man the Republicans could not defeat! The President won in a "Gallup." Gallup, Roper and Crossley, and News Week, whose fifty newspaper writers predicted Dewey 50 to 0, and all the other pollsters and dopesters—are their faces red? It looks like another Literary Digest with political indigestion.

But the Democratic bosses — Hague, Arvey of Chicago, O'Dwyer of New York, Jimmy Roosevelt, etc., were also sure Truman couldn't win. All the "experts" were wrong. How much attention will Truman pay to them?

Generalities Don't Ring Bells

When will the G.O.P. find out that it can't win with carbon copies of an original? Landon and Willkie had made that clear. Dewey was for public health, public housing, mor social security paid in 50c dollars, higher minimum wage, price supports, civil rights, and bigger appropriations than even the Democrats had poured into Western states. After copying the New Deal with such proposals, you can't win with such slogans as "It's time for a change," or "Unity." These generalities don't ring church bells. Not once did Dewey attempt to mobilize the 70,000,000 life insurance policyholders and all the thrifty middle class folks whose savings are being melted away by a flood of cheap money poured out by profligate politicians.

Dewey should have gone to more prize fights and seen how the crowd is always on the side of the guy who bores in, and never for the back pedaler.

But it is unfair to put too much blame on Dewey and Warren. Basic factors were at work against them which the poll-takers did not appraise. If Dewey had won, he would have been the first Presidential candidate to win after first being defeated. Truman, on the other hand, was making his first fight on his own.

Second, if elected this would have been the first time in history that a national administration had been defeated in time of war—cold or hot. We are still legally at war—with the big peace treaties unsigned.

Vote To Leave Well Enough Alone

Third, if Dewey had won, it would have been the first time a national administration had been ousted from office in boom times. An apparent exception was 1912 when Taft, in time of great prosperity, was defeated. But because of the Bull Moose split Wilson was able to win with only 42% of the total votes.

Two of the country's best statisticians, F. A. Pearson and W. I. Myers of Cornell University, on July 15, published an analysis, "Prices and Presidents," which showed conclusively that when the prices are high, farmers prosperous, labor fully employed at high wages, and business making profits, the majority voted to leave well enough alone and never voted out the President in power.

And, finally, the "payroll vote"—2,000,000 federal job-holders, with relatives and friends—8,000,000 votes! Governor Maw of Utah (Democrat) raised the question whether the federal political machine, like the smaller machines in the cities, will not soon be so overwhelmingly strong that it cannot be overcome. As the Dunn Survey pointed out, leading Republicans looked forward to building up and benefitting from such a payroll vote once they were in power. Again, more carbon copies, more "me-too."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE SHOCK of a fifth defeat in as many elections leaves the Republican Party the minority party. The gains of 1946 have been eradicated. The high hopes of June have become despair in November.

Many alibis are being offered, but alibis do not provide the leadership for the country whose political structure is based upon the two-party system. Were the Republican Party to disappear, a second national party would automatically take its place—perhaps to the left of the Truman Democrats.

However, the Republicans polled more than 20 million votes and the actual margin in the popular vote was narrow. Obviously, the polls lulled the Republicans into a false security; they were too sure of themselves; many of them did not even come out to vote.

All this is history now and its repetition serves no purpose other than to indicate several facts:

1. A party must have a positive program on domestic and foreign issues. Its program cannot be bipartisan or nonpartisan, or general or inconsequential without sounding like a false tenor in a "Sweet Adeline" chorus.

2. Principles, not polls, must be the guide. There are no sure things in American politics, because the American votes or does not vote as an individual. Bloc voting, in this election, is only evident in one group, the northern Negro. Whereas it was anticipated that the northern Negro would vote for Henry Wallace, he voted for Truman. On August 31, I wrote:

"There is another danger for them (the Negroes) in Wallace, namely, that he is smeared with the Communist tar brush by association. The Negro leaders might be smeared with the same brush by association with him. Therefore, a notable reversion from Wallace is now occurring . . ."

A party that functions by polls and not by principles for which they will sacrifice to death has no reason for existence. A party that only lives to get in—has no reason for getting in.

3. It is, therefore, generally beneficial that the polls have been discredited in the popular mind. Before national politics became scientific by depending upon polls, data was gathered from the grass roots, from local politicians who knew their own people, their wants, their needs, their insistences.

The Republicans were so sure of themselves that they not only avoided the judgment of the local politicians but they instructed them how to handle local situations. Whereas politics is an art, they tried to make it a science, and science as a rule is on its way but does not know where it is going. It is motion without direction.

Let me cite an example: In the Bronx in New York City, there is one Congressional district which, by all local judgment, the Republicans could have carried. That is the West Bronx, including the Riverdale region. For no reason which anyone living there can understand, a deal was made up the line by which the Republicans endorsed a Democratic member of Congress, Charles A. Buckley, whose attendance and voting record is particularly bad.

The result is that in that district there was no Republican campaign. The Republicans showed no interest, no enthusiasm, and many did not vote. The local organization is now shot.

4. A political party must understand population shifts. It must understand that if a man dies of old age and no young man takes his place, the party has lost a voter and possibly a worker. The Republican Party has made no effort to attract youth to itself. It uses hackneyed methods to recruit supporters. Too many Republican politicians — particularly lawyers — have become accustomed to living on bipartisan crumbs in the form of municipal, state and even national jobs and references. Too many of them are making a good living out of muted opposition on a bipartisan basis. Too many of them, therefore, are unwilling to fight hard and to hit hard in a campaign.

The Republican Party has proved, in the year of its best opportunity, that it lacks resilience, is incapable of giving vitality to its domestic and foreign policies, of organizing for political action on a grass-roots level.

It needs correctly to analyze the causes for its defeat. The time for analysis, understanding and leadership is now, not in 1952.

Today's Talk

Troubles

Not in this world, at least, will any of us ever be without his own troubles. And since we are all in the same boat as regards them, we can only decide to handle them with patience and intelligence, trying to keep most of them in the infant class, not allowing them to reach adulthood!

Edward Everett Hale once wrote: "Never bear more than one trouble at a time. Some people bear three kinds: all they have ever had, all they have now, and all they expect to have." That's compounding them!

Even when only handling one trouble at a time, the aim should be not to allow it to get too important. Troubles are temporary affairs. They become permanent only when invited to become so. On the other hand, we are all inheritors of them to a greater or lesser extent. Handling them is the problem! And it is the way we handle our problems that makes them seem either big or little.

We wouldn't amount to much if we never had troubles. Troubles emphasize character. They are a test of patience, of self-mastery, and courage. There are even those who thrive on them! But what teachers these troubles are! They teach us to be kindly, tolerant, and magnanimous.

Troubles are personal property. No one else wants them. Even the old earth shies away from them, for, as Ella Wheeler Wilcox wrote:

"For the sad old earth must borrow its mirth,
But has trouble enough of its own."

Troubles and struggles, however, are what have made the great of this earth, and inspired them to persist and create, no matter what, come what may. All worth while of the earth have been those who went through trouble after trouble. Even Columbus had a mutiny on his hands, but sailed on, and on, and on. The world is full of troubles today. But time, patience and an unfaltering faith will melt most of them away.

Let's Get On With Task Of Banishing City Smoke

By failing to approve the appointment of a deputy director of smoke control, members of the City Council have further delayed honest and sincere enforcement of Cumberland's ordinance. The appointment was sought by Mayor Post but his order was delayed one week, at least, when Commissioner Reynolds questioned the necessity of naming an assistant to Director Hitchcock.

Probably Mr. Reynolds, as well as other members of Council, desired a little time to consider the matter, and that the appointment may be forthcoming at the next meeting of the Council. But the tossing of such obstacles in the way of a start toward full enforcement of the law should not be continued. To do so could very well lead to the conclusion that efforts to cleanse the Cumberland air are not to receive the wholehearted support of city officials.

If it were possible for the director of the smoke control ordinance to give his undivided attention to its enforcement there might be some basis for Commissioner Reynolds's comment. But it should be remembered that Director Hitchcock was brought here primarily as water superintendent and that the smoke control task was an added responsibility. To expect him to give both jobs the efficient attention they require, without the aid of a capable assistant, is quite unreasonable. One or the other, or both, will suffer and the desired results shall not be forthcoming. Both are vital to the health and welfare of the community and the people of Cumberland will not tolerate neglect of either. The delays toward smoke control have been too many, but now that the organization for carrying out the ordinance has about been completed the City Council should not further hamstring those who have been delegated the task of getting on with its enforcement.

Cumberland is not the only city to demand that greater efforts be made to harness smoke, grime and soot. New York's Mayor O'Dwyer is preparing a concerted drive for smoke abatement, while Baltimore residents are asking why better results are not being obtained under that city's anti-smoke ordinance. Proof that concerted action can secure smoke control has been furnished by a number of cities, the most recent being Pittsburgh, where results have been substantial, even startling.

Risking the chance of being branded alarmists, we feel that attention should be called to the tragedy which befell Donora, Pennsylvania, when toxic "smog" brought death to 19 persons. While the charge has been made that the air was poisoned by chemicals thrown off by an industrial plant, that fact has not yet been fully established. But the fact that something in the air was responsible for that tragedy is not denied, and it is warning enough that it could happen here.

It is not enough to move in on a situation after people begin to complain. The cause should be removed or curtailed once and for all and those responsible for contaminating the air should be required to cease practices which lead to it. Anti-smoke ordinances have become a necessity for every industrial community. These actually are anti-pollution ordinances, for most of them regulate fumes and dusts as well as smoke. Cumberland is fortunate to have one on its statute books. But it isn't worth the paper it is written on unless it is enforced. The Mayor and City Council should open the way by helping, rather than obstructing, a start toward that goal.

With election post mortems out of the way, the old reliable war in China is back in the news, and what Vishinsky says to the boys in Paris appears on the front page.

Honor The Living By Wearing A Forget-Me-Not

We can do nothing for those who made the supreme sacrifice in the wartime service of our country. But we can do honor to their memory by helping those who returned with wounds and permanent handicaps.

The opportunity to do this presents itself this week while the Disabled American Veterans organization conducts its annual Forget-Me-Not drive. Little blue flowers of remembrance are being sold on the streets by volunteers who have been enlisted in the great cause of aiding the service-handicapped. The sale is most timely in that it falls during Flower Week.

The funds obtained during this week-long campaign are to be used by the DAV to provide a free service to disabled veterans and their families, as well as the widows of all war veterans. This service covers the presentation of claims for government benefits. It means counselling and rehabilitation work. It means help in finding suitable employment for our disabled veterans.

The memories of war are beginning to dim. Wear a Forget-Me-Not and remember those who gave the most.

One explanation of Truman's victory is that the customary seven per cent listed as having no opinion finally went to the polls—oops!—voting booths.

As Europe Sees Our National Election

Still blinking over the unheralded outcome of the national election, Americans note with interest the reaction of Europeans. Three things stand out. The first is that now, as never before, Europe is vitally concerned with an American presidential election, and with reason. The second is that, in western Europe, general satisfaction is felt—or at least—that there will be no change of administrations, and inferentially of policies, including that which bears Mr. Truman's name. The third is that Socialists seek to discern similarities between the objectives of the winning party and their own programs abroad.

From behind the Iron Curtain come expressions that do not need a grain of salt. The Communists are very sore. They felt that Henry Wallace was carrying their banner. Some of them may even have thought he might win. Out of a total vote a little in excess of of 47,000,000 he polled a little more than 1,000,000.

"Ten of millions," say the Budapest papers, abstained from voting "in consequence of terror and fraud." Those are new names for overconfidence here on the part of what may have been millions of voters!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Tenacious Shingles

Any one who has encountered a siege of herpes zoster (shingles) will agree that the disease is far from pleasant and occasionally it produces disability. This is true particularly in older individuals who suffer not only during the acute stage but are often left with painful neuralgia for weeks or months thereafter. Most victims are in this age group, although children and young people are not necessarily immune.

Dr. Van Dellen

A virus is responsible for the malady. No one knows where the organism enters the body but it is believed to settle in the spinal cord, near the exit of a certain nerve. This site is close to the spot where the polio virus does its damage. For this reason, some authorities call herpes zoster "acute posterior poliomyelitis" in contrast to infantile paralysis, which is acute anterior poliomyelitis. The two disorders are caused by related organisms which settle in an area less than one-half inch apart and bring on symtoms that are entirely different. Moreover, the causative virus of shingles is identical with that producing chicken pox and many instances have been recorded in which an adult exposed to a youngster with chicken pox developed shingles and vice versa.

Herpes zoster is not difficult to diagnose after the typical rash occurs. But the victim is usually ill for three or four days before the blemishes arise and it is during this period that physician and patient are frequently at a loss as to what is wrong. The temperature is generally elevated, the individual feels fatigued and is botherd with neuralgialike pains over the involved nerves. Sooner or later, painful and tender blisters make their appearance along the line extending from the origin of the nerve in the back around to the front. The lesions last for a few days, rupture, and a crust forms over the remaining sores. The latter fall off ultimately, leaving scars as telltale evidence of the disease.

Any nerve can be attacked but when the structures leading to the eyes are involved, the condition is dangerous. The affected area is exquisitely tender and now and then discomfort persists long after the skin manifestations disappear. The ailment favors the overworked and the ill, often complicating leucemia, influenza, encephalitis, tuberculosis, and malignancies. Also susceptible are individuals who are receiving "shots" of arsenic, bismuth, gold, iodides, etc., but it is not clear whether a relationship exists between the two or the affair is coincidental.

In most cases, distress can be controlled with pain-killing drugs and by applying a soothing salve or lotion such as calamine with phenol. Flexible collodion forms a protective coating over the blisters, which lessens irritation. Every attempt should be made to keep the eruption dry as healing is thus encouraged. If this regimen is unsuccessful, many other remedies are available including cobra venom, X-ray therapy, injections of pituitary extract, and sodium iodide. Large amounts of vitamin B (thiamin chloride) have proved helpful. Procaine can be injected into the nerve but since relief is usually temporary, this treatment must be repeated from time to time. The residual pains which plague some sufferers for months or years are not easy to control and, as a last resort, surgery may be required.

Truman Holds Serious Post-Election Cabinet Session; Navy Chief Makes Killing On Truman "Hunch;" National Cat Week Honors Man's Good Friend

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—President Truman's first cabinet meeting after the election was no backslapping affair. It was a sober, down-to-business, back-to-work session.

Only humorous note came as the stragglers were filing in, when Vice President-elect Alben Barkley told about an incident occurring at a Kentucky political rally. When the chairman announced there would be a two-minute wait before going on the air, someone piped up:

"I would like to take the two minutes to say a prayer for the Democratic Party."

President Truman did virtually all the talking at the cabinet meeting and finished in less than fifteen minutes. He asked his cabinet to go to work on a future program which would put campaign promises into action. He said:

"I want you fellows to get your programs in shape for discussion immediately, because we've got to present them to Congress when it reconvenes."

Significantly the President gave no hint of firing anyone from the cabinet. He talked about his long-range program as if everyone present would take part. Only Secretary of State Marshall, now in Paris, did not attend. The man with the least to say was Dewey's friend, Secretary of Defense Forrestal, who didn't let out a peep.

Union Pacific Runs State Department

Truman advisers were discussing changes in the State Department. Donald Dawson of the White House staff remarked that Averell Harriman had been suggested as Secretary of State.

Remarked Clark Clifford: "One Union Pacific man in four years is enough."

(He referred to Undersecretary of State Bob Lovett who embarrassed Truman so frequently during the campaign. Lovett is a partner in Brown Brothers, Harriman and Co., while Ambassador Harriman owns a large part of the Union Pacific.)

He Bet on Truman

One man who didn't go wrong on the election was Navy Chief Francisco Regacho, aide to Adm. Louis Denfeld. Regacho backed up his hunch on Truman with cash and won $1,500.

"I was in the Navy six years under the Republicans," explains Regacho, "and I couldn't get promoted beyond 1st class. But under the Democrats I got to be chief. Naturally I bet on my friends. Also I knew my boss, Admiral Denfeld, was for Truman."

Pearson's Cat

Now that the election is over and we can worry about other things, I am reminded that this is National Cat Week, and that, thanks to my friend, Bascom Timmons, I am chairman of National Cat Week.

Behind that shrewd political visage of his, Mr. Timmons has a tender heart and a fondness for cats. He promoted National Cat Week last year, and, without consulting me in advance, got me appointed chairman for 1948.

Perhaps I should admit, however, that it was not so much Bascom, but my cat cinder that got me into this.

Cinder sits on my desk when I am writing a column and acts as unofficial censor. As far as I know she cannot read, but she has uncanny instinct. For when I heave a brickbat in the direction of Bascom's boss, Jesse Jones, Cinder purrs with pleasure. But if I want to start writing anything critical about her friend, Harry Truman, she stages a sitdown strike on the paper and won't move until I pry her loose.

Cinder is pure black—hence her name. Actually Cinder belongs to my daughter. When she was a small kitten my daughter took such a fancy to her that she insisted on taking her away to school and kept her there for a term.

Later my daughter graduated to other things and has been kept busy with a husband and son, so I have inherited Cinder.

While I realize that some people don't like cats, I would like to call their attention to the fact that the No. 1 enemy of our grain crop is rats. If the rats in our farm areas were eliminated, enough grain could be saved to feed all the people who starve in China.

And in cities, the rats carry more disease and filth than most of us realize. So, even if you don't like cats, remember—this week and all other weeks—that they are one of man's best friends in counteracting one of man's worst enemies.

Canadian Air Arsenal

The joint chiefs of staff in cooperation with the British have decided to make Canada the arsenal of the British air forces. Factories will be set up in Canada shortly to turn out jet bombers and transports plus a special Arctic jet fighter.

American aircraft companies have agreed to provide their technical "know-how" and help supervise production. Britain's famous jet fighters will still be made in England though later transferred in part to Canadian factories. As the first step in putting this plan into operation, Fairchild aircraft will permit its noted transport, known as the workhorse of the airways, to be manufactured in Canada under a special licensing system.

The U. S. Army and Air Forces enthusiastically approve of the idea for two reasons: 1. It will disperse the highly vulnerable British aircraft industry; and 2. boost production of fighters and bombers in the western hemisphere.

French Commie Crisis

The American embassy this week quashed a secret plan to bring Communists into the French government.

French Socialist leaders had quietly suggested the move as one way of stopping the Communist-led coal strikes now threatening French recovery. But American Ambassador Jefferson Caffery got wind of the deal, went to see Foreign Minister Schuman and solemnly warned him every nickel in Marshall Plan help would be shut off if this happened.

Schuman, who was against the idea anyway, agreed to talk to his colleagues. Using the threat of American disapproval as a weapon, Schuman succeeded in convincing French politicians to drop the whole idea—at least for the time being.

However, the American embassy fears an attempt to revive the plan later, especially if the Communists continue to order strikes in vital French industries.

Nothing Conclusive In Vote Congress Has Labor Mandate

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—President Truman owes his election to the farm vote and not the labor vote. Examination of the returns from those districts where supporters of the Taft-Hartley law were elected or defeated, as the case may be, reveals that, despite gains made by the Democrats in seats for the House of Representatives, Dewey captured the electoral votes in industrial states.

Likewise, it shows that the remainder of the Taft-Hartley Act supporters were in predominantly agricultural states where the labor vote in the districts affected has in most instances never been a controlling factor.

Not a single Democrat who had voted for the Taft-Hartley law was defeated, whereas three Republicans who voted against the law, and were thus on labor's side, failed of reelection—one in New York state, one in the state of Washington and one in Wisconsin.

In the states with the big electoral votes—the industrial states—carried by Dewey, the Republicans lost 27 who had voted for the Taft-Hartley Act. Many of these Republicans were in districts normally Democratic which had gone over to the Republican Party in November 1946 by a narrow margin.

Division of Lost Seats

Out of the 64 Republican members who lost their seats and who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act, there were 27 in the Dewey states and 37 in the Truman states in the west and north.

The electoral votes of these Truman states were not enough to win the election for Mr. Truman without the regular Democratic states in the south and the states carried by Thurmond. For virtually all the Democratic members of the House of Representatives who were reelected from the south had voted for the Taft-Hartley Act.

The 37 congressional seats which the Republicans lost in the Truman states were spread out over the agricultural states, and it will be noted that with one or two exceptions, the majority of the delegation to the House from each state were supporters of the Taft-Hartley Act with few exceptions.

The box score of results based solely on how the Taft-Hartley Act supporters fared in the states carried by Truman is as follows:

	Seats Won	Seats Lost
California	11	3
Colorado	2	1
Idaho	1	1
Illinois	10	3
Iowa	7	0
Kentucky	3	1
Massachusetts	7	1
Minnesota	5	3
Missouri	1	8
Nevada	0	1
Ohio	9	8
Washington	2	0
West Virginia	0	4
Wisconsin	6	1
Wyoming	1	0

Percentage of Defeated

Thus it will be seen that out of all the states whose electoral votes Truman carried, there are only three states where the majority of the Taft-Hartley Act supporters in the respective delegations of those states were defeated. When it can be shown that the congressional supporters of the Taft-Hartley Act elected outnumbered the members defeated in 18 states in the west and north carried by Truman, it certainly cannot be persuasively argued that the labor vote won the election for Mr. Truman in those 18 western and northern states

The big vote that was gotten out in districts where the labor unions organized the precincts developed largely in the industrial states where Mr. Dewey won the electoral votes. Certainly Iowa, which re-elected all its supporters of the Taft-Hartley law and yet gave its electoral vote to Truman, is a case in point.

It was the drop-off of the Republican vote in the farm states carried by Truman which turned the election. This, incidentally explains one reason why the polls on the general election as well as prophesies by campaign managers went wrong—the farm areas are hard to canvass because of the distance between farms and the uncertainty as to what proportion of the vote will go to the polls if the weather is inclement.

As for the Taft-Hartley Act repeal or modification, there certainly is nothing conclusive in the election returns to show that the majority of the people have given Congress a mandate on this question.

Pollsters Overlooked Basic Factors At Work Against Them

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

A twenty to one bet came through. Truman, the man the Democrats were afraid to nominate, was the man the Republicans could not defeat! The President won in a "Gallup." Gallup, Roper and Crossley, and News Week, whose fifty newspaper writers predicted Dewey 50 to 0, and all the other pollsters and dopesters—are their faces red? It looks like another Literary Digest with political indigestion.

But the Democratic bosses — Hague, Arvey of Chicago, O'Dwyer of New York, Jimmy Roosevelt, etc., were also sure Truman couldn't win. All the "experts" were wrong. How much attention will Truman pay to them?

Generalities Don't Ring Bells

When will the G.O.P. find out that it can't win with carbon copies of an original? Landon and Willkie had made that clear. Dewey was for public health, public housing, mor social security paid in 50c dollars, higher minimum wage, price supports, civil rights, and bigger appropriations than even the Democrats had poured into Western states. After copying the New Deal with such proposals, you can't win with such slogans as "It's time for a change," or "Unity." These generalities don't ring church bells. Not once did Dewey attempt to mobilize the 70,000,000 life insurance policyholders and all the thrifty middle class folks whose savings are being melted away by a flood of cheap money poured out by profligate politicians.

Dewey should have gone to more prize fights and seen how the crowd is always on the side of the guy who bores in, and never for the back pedaler.

But it is unfair to put too much blame on Dewey and Warren. Basic factors were at work against them which the poll-takers did not appraise. If Dewey had won, he would have been the first Presidential candidate to win after first being defeated. Truman, on the other hand, was making his first fight on his own.

Second, if elected this would have been the first time in history that a national administration had been defeated in time of war—cold or hot. We are still legally at war—with the big peace treaties unsigned.

Vote To Leave Well Enough Alone

Third, if Dewey had won, it would have been the first time a national administration had been ousted from office in boom times. An apparent exception was 1912 when Taft, in time of great prosperity, was defeated. But because of the Bull Moose split Wilson was able to win with only 42% of the total votes.

Two of the country's best statisticians, F. A. Pearson and W. I. Myers of Cornell University, on July 15, published an analysis, "Prices and Presidents," which showed conclusively that when the prices are high, farmers prosperous, labor fully employed at high wages, and business making profits, the majority voted to leave well enough alone and never voted out the President in power.

And, finally, the "payroll vote"—2,000,000 federal job-holders, with relatives and friends—8,000,000 votes! Governor Maw of Utah (Democrat) raised the question whether the federal political machine, like the smaller machines in the cities, will not soon be so overwhelmingly strong that it cannot be overcome. As the Dunn Survey pointed out, leading Republicans looked forward to building up and benefitting from such a payroll vote once they were in power. Again, more carbon copies, more "me-too."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE SHOCK of a fifth defeat in as many elections leaves the Republican Party the minority party. The gains of 1946 have been eradicated. The high hopes of June have become despair in November.

Many alibis are being offered, but alibis do not provide the leadership for the country whose political structure is based upon the two-party system. Were the Republican Party to disappear, a second national party would automatically take its place—perhaps to the left of the Truman Democrats.

However, the Republicans polled more than 20 million votes and the actual margin in the popular vote was narrow. Obviously, the polls lulled the Republicans into a false security; they were too sure of themselves; many of them did not even come out to vote.

All this is history now and its repetition serves no purpose other than to indicate several facts:

1. A party must have a positive program on domestic and foreign issues. Its program cannot be bipartisan or nonpartisan, or general or inconsequential without sounding like a false tenor in a "Sweet Adeline" chorus.

2. Principles, not polls, must be the guide. There are no sure things in American politics, because the American votes or does not vote as an individual. Bloc voting, in this election, is only evident in one group, the northern Negro. Whereas it was anticipated that the northern Negro would vote for Henry Wallace, he voted for Truman. On August 31, I wrote:

"There is another danger for them (the Negroes) in Wallace, namely, that he is smeared with the Communist tar brush by association. The Negro leaders might be smeared with the same brush by association with him. Therefore, a notable reversion from Wallace is now occurring . . ."

A party that functions by polls and not by principles for which they will sacrifice to death has no reason for existence. A party that only lives to get in—has no reason for getting in.

3. It is, therefore, generally beneficial that the polls have been discredited in the popular mind. Before national politics became scientific by depending upon polls, data was gathered from the grass roots, from local politicians who knew their own people, their wants, their needs, their insistences.

The Republicans were so sure of themselves that they not only avoided the judgment of the local politicians but they instructed them how to handle local situations. Whereas politics is an art, they tried to make it a science, and science as a rule is on its way but does not know where it is going. It is motion without direction.

Let me cite an example: In the Bronx in New York City, there is one Congressional district which, by all local judgment, the Republicans could have carried. That is the West Bronx, including the Riverdale region. For no reason which anyone living there can understand, a deal was made up the line by which the Republicans endorsed a Democratic member of Congress, Charles A. Buckley, whose attendance and voting record is particularly bad.

The result is that in that district there was no Republican campaign. The Republicans showed no interest, no enthusiasm, and many did not vote. The local organization is now shot.

4. A political party must understand population shifts. It must understand that if a man dies of old age and no young man takes his place, the party has lost a voter and possibly a worker. The Republican Party has made no effort to attract youth to itself. It uses hackneyed methods to recruit supporters. Too many Republican politicians—particularly lawyers—have become accustomed to living on bipartisan crumbs in the form of municipal, state and even national jobs and references. Too many of them are making a good living out of muted opposition on a bipartisan basis. Too many of them, therefore, are unwilling to fight hard and to hit hard in a campaign.

The Republican Party has proved, in the year of its best opportunity, that it lacks resilience, is incapable of giving vitality to its domestic and foreign policies, of organizing for political action on a grass-roots level.

It needs correctly to analyze the causes for its defeat. The time for analysis, understanding and leadership is now, not in 1952.

Today's Talk

Troubles

Not in this world, at least, will any of us ever be without his own troubles. And since we are all in the same boat as regards them, we can only decide to handle them with patience and intelligence, trying to keep most of them in the infant class, not allowing them to reach adulthood!

Edward Everett Hale once wrote: "Never bear more than one trouble at a time. Some people bear three kinds: all they have ever had, all they have now, and all they expect to have." That's compounding them!

Even when only handling one trouble at a time, the aim should be not to allow it to get too important. Troubles are temporary affairs. They become permanent only when invited to become so. On the other hand, we are all inheritors of them to a greater or lesser extent. Handling them is the problem! And it is the way we handle our problems that makes them seem either big or little.

We wouldn't amount to much if we never had troubles. Troubles emphasize character. They are a test of patience, of self-mastery, and courage. There are even those who thrive on them! But what teachers these troubles are! They teach us to be kindly, tolerant, and magnanimous.

Troubles are personal property. No one else wants them. Even the old earth shies away from them, for, as Ella Wheeler Wilcox wrote:

"For the sad old earth must
borrow its mirth,
But has trouble enough of its own."

Troubles and struggles, however, are what have made the great of this earth, and inspired them to persist and create, no matter what, come what may. All worth while of the earth have been those who went through trouble after trouble. Even Columbus had a mutiny on his hands, but sailed on, and on, and on. The world is full of troubles today. But time, patience and an unfaltering faith will melt most of them away.

Man Sought Here Eludes Police

Wanted in Cumberland in connection with fleecing several garage owners, Russell C. Anderson eluded State Police after he learned they had trailed him from here to Hagerstown late last week.

State Police said a stolen car allegedly used by Anderson, who they said posed as a salesman of hydraulic lifts, has been located in Hagerstown. Anderson secured down payments on orders from garage men for the lifts he claimed to be selling, police said.

Authorities said Anderson, who represented himself as a salesman for a California firm, was staying at a Hagerstown hotel, but that he checked out immediately after learning State Police had traced him to Hagerstown.

The 1942 convertible Packard, reported stolen from Virginia Beach, Va., in August, had been placed with a Hagerstown garage for repairs and was abandoned by Anderson.

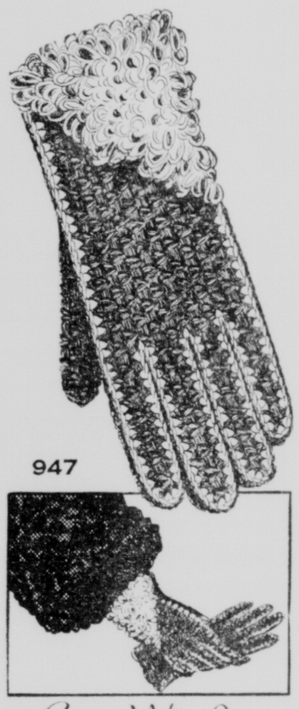

Police said Anderson obtained $51 from one filling station operator and $8 from another in Hagerstown. Both operators obtained warrants for Anderson's arrest on false pretense charges.

Local police reported last Monday that garagemen here had been "clipped" to the extent of about $250, and that in addition to being active in Cumberland and Hagerstown he is reported to have "worked" other cities in the area.

He was described as being about 37 years old, five feet eight inches tall and weighing approximately 180 pounds.

Man Sought Here Eludes Police

Wanted in Cumberland in connection with fleecing several garage owners, Russell C. Anderson eluded State Police after he learned they had trailed him from here to Hagerstown late last week.

State Police said a stolen car allegedly used by Anderson, who they said posed as a salesman of hydraulic lifts, has been located in Hagerstown. Anderson secured down payments on orders from garage men for the lifts he claimed to be selling, police said.

Authorities said Anderson, who represented himself as a salesman for a California firm, was staying at a Hagerstown hotel, but that he checked out immediately after learning State Police had traced him to Hagerstown.

The 1942 convertible Packard, reported stolen from Virginia Beach, Va., in August, had been placed with a Hagerstown garage for repairs and was abandoned by Anderson.

Police said Anderson obtained $51 from one filling station operator and $8 from another in Hagerstown. Both operators obtained warrants for Anderson's arrest on false pretense charges.

Local police reported last Monday that garagemen here had been "clipped" to the extent of about $250, and that in addition to being active in Cumberland and Hagerstown he is reported to have "worked" other cities in the area.

He was described as being about 37 years old, five feet eight inches tall and weighing approximately 180 pounds.

Alexander Graham Bell did not make the first telephone. The model was made by Thomas A. Watson, Bell's assistant.

Edna McMahon To Become Bride Of Charles C. Fellon

Ceremony To Be Performed Today

Miss Mary Edna McMahon, daughter of Joseph P. McMahon, 514 Patterson Avenue, and the late Mrs. McMahon, is to become the bride of Charles C. Felton, son of Mrs. Rose Felten, 539 Columbia Avenue, and the late Edward F. Felten, today.

The wedding ceremony will be solemnized at a nuptial mass at 9 o'clock in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, with Father Simon E. Kenny, St. Mary's Church, Hagerstown, cousin of the bride, officiating. Bouquets of white chrysanthemums and gladioli, fern and candedabra of lightde tapers are being used to decorate the altar.

Miss Ann McMahon will be her sister's maid of honor and only attendant and Marcellus Felten is to serve as his brother's best man. Miss Josephine Esposito will sing a program of nuptial music accompanied by Sister Aquinette, who also will play the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, to be given in marriage by her father, is wearing an egg shell satin gown fashioned with a fitted bodice, lace yoke and wide bertha, and full skirt. Her waist length net veil trimmed in lace is to be held by a tiara of seed pearls. Completing her costume she will carry a prayerbook with white orchid marker.

Her attendant is wearing an orchid marquisette dress made with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and full skirt. Her headdress is of yellow pom pons and shoulder length orchid veiling. She will carry an old fashioned bouquet of orchid and yellow pom pons.

The bride is a graduate of Catholic Girls Central High School and Business School and is employed at the Kiddie Shop.

Mr. Felten is a graduate of Allegany High School, a veteran of the Army, having served approximately three years in the ETO, and is employed by the Western Maryland Railway Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Creegan, uncle and aunt of the bride, will entertain the bridal party at a wedding breakfast at their home, 521 Patterson Avenue, immediately following the ceremony. They will be hosts for a wedding reception at 11. The bridal motif is being carried out in the flowers throughout the house and tiered cake with miniature bride and bridegroom.

For their trip to New York, the bride is wearing a forest green suit, with brown coat and accessories and her orchid corsage.

Memorial Auxiliary To Sponsor Benefit Party

Gives Donation For Redecorating Project

The Memorial Hospital Auxiliary formulated plans for a public card party and small individual affairs at the meeting yesterday afternoon at Centre Street Methodist Church social hall.

Mrs. Frank U. Davis presided and appointed Mrs. Morris Barnes chairman for the card party which is to be held before Christmas, the proceeds to be placed in the general fund to be allocated to the various projects of the auxiliary. Mrs Hugo Keller was named co-chairman and Mrs. Marion Powers head of the Refreshment committee.

It was decided to have a white elephant table in conjunction with the party and contributors of articles are asked to call Mrs. Harry Beneman who will call for them

A number of members also indicated their willingness to have individual card parties at their homes to raise funds for the "Graduate Nurse's Scholarship" fund which the auxiliary inaugurated last year. It was reported the first nurse using it has completed her post-graduate course and now is employed at the hospital.

The group voted a donation of $300 towards the purchase of new slip covers and drapes for the nurses home. Routine reports were given.

Preceding the meeting a turkey luncheon was served by members of Mrs. Howard Miller's Circle. Covers were laid for 42 members.

The next meeting will be in May and will be in the evening.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Do unmarried women make good foster mothers?

Answer: They may if the children are not too old, and do not stay too long in the "boarding home" says Dr. Loretta Renn. Single women have the most success with children who need, and are able to respond to love, sympathy and good physical care, provided it is recognized on both sides that the relationship is temporary. In the case of older children, especially adolescents, living in a home in which there is no "active father" and where sexual problems may arise, the arrangement is less likely to turn out well.

Does diagnosing mental illness help to cure it?

Answer: Yes, says psychologist Agnes A. Sharp of the Psychiatric Institute of the Chicago Municipal Court. A psychologist cannot interview a person on the subject of his mental or emotional problems without to some degree helping him to solve them, if only because the average person, given a chance to "talk himself out" to a sympathetic listener, will relieve his emotional tensions and tend to see himself more objectively. Even though the complete cure is left to others, you can't say where "diagnosis ends and therapy begins."

Will nagging cure a child's bad habits?

Answer: No, says Dr. Rudolf Dreikurs in "The Challenge of Parenthood." "The less obvious attention you pay to bad habits [thumb-sucking, for instance] the easier it is to correct them." Keeping at a child continually only fixes his attention on the practice which you wish to have him give up, and makes it a symbol of the contest between his will and yours. When he's old enough, you may discuss the habit with him as a problem which it's up to him to solve, but don't do even this too often or you'll make him feel you're nagging.

According to Linnaeus and most early theologians, it was a white shark, not a whale, that swallowed Jonah.

Street Blocking Alleged; Court Case Filed

A Homewood Addition man filed a suit in Circuit Court yesterday morning in connection with the alleged blocking of a street by a neighbor.

Andrew D. Wolford filed the action against David Folk and requested the court to issue a mandatory injunction against Folk.

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., signed a temporary injunction and set November 30 as the date for Folk to show cause why the injunction asked by Wolford should not be issued.

Wolford, through his attorney, Morris Baron, charges that he owns a tract of land in the addition and that five or six months ago Folk moved into a dwelling on an adjoining tract, which is owned by Albert A. Rosley.

The plaintiff claims that Folk has been obstructing the road, which is used by lot owners in the addition, by parking his car across the thoroughfare.

He also claims that the blocking of the street forces other residents and himself to walk in mud and ditches to gain access to their properties.

Doctors now can tell by the sound a muscle makes when it contracts whether it is paralyzed, getting better or normal. The machine, called an electromyograph, that lets the muscle tell its story in sound, is similar to the electrocardiograph.

Employment Head Says Few Job Openings In City

Few job opportunities are available in Cumberland and local employment has stayed at the same level for the past months, according to the October report of the Maryland Employment office here.

Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local office, said that the only job openings here are for commission salesmen, day workers and similar situations.

Carroll said that about 100 persons, mostly men, have been referred to the General Electric plant at Erie Pa., during the last three months, but that in this area no new jobs of any consequence are open.

The active file at the employment office lists 1,848 persons, and Carroll said that about 1,000 others who are out of work have failed to register. This estimate is based on figures compiled in the past year, he added.

Former servicemen top the list of unemployed with 828 being out of work, and of these 450 are drawing GI allowances. Women comprise the next largest group with 714 being jobless. A total of 306 non-veteran males are unemployed.

During October 109 veterans were placed in employment and jobs were also found for six handicapped veterans. The number of jobs available during the Christmas season will not be great, and due to their temporary nature of the positions will be filled mostly from among students, according to Carroll.

At present the Kelly-Springfield Tire plant is on a four-day work week in most departments and the Celanese plant has had some furloughs and short-time in a few departments. Coal mining in the Georges Creek section is also below normal with an average of only three days work for most miners in recent weeks.

The employment picture in Cumberland and vicinity depends to a large degree on what large construction jobs may develop and to possible plant location here through efforts of the Cumberland Industrial Planning Commission.

Step Taken To Expand Veterans Program

Verbal assent to a 10-year lease for the Allegany Trade School property of Paca Street was given by the Mayor and Council at a special session yesterday.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, said following the meeting that reasonable assurance that the city will not take over the land in the near future is one of the preliminary steps in the proposed expansion of the program for veterans.

Mrs. Walters Will Filed For Probate

The will of Mrs. Carrie Walters, National, who died October 25, was filed for probate in Orphans Court yesterday. The estate is left to her niece, Viola Kaefer, also of National, and James D. Williams, a nephew, was named executor.

Patrick A. Laughlin, Barton, was named executor of the will of Dominick W. Arnold, also of Barton, which was filed yesterday, with the estate being left to Frances Elizabeth Arnold, a sister, and Simon K. Arnold, a brother.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (INS)—We note that the Giants now have a brainy triumvirate in Manager Leo Durocher and Coaches Frankie Frisch and Freddy Fitzsimmons.

And this reminds us to remark that brains are the most overrated commodity in sport. We have had and still have many super-stars in all sports so dumb they couldn't pass an honest 8th grade school examination.

Much stress is laid on this or that smart ball player. But how often does he have to use his brain? What he needs is sharp reflexes and that little commodity all great athletes must and do have.

We recall Eddie Collins as one of the brainiest of all ball players. But we also recall the remark of a rookie when Eddie slowed down to a walk that "Eddie couldn't outsmart those hard grounders."

We also recall Tommy Hitchcock, greatest of all polo players telling us that it took seven years to make a good polo player but only four years to make a good polo pony. "Because," Tommy explained seriously, "the horse is smarter."

If there is any particular need for brains in sport it is in the most brutal of all sports and that is fighting. A boxer who hasn't a punch must use his brains to plan his strategy under fire and to try to outmaneuver his opponent.

But even in the ring brains per se aren't absolutely necessary. Joe Louis is no mental giant. He never has had to be. His instantaneous reflexes plus his punch have been more than enough.

Please don't misunderstand us. We have nothing against the brainy athlete. On the contrary, all other things being equal, we admit he has an advantage over a dumb cluck.

The point we are trying to make is that an athlete rarely has to use his brains even when he has them.

We remember Babe Ruth telling us one day that he never thought about throwing to the right base or about planning anything in advance. He simply relied on his instinct.

It seems to us that football is the easiest of all games to learn. This may cause a dissenting uproar from college football coaches. But look at the record.

Dumb clucks who never saw a game often become stars almost overnight. The quarterback may use his brains—or his coach's brains—but don't tell me a linesman needs to use any. There are some stars now playing pro football who were so dumb they flunked out of college. And, if they had not been stars, they would have flunked out of high school.

We could mention more than one of these who hasn't brains to absorb even elementary education.

We will grant that a chance to use brains come up more often in polo, hockey and baseball. But not enough for brains to be essential.

Just think back in your own mind over some of the great pitchers of the past. Can you recall some clucks who just reared back and poured that fast one past the hitters? Of course you can. And you know how much brains he was using, don't you? Right.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (INS)—We note that the Giants now have a brainy triumvirate in Manager Leo Durocher and Coaches Frankie Frisch and Freddy Fitzsimmons.

And this reminds us to remark that brains are the most overrated commodity in sport. We have had and still have many super-stars in all sports so dumb they couldn't pass an honest 8th grade school examination.

Much stress is laid on this or that smart ball player. But how often does he have to use his brain? What he needs is sharp reflexes and that little commodity all great athletes must and do have.

We recall Eddie Collins as one of the brainiest of all ball players. But we also recall the remark of a rookie when Eddie slowed down to a walk that "Eddie couldn't outsmart those hard grounders."

We also recall Tommy Hitchcock, greatest of all polo players telling us that it took seven years to make a good polo player but only four years to make a good polo pony. "Because," Tommy explained seriously, "the horse is smarter."

If there is any particular need for brains in sport it is in the most brutal of all sports and that is fighting. A boxer who hasn't a punch must use his brains to plan his strategy under fire and to try to outmaneuver his opponent.

But even in the ring brains per se aren't absolutely necessary. Joe Louis is no mental giant. He never has had to be. His instantaneous reflexes plus his punch have been more than enough.

Please don't misunderstand us. We have nothing against the brainy athlete. On the contrary, all other things being equal, we admit he has an advantage over a dumb cluck.

The point we are trying to make is that an athlete rarely has to use his brains even when he has them.

We remember Babe Ruth telling us one day that he never thought about throwing to the right base or about planning anything in advance. He simply relied on his instinct.

It seems to us that football is the easiest of all games to learn. This may cause a dissenting uproar from college football coaches. But look at the record.

Dumb clucks who never saw a game often become stars almost overnight. The quarterback may use his brains—or his coach's brains—but don't tell me a linesman needs to use any. There are some stars now playing pro football who were so dumb they flunked out of college. And, if they had not been stars, they would have flunked out of high school.

We could mention more than one of these who hasn't brains to absorb even elementary education.

We will grant that a chance to use brains come up more often in polo, hockey and baseball. But not enough for brains to be essential.

Just think back in your own mind over some of the great pitchers of the past. Can you recall some clucks who just reared back and poured that fast one past the hitters? Of course you can. And you know how much brains he was using, don't you? Right.

Williamsport High Soccerites Beat Accident, 2-0

Unbeaten Team Scores In Mud At Frostburg

Britner, Baker Goals Decide District Title

Williamsport High School's soccer team won the District No. 1 title in the Maryland tournament for Class "D" schools yesterday by defeating Accident High School of Garrett county yesterday at Frostburg State Teachers' College Field by the score of 2 to 0.

The victory was the 37th against two tie games in three years for Coach Richard Doub's eleven. Last year Williamsport put Barton High School out of the tourney, 6-0, and Accident gained the right to play Williamsport yesterday by downing Barton, 3-1.

Washington county's undefeated eleven scored its first point of the game in the opening period when Britner, center halfback, booted a penalty goal. Bager scored a field goal for Williamsport in the second quarter, following through after the Accident goalie dropped the ball in front of the uprights.

Muddy field and a drizzling rain handicapped both teams.

Hobart Bowser, fullback, stood out on the defensive and Dale Glass, center forward, were Accident's best bets. Morgan, center forward and Britner, center half, were outstanding for the victors.

The setback eliminated Coach Charley Strauss' eleven from the tourney. Prior to yesterday's game Accident's record was seven wins, one lost and two ties.

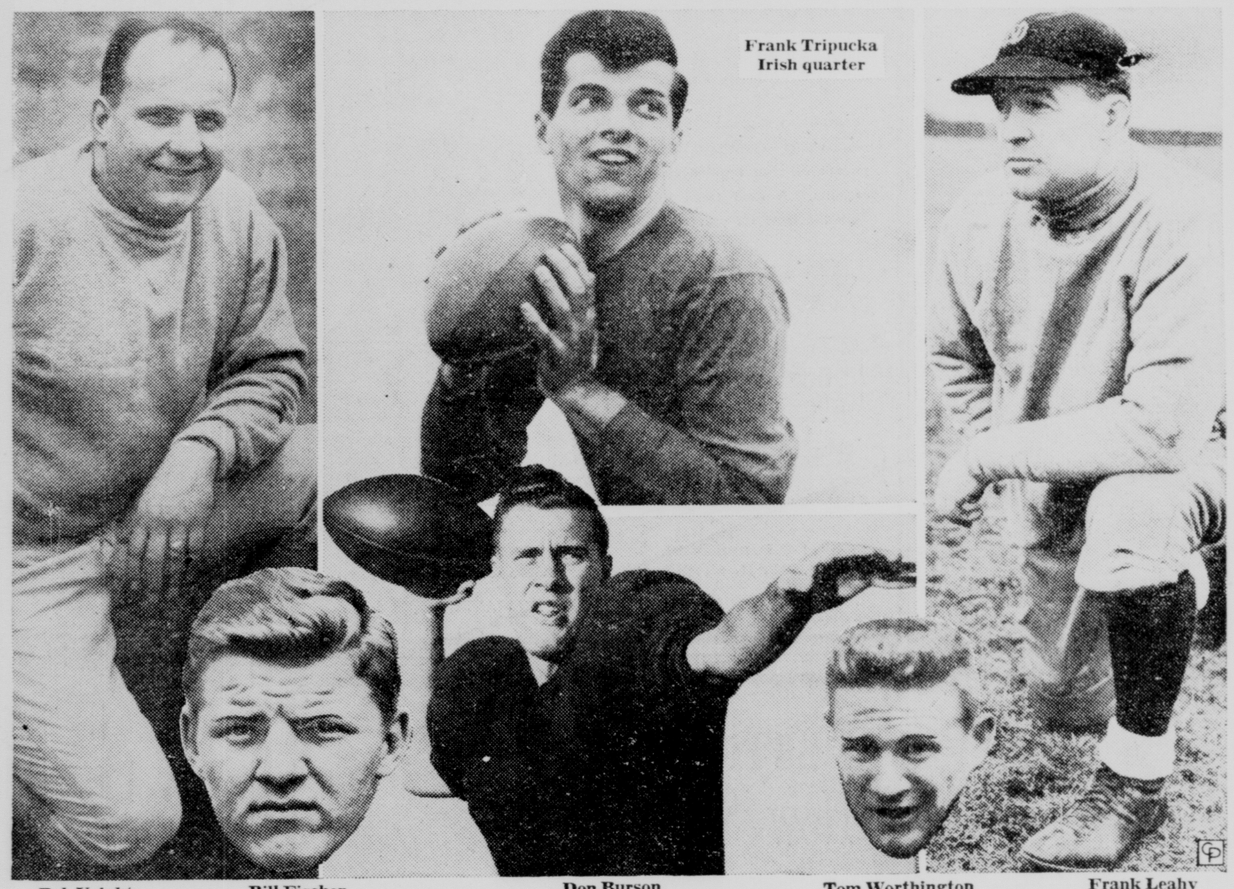

Lineups:

Pos.	Williamsport (2)	Accident (0)
Goal	Harsh	Turney
RB	Palmer	H. Bowser
LB	Myers	Kahl
RHB	Martin	Sisler
CHB	Britner	Fratz
LHB	Nally	Brant
OR	Baker	Storey
IR	Cline	Hanft
CF	Morgan	D. Glass
IL	Burharp	Savage
OL	Spillman	R. Bowser

Score by periods:

Field goal scored by Baker.
Penalty goal scored by Britner.
Substitutes: Accident—Ferguson, Schlosnagle.
Referee—Ray Middleton.

Bob Voights, Wildcat coach; Bill Fischer, Irish guard; Don Burson, Wildcat quarter; Tom Worthington, Wildcat back; Frank Leahy, Irish coach. Frank Tripucka, Irish quarter.

NOTRE DAME, rocketing along to another undefeated season, meets its toughest grid foe Saturday, Nov. 13, when the Irish face Northwestern's Wildcats at South Bend. Northwestern represents the last major hurdle for the Irish in a bid for a clean slate. Other important games pit Yale against Princeton in a traditional struggle; Cornell and Dartmouth, Penn and Army and Arkansas and Southern Methodist. The Penn-Army game should settle the eastern grid leadership.

Army Backs Near Davis, Blanchard Record Of 1945

Stephenson, Stuart Need Only 129 Yards

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—With two games to go, Gil Stephenson and Bobby Stuart or Army are a cinch to shatter the best ball-carrying record set by their illustrious predecessors at West Point, Felix (Doc) Blanchard and Glenn Davis.

Figures given out today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau show that Stuart is the nation's No. 2 rushing star, with 772 yards, and that Stephenson is No. 4 with 761, the result of brilliant performances in last week's rout of Stanford here.

Their total of 1,533 yards places the "S-twins" only 129 yards behind the 1,662 yards picked up by Davis and Blanchard in 1945, when they were the scourge of collegiate gridirons.

Wendt Leads Rushers

Fred Wendt of Texas Mines still is the country's No. 1 rusher with 978 yards gained in seven games, and Jay Van Noy of Utah State is third with 767 in eight starts. John Panelli of Notre Dame is the most consistent ground gainer with an average of 8.6 yards in 61 carries.

Stan Heath of Nevada remained the nation's top passer and overall offensive star despite his team's one-sided loss to Santa Clara last week. He picked up 114 more yards to place his total at 1,754.

Charlie Justice, North Carolina's All-America nominee, climbed into second place in the overall ground gaining race by accumulating 160 yards as the Tarheels tied William and Mary on a muddy field. His total of 1,147 yards enabled him to displace Lindy Berry of Texas Christian in the runner-up spot.

In all, six players have run and passed for more than 1,000 yards whereas at this time a year ago only two were over that figure. It is a brand new game. It appears certain that two backs will complete more than 100 passes this season. In all prior collegiate football history, only three men have accomplished that feat.

Leaders Are Listed

Following are the individual leaders among major schools:

Total offense—(yards gained passing and rushing) Stan Heath, Nevada, 1,754; Charlie Justice, N. Carolina, 1,147; Lindy Berry, T.C.U., 1,062; Andy Davis, G. Washington, 1,041; Jim Finks, Tulsa, 1,040; Fred Wendt, Texas Mines, 1,005; Jim Walthall, W. Virginia, 950; John Rauch, Georgia, 867; Everett Faunce, Minnesota, 853; Bobby Thomason, V.M.I., 848.

Rushing — Fred Wendt, Texas Mines, 978 yards; Bobby Stuart, Army, 772; Jay Van Noy, Utah State, 767; Gil Stephenson, Army, 761; Eddie Price, Tulane, 758; John Papit, Virginia, 725; Jackie Jensen, California, 718; George Thomas, Okla., 675; Harry Szulborski, Purdue, 659; Emil Sitko, Notre Dame, 657.

Passing—Stan Heath, Nevada, 113 completions for 1758 yards; Jim Finks, Tulsa, 89 for 1,066; Bobby Thomason, V.M.I., 72 for 931; Jim Walthall, W. Virginia, 66 for 965; Norm Van Brocklin, Oregon, 57 for 880; Mike Boyda, Washington and Lee, 56 for 773; John Rausch, Georgia, 53 for 949; Jimmy Southard, Georgia Tech, 52 for 815; Andy Davis, G. Washington, 52 for 880; Ray Nagel, U.C.L.A., 51 for 869; Charlie Justice, N. Carolina, 50 for 682.

Glen Burke, City's Champ Place Kicker, Will Receive Trophy

Glen Burke, Fort Hill High School's place-kicking specialist, who recently broke the city record of 32 points after touchdown in a single season, will receive a trophy at special ceremonies at the Maryland Theater on Monday, November 15, at 9 p. m.

Burke has booted 34 points in 42 tries. The record formerly held by Jimmy Manges of Fort Hill was 32 and was set in 1947.

Gridders who have been chosen in the K. of C. Player-of-the-Week contest since the start of the season will be given miniature gold footballs.

Earl Bruce of Allegany High has twice won the honor. Others are Burke, Tucker and Corbin of Fort Hill, Wes Abrams and Jim Ruehl, Allegany; Mickey Clark, LaSalle, and Paul Lindsay, Ridgeley.

All-Star Soccer Team Is Selected

Coaches Pick Ton "11", Central Lands Four

Coaches of the W.M.I. Soccer League met yesterday and made all-star selections for the 1948 season.

Central High School of Lonaconing received four places on the team, Bruce of Westernport earned three and Barton and Beall two places each.

The team:

Goal ..... Lucas, Lonaconing
FB ..... Tichnell, Barton
FB ..... Moran, Bruce
RHB ..... Dawson, Beall
CHB ..... Cain, Bruce
LHB ..... McKenzie, Central
OL ..... A. Stafford, Central
IL ..... Duncan, Beall
CF ..... Ralston, Central
IR ..... Brennan, Barton
OR ..... Hanna, Bruce

Honorable Mention — Devore, Bruce; Hunt and Fram, Beall; Inskeep, Barton; Jeffries, Central; Davisson, Bruce; Mallow, Willison and Dicken, Flintstone.

Coaches expressed the hope that Allegany and Fort Hill of Cumberland will enter the circuit next season and favored series of three games between each team instead of two contests.

Drew Annexes Three Prizes In 1948 Race

DeLuca Stole 34 Bases, Strauss Hit 8 Homers

Robert "Bob" Cook, pitcher-outfielder of the Frostburg Veterans of Foreign Wars, won the batting championship of the Bi-State Baseball League for the 1948 season by turning in an average of .510, Lonnie Marsh, secretary of the circuit, announced at the final meeting of the season last night at the V.F.W. Home, Frostburg.

Cook will receive a trophy or jacket from the league for his hitting performance. Cook also pitched Frostburg to 12 victories while losing four games.

Danny Drew of the Cumberland Amvets was the runner-up in batting with an average of .495. He was followed by George Marble, Midland .441, "Bud" Mosser, Westvaco .429 and Joe "Pepper" Inskeep, Barton-Westvaco .410.

Drew Earns Three Awards

Drew grabbed three of the 1948 league awards and will receive a trophy or jacket for each top performance. The Amvets' all-around star batted in the most runs—48, led the individuals in total bases and was the loop's leading pitcher with eight victories and no defeats.

Danny's wins were registered over Lonaconing 5-2, Midland 8-5, Mt. Savage 13-12 (13 innings), Westvaco 6-1, Barton 9-4, Frostburg 7-2, Keyser 8-0, Hyndman 11-2.

Two other Amvets finished on top in other departments at the close of the season, according to Marsh.

Sammy DeLuca, first sacker of the J. Louis Wolford Post team, retained the base stealing title by swiping 34 hassocks. Last season Sammy led in thefts with 32.

Strauss Led In Homers

The home run king of the circuit was Charley Strauss, Amvets' catcher, who belted eight round-trippers. Strauss is a member of the faculty of Accident High School in Garrett county.

President Robert M. Smith announced that the Queen City Brewers of Cumberland, league champions, will receive both trophy and pennant from the league. Queen City finished fourth during the season and in the Shaughnessy playoffs downed the Amvets and Westvaco to capture the title. The Amvets annexed the championship of the league in 1947.

The awards will be presented to Queen City and the leaders in various departments at a later date.

All of the teams were represented at the session but the Amvets. Officials of the circuit in attendance were President Smith, of Lonaconing; Jack Bradley, Barton, vice president; Lonnie Marsh, Westernport, and Ed Thompson, Lonaconing, umpire-in-chief.

The next meeting of the league will be held on the first Monday in February.

Wolverines Take Over First Place In Grid Standings

Supplant Notre Dame, Oklahoma Is Ninth

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Hail the "big four" of college football—Michigan, Notre Dame, Army and California.

In just that order, these unbeaten, untied powerhouses pushed to the front today in the weekly Associated Press rollcall of gridiron night.

All the others are strung out behind—as if in a secondary category.

Completing the top ten in order are Penn State, North Carolina, Southern Methodist, Northwestern, Oklahoma and Clemson—all except Clemson either beaten or tied.

Michigan supplanted the South Bend Irish as the No. 1 team, gaining the temporary upper hand in their dual tug o'war that carried over two seasons.

Irish Get Most Firsts

The Irish received the most first place votes from the nation's football writers and broadcasters submitting their first ten. They got 80 top votes to 77 for Michigan.

But the Wolverines amassed the edge in points awarded on the basis of ten for first, nine for second, etc. Their total was 1,836 compared with 1,775 for Notre Dame.

Army moved into third place on the strength of its 43-0 rout of Stanford Saturday. The Cadets received 1,553 points and 14 first place votes.

California, 28-13 conqueror of UCLA, collected 1,244 points — the only other team to pass the thousand mark.

The top 10 underwent a thorough reshuffling as a result of a riotious weekend that saw four outfits lose their perfect status.

Clemson Is Tenth

Oklahoma and Clemson are the other newcomers to the select circle. The Sooners, conquerors of Missouri, moved from 15th to ninth, tumbling Missouri to 20th. Clemson slipped into the tenth spot and Georgia Tech, upset by Tennessee, fell from sixth to 11th to make room.

Notre Dame and Northwestern meet in the big game this week. Army risks its lofty position against Pennsylvania. Clemson plays tough Wake Forest.

The point standings on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis (first place votes in parentheses):

1. Michigan (77)	1,836
2. Notre Dame (80)	1,775
3. Army (14)	1,553
4. California (11)	1,244
5. Penn State (1)	840
6. North Carolina (7)	737
7. Southern Methodist	625
8. Northwestern	575
9. Oklahoma (5)	466
10. Clemson (8)	284

11. Georgia Tech 205; 12. Michigan State (1) 158; 13. Georgia (1) 152; 14. Minnesota 135; 15. Oregon 126; 16. Nevada 95; 17. Pennsylvania 82; 18. Tennessee 56; 19. Wake Forest 30; 20. Missouri 31.

Others receiving points: William and Mary 29, Tulane 23, Mississippi 17, Kansas 13, Texas 12, Vanderbilt 10, Dartmouth 9, Cornell and Ohio State each 8, Illinois 7, Duke and Santa Clara each 6, Maryland 5, Rice 4, Princeton 3, Appalachian State and Canisius each 2, and Alabama, Baylor and Winston Salem Teachers, each 1.

5,000 See Louis Box At New Haven

Louis jabbed Reynolds off balance with his jarring left hand throughout most of the fray, using his right exactly five times.

Reynolds proved a willing, but cautious opponent. The world's champ was in charge throughout and emerged unscathed. Louis, who weighed 220, finished strong without breathing hard.

Reynolds, New England heavyweight champ, weighed 181, and one of his second was Gus Lesnevich, the light heavyweight boxer. The fighters wore 14 ounce gloves and neither wore headguards.

For his efforts, in which he didn't get up a sweat, Louis probably earned himself about $3,500 tonight.

BOWL-MORE JUNIORS SCORE OVER KEYSER

BARTON, Nov. 9—The Bowl-Mor Juniors of Barton defeated the Sports Center Juniors of Keyser in a three-game match by the margin of 110 pins. The match was rolled here.

Woody Symons led the victors with a 173 game and a 482 set. Riggleman set the pace for the losers with 169 and 461.

The formation of a junior dux league for the Lower George's Creek-Mineral County (W. Va.) region may become a reality. Teams from Lake, Piedmont, Westernport and Lonaconing are invited to join the junior circuit as well as other teams of the area.

West Chester Accepts Bid To Burley Bowl

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Nov. 9 (AP)—The West Chester (Pa) State Teachers College football team has accepted an invitation to meet Appalachian State Teachers College of Boone, N. C., in the Burley Bowl at Johnson City, Tenn., Thanksgiving Day.

Coach and Athletic Director Glenn Killinger announced today that his team, winner of six games and loser only to Delaware, would play in its third bowl game in two years.

Appalachian is unbeaten but tied so far this season.

William G. Helis Enters Johns Hopkins Hospital

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 9 (INS)—William G. Helis, multi-millionaire oilman and racehorse owner, entered Johns Hopkins Hospital today to undergo a physical examination.

Physicians said the examination would reveal whether an operation would be necessary.

A native of Greece, Helis came to America in 1904. He is owner of the Tanforan race track in California, several [illegible] of the largest breeding farms and racing stables in America.

Nine of the 12 scheduled five-rounders in which Randall "Skeets" Starkey, the Wiley Ford Walloper has engaged, have gone the limit.

The elongated middleweight stopped "Bucky" Henson of Baltimore in three; Bill Mann in three and Herbie Stowe of Washington in four.

Bouts that went the limit were with Buster Meador, Bob Howard, Homer Boone, Wilbur (Young Joe) Lewis, Dick Bryant, Lou Kozarek, Rudy Flowers, Danny Merwood and Omer Dart.

"Skeets" fought his first five-rounder with Meador on December 22, 1947.

One of West Virginia's outstanding baseball leaders passed away last Saturday when Watt B. Powell, 64, died in a Charleston hospital following a month's illness.

Powell was owner and president of the Charleston Mid - Atlantic League team for 12 years — 1931 through 1942—and he was manager of the Senators in 1933 and 1934.

Under Powell's leadership Charleston came into the M. A. in 1931 when the circuit comprised 12 clubs and the Senators battled it out with the Cumberland Colts for the championship, the locals under Leo Mackey winning the title series four games to two. Dick Hoblitzell, one-time Boston Red Sox first sacker, managed the West Virginians.

The following year, however, Charleston won the pennant by defeating Beckley in the playoffs 4 to 2.

Many local fans became acquainted with Powell on his visits here.

In his younger days he was a baseball player. At one time Powell was member of the city council at Charleston and at the time of his death he was state parks chief.

West Virginia University's freshmen football team, scheduled to play the Maryland plebes here Thursday, November 18, suffered their first defeat of the season at the hands of Kiski last week. The score was 7 to 6. The Morgantown eleven had won its first four games.

Bob Mathias, Kiski fullback and winner of the decathlon championship at the recent Olympic Games in London, scored the winners' touchdown by making a 62-yard return of a pass interception.

Arthur Ramey informs us that Friendsville High School's undefeated field ball team will play for the state Class "D" championship on Friday, November 12.

The Garrett county girls will oppose the winner of the New Windsor-Arundel contest.

Coached by Wilbur Glenn, the school's principal, Friendsville has won nine consecutive games, including eight in the drive to the county title.

Beall High School's soccer team will be given an opportunity to win state honors in the Class B tourney Tuesday, November 15 at Boonsboro. Beall's opponent will be either Mt. Rainier or Franklin who are listed to play Friday. It was "no contest" as far as Class B competition was concerned for Beall in the western end of the state.

Beall was the best of the Class "A" school soccer teams in the state last year.

It's funny how the size of the All-American Basketball League has shrunk since reorganization of the circuit was started.

Everyone was supposed to be trying to get into the act several months ago and as many as 16 teams were reported to be dickering for franchises. Latest reports indicate there will be eight starters—four in each division.

The league as it now stands is more compact than last season's circuit which extended to Dayton and Youngstown, Ohio.

Fittsburgh is the largest city in the circuit with a population of 671,659 and Warren, Pa., the smallest with 14,891. Other cities ranked according to population are Altoona 80,214, Wheeling 61,099, Cumberland 43,000, Washington, Pa., 26,166, Butler 24,477 and Oil City 20,379.

Bob Whip is business manager of the local team for the third successive year since the professional sport was revived in 1946-47.

Playing under the Amvets' banner two years ago the locals won 16 and lost 10. In 32 league and independent contests the Dukes won 12 and lost 20 last season. The team's A-A League record was 10 victories and 15 defeats.

Glenn R. Hawkins, coach of the football team of the West Virginia School for the Deaf at Romney, writes that a lad named Sheets is the team's leading scorer this season with 52 points on eight touchdowns and four extra points. Capt. Asbury trails with 47 on seven touchdowns and five conversions while Boyd holds third place in scoring with two touchdowns.

The Silents are enjoying one of their greatest football seasons with a record of four wins and one loss to date.

They opened with a 47-0 win over Keyser High's "B" team, defeated Parsons 20-0, the Ohio School for the Deaf 32-13, lost to the Virginia School for the Deaf, 19-7, and topped the New Jersey School for the Deaf, 32-7.

Coach Hawkins' eleven is scheduled to play Moorefield and concludes its seven-game schedule by meeting the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf away from home November 20.

Wonder how many yards Tommy Mont actually ran to score that first touchdown for the victorious Washington Redskins last Sunday after he replaced Sammy Baugh?

One account says he ran 33 yards. Another says 34 yards and adds that he detoured 104 yards. Still another reports he galloped 34 yards which actually covered 85 yards and last but not least the yardage on the play is set at 40.

Suppose we make it 35 and let it go at that.

Wildcats Will Swing Sunday Punch In Game Of The Week At South Bend

Irish Hold 22-2 Edge, 59,000 To See Battle

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Will the Rose Bowl district Northwestern's once-beaten Wildcats against undefeated Notre Dame Saturday?

The Irish better not figure it that way. Because from the opening whistle, the Wildcats will be swinging their Sunday punch in the nation's top football game at South Bend, Ind.

Bob Voigts, 32-year-old Northwestern coach, said today he has been swamped with letters from Wildcats' fans, telling him how to play against Notre Dame and still be ready to whip Illinois and clinch a bowl trip the following Saturday.

"But we're following our season-long policy of playing one game at a time," Voigts told a Chicago football writers' meeting.

"We're concentrating on Notre Dame. We're thinking about Notre Dame. We're going to try to beat Notre Dame."

Star Wildcat center Alex Sarkisian, Voigts disclosed, said one well-meaning fan "assumed" he would be held out of the Notre Dame game to be in good health for the bowl playoff clash with Illinois.

Voigts said Sarkisian retorted: "If that happens, I'll turn in my suit for the season."

Fur Always Flies

"That's the spirit of the whole squad," said Voigts, "they want to beat Notre Dame first, and then think about the Rose Bowl. I don't know if we can whip Notre Dame, but my kids will go all out trying."

The fur always flew in this ancient rivalry, despite its one-sidedness in the record books (Notre Dame leads 22 to 2 with two ties).

But Saturday's scrap before a capacity 59,000 should be a real wing-dinger. First of all, it will be the last meeting between the two schools after 23 straight years of feuding.

Not since 1940 when Northwestern last triumphed, have the Wildcats turned up with so potent an aggregation. They'll want to humble the Irish, not only for long-overdue revenge, but also to take a carload o. prestige into the Rose Bowl, if they get by Illinois.

For the Irish, there is not only the matter of shooting to match two all-time Notre Dame records, 20 straight wins and 26 games without defeat, but also to sprinkle a little salt on the Big Nine's tail. That conference's top teams, Michigan, Ohio State, Minnesota, Illinois and now Northwestern, have given Notre Dame the brush-off.

Still another item on the Irish side, is the fact that Michigan—this week rated over Notre Dame in the AP football poll — clouted Northwestern 28-0 earlier. Coach Frank Leahy will keep that score well in mind.

Respects Irish Speed

Wildcat scout Don Heap told the football writers today that after spying on Notre Dame against Iowa, Navy and Indiana, he was impressed by the exceptional team speed of the Irish.

Wake Forest Will Play In Bowl Game

Deacons Accept Invite To Dixie On New Year's

WAKE FOREST, N. C., Nov. 9 (INS)—The Wake Forest Deacons are Dixie Bowl-bound.

Coach "Pea Head" Walker announced today that Wake Forest has accepted a bid to play in the Birmingham game on New Year's Day.

The Deacons, who jumped into the bowl picture after their thrilling 27-20 victory over Duke last Saturday, as yet don't know who their opponent will be.

Walker, however, refuses to be concerned about it.

According to the veteran coach: "It's just another ball game, and we'll be out to win, naturally.

"I never could get excited about a bowl game — it's just more football."

At Birmingham, Chairman Holt Rast, of the Dixie Bowl committee said that his group has already begun seeking a worthy foe for the offensive-minded Deacons.

Observers believe the opposing eleven will be chosen from among Oklahoma, Missouri, Baylor and Villanova.

The Deacs have been an up-and-down club this season, though generally showing great offensive power. They have lost to Boston College and North Carolina, and have beaten George Washington, William and Mary, Duquesne, North Carolina State and Duke.

MARYLAND IS HOST TO NORTH CAROLINA

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 9—One of the top games of the Southern Conference will be staged this week at Griffith Stadium, Washington. The stellar performers are slated to be the University of North Carolina and the University of Maryland.

North Carolina, with a record of 13 wins and 1 tie over a period of two years, slapped the Terps, 19-0 last year under a rain smitten sky in the nation's capital. The Terps, who have a record of six wins and one loss for the season, are fractionally behind Carolina with a record of six wins being credited for this season out of the 13 previously mentioned and one tie, to William and Mary this past Saturday, 7-7.

One of the largest crowds ever to see a college football game in Washington is expected to see the encounter. It will be the 17th meeting between the two teams and the Old Liners have been held scoreless in the past four encounters. In fact Maryland has only won 4 games out of the 16.

Williamsport High Soccerites Beat Accident, 2-0

Unbeaten Team Scores In Mud At Frostburg

Britner, Baker Goals Decide District Title

Williamsport High School's soccer team won the District No. 1 title in the Maryland tournament for Class "D" schools yesterday by defeating Accident High School of Garrett county yesterday at Frostburg State Teachers' College Field by the score of 2 to 0.

The victory was the 37th against two tie games in three years for Coach Richard Doub's eleven. Last year Williamsport put Barton High School out of the tourney, 6-0, and Accident gained the right to play Williamsport yesterday by downing Barton, 3-1.

Washington county's undefeated eleven scored its first point of the game in the opening period when Britner, center halfback, booted a penalty goal. Bager scored a field goal for Williamsport in the second quarter, following through after the Accident goalie dropped the ball in front of the uprights.

Muddy field and a drizzling rain handicapped both teams.

Hobart Bowser, fullback, stood out on the defensive and Dale Glass, center forward, were Accident's best bets. Morgan, center forward and Britner, center half, were outstanding for the victors.

The setback eliminated Coach Charley Strauss' eleven from the tourney. Prior to yesterday's game Accident's record was seven wins, one lost and two ties.

Lineups:

Pos.	Williamsport (2)	Accident (0)
Goal	Harsh	Turney
FB	Palmer	H. Bowser
FB	Myers	Kahl
RHB	Martin	Sisler
CHB	Britner	Fratz
LHB	Nally	Brant
OL	Baker	Storey
IR	Cline	Hanft
CF	Morgan	D. Glass
IL	Burharp	Savage
OR	Spillman	R. Bowser

Score by periods:

Field goal scored by Baker.
Penalty goal scored by Britner.
Substitutes: Accident—Ferguson, Schlosnagle.
Referee—Ray Middleton.

Bob Voights, Wildcat coach; Bill Fischer, Irish guard; Don Burson, Wildcat quarter; Tom Worthington, Wildcat back; Frank Leahy, Irish coach. Frank Tripucka, Irish quarter.

NOTRE DAME, rocketing along to another undefeated season, meets its toughest grid foe Saturday, Nov. 13, when the Irish face Northwestern's Wildcats at South Bend. Northwestern represents the last major hurdle for the Irish in a bid for a clean slate. Other important games pit Yale against Princeton in a traditional struggle; Cornell and Dartmouth, Penn and Army and Arkansas and Southern Methodist. The Penn-Army game should settle the eastern grid leadership.

Army Backs Near Davis, Blanchard Record Of 1945

Stephenson, Stuart Need Only 129 Yards

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—With two games to go, Gil Stephenson and Bobby Stuart or Army are a cinch to shatter the best ball-carrying record set by their illustrious predecessors at West Point, Felix (Doc) Blanchard and Glenn Davis.

Figures given out today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau show that Stuart is the nation's No. 2 rushing star, with 772 yards, and that Stephenson is No. 4 with 761, the result of brilliant performances in last week's rout of Stanford here.

Their total of 1,533 yards places the "S-twins" only 129 yards behind the 1,662 yards picked up by Davis and Blanchard in 1945, when they were the scourge of collegiate gridirons.

Wendt Leads Rushers

Fred Wendt of Texas Mines still is the country's No. 1 rusher with 978 yards gained in seven games, and Jay Van Noy of Utah State is third with 767 in eight starts. John Panelli of Notre Dame is the most consistent ground gainer with an average of 8.6 yards in 61 carries.

Stan Heath of Nevada remained the nation's top passer and overall offensive star despite his team's one-sided loss to Santa Clara last week. He picked up 114 more yards to place his total at 1,754.

Charlie Justice, North Carolina's All-America nominee, climbed into second place in the overall ground gaining race by accumulating 160 yards as the Tarheels tied William and Mary on a muddy field. His total of 1,147 yards enabled him to displace Lindy Berry of Texas Christian in the runner-up spot.

In all, six players have run and passed for more than 1,000 yards whereas at this time a year ago only two were over that figure. It is a brand new game. It appears certain that two backs will complete more than 100 passes this season. In all prior collegiate football history, only three men have accomplished that feat.

Leaders Are Listed

Following are the individual leaders among major schools:

Total offense—(yards gained passing and rushing) Stan Heath, Nevada, 1,754; Charlie Justice, N. Carolina, 1,147; Lindy Berry, T.C.U., 1,062; Andy Davis, G. Washington, 1,041; Jim Finks, Tulsa, 1,040; Fred Wendt, Texas Mines, 1,005; Jim Walthall, W. Virginia, 950; John Rauch, Georgia, 867; Everett Faunce, Minnesota, 853; Bobby Thomason, V.M.I., 848.

Rushing — Fred Wendt, Texas Mines, 978 yards; Bobby Stuart, Army, 772; Jay Van Noy, Utah State, 767; Gil Stephenson, Army, 761; Eddie Price, Tulane, 758; John Papit, Virginia, 725; Jackie Jensen, California, 718; George Thomas, Okla., 675; Harry Szulborski, Purdue, 659; Emil Sitko, Notre Dame, 657.

Passing—Stan Heath, Nevada, 113 completions for 1758 yards; Jim Finks, Tulsa, 89 for 1,066; Bobby Thomason, V.M.I., 72 for 931; Jim Walthall, W. Virginia, 66 for 965; Norm Van Brocklin, Oregon, 57 for 880; Mike Boyda, Washington and Lee, 56 for 773; John Rausch, Georgia, 53 for 949; Jimmy Southard, Georgia Tech, 52 for 815; Andy Davis, G. Washington, 52 for 880; Ray Nagel, U.C.L.A., 51 for 860; Charlie Justice, N. Carolina, 50 for 682.

Glen Burke, City's Champ Place Kicker, Will Receive Trophy

Glen Burke, Fort Hill High School's place-kicking specialist, who recently broke the city record of 32 points after touchdown in a single season, will receive a trophy at special ceremonies at the Maryland Theater on Monday, November 15, at 9 p. m.

Burke has added 34 points in 42 tries. The record formerly held by Jimmy Manges of Fort Hill was 32 and was set in 1947.

Gridders who have been chosen in the K. of C. Player-of-the-Week contest since the start of the season will be given miniature gold footballs.

Earl Bruce of Allegany High has twice won the honor. Others are Burke, Tucker and Corbin of Fort Hill, Wes Abrams and Jim Ruehl, Allegany; Mickey Clark, LaSalle, and Paul Lindsay, Ridgeley.

Drew Annexes Three Prizes In 1948 Race

DeLuca Stole 34 Bases, Strauss Hit 8 Homers

Robert "Bob" Cook, pitcher-outfielder of the Frostburg Veterans of Foreign Wars, won the batting championship of the Bi-State Baseball League for the 1948 season by turning in an average of .510, Lonnie Marsh, secretary of the circuit, announced at the final meeting of the season last night at the V.F.W. Home, Frostburg.

Cook will receive a trophy or jacket from the league for his hitting performance. Cook also pitched Frostburg to 12 victories while losing four games.

Danny Drew of the Cumberland Amvets was the runner-up in batting with an average of .495. He was followed by George Marble, Midland .441, "Bud" Mosser, Westvaco .429 and Joe "Pepper" Inskeep, Barton-Westvaco .410.

Drew Earns Three Awards

Drew grabbed three of the 1948 league awards and will receive a trophy or jacket for each top performance. The Amvets' all-around star batted in the most runs—48, led the individuals in total bases and was the loop's leading pitcher with eight victories and no defeats.

Danny's wins were registered over Lonaconing 5-2, Midland 8-5, Mt. Savage 13-12 (13 innings), Westvaco 6-1, Barton 9-4, Frostburg 7-2, Keyser 8-0, Hyndman 11-2.

Two other Amvets finished on top in other departments at the close of the season, according to Marsh.

Sammy DeLuca, first sacker of the J. Louis Wolford Post team, retained the base stealing title by swiping 34 hassocks. Last season Sammy led in thefts with 32.

Strauss Led In Homers

The home run king of the circuit was Charley Strauss, Amvets' catcher, who belted eight round-trippers. Strauss is a member of the faculty of Accident High School in Garrett county.

President Robert M. Smith announced that the Queen City Brewers of Cumberland, league champions, will receive both trophy and pennant from the league. Queen City finished fourth during the season and in the Shaughnessy playoffs downed the Amvets and Westvaco to capture the title. The Amvets annexed the championship of the league in 1947.

The awards will be presented to Queen City and the leaders in various departments at a later date.

All of the teams were represented at the session but the Amvets. Officials of the circuit in attendance were President Smith, of Lonaconing; Jack Bradley, Barton, vice president; Lonnie Marsh, Westernport, and Ed Thompson, Lonaconing, umpire-in-chief.

The next meeting of the league will be held on the first Monday in February.

Wolverines Take Over First Place In Grid Standings

Supplant Notre Dame, Oklahoma Is Ninth

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Hail the "big four" of college football—Michigan, Notre Dame, Army and California.

In just that order, these unbeaten, untied powerhouses pushed to the front today in the weekly Associated Press rollcall of gridiron night.

All the others are strung out behind—as if in a secondary category.

Completing the top ten in order are Penn State, North Carolina, Southern Methodist, Northwestern, Oklahoma and Clemson—all except Clemson either beaten or tied.

Michigan supplanted the South Bend Irish as the No. 1 team, gaining the temporary upper hand in their dual tug o'war that carried over two seasons.

Irish Get Most Firsts

The Irish received the most first place votes from the nation's football writers and broadcasters submitting their first ten. They got 80 top votes to 77 for Michigan.

But the Wolverines amassed the edge in points awarded on the basis of ten for first, nine for second, etc. Their total was 1,836 compared with 1,775 for Notre Dame.

Army moved into third place on the strength of its 43-0 rout of Stanford Saturday. The Cadets received 1,553 points and 14 first place votes.

California, 28-13 conqueror of UCLA, collected 1,244 points — the only other team to pass the thousand mark.

The top 10 underwent a thorough reshuffling as a result of a riotious weekend that saw four outfits lose their perfect status.

Clemson Is Tenth

Oklahoma and Clemson are the other newcomers to the select circle. The Sooners, conquerors of Missouri, moved from 15th to ninth, tumbling Missouri to 20th. Clemson slipped into the tenth spot and Georgia Tech, upset by Tennessee, fell from sixth to 11th to make room.

Notre Dame and Northwestern meet in the big game this week. Army risks its lofty position against Pennsylvania. Clemson plays tough Wake Forest.

The point standings on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis (first place votes in parentheses):

1.	Michigan (77)	1,836
2.	Notre Dame (80)	1,775
3.	Army (14)	1,553
4.	California (1)	1,244
5.	Penn State (1)	840
6.	North Carolina (7)	727
7.	Southern Methodist	625
8.	Northwestern	575
9.	Oklahoma (5)	466
10.	Clemson (8)	284

11. Georgia Tech 205; 12. Michigan State (1) 158; 13. Georgia (1) 152; 14. Minnesota 135; 15. Oregon 126; 16. Nevada 95; 17. Pennsylvania 82; 18. Tennessee 56; 19. Wake Forest 30; 20. Missouri 31.

Others receiving points: William and Mary 29, Tulane 23, Mississippi 17, Kansas 12, Texas 12, Vanderbilt 10, Dartmouth 9, Cornell and Ohio State each 8, Illinois 7, Duke and Santa Clara each 6, Maryland 5, Rice 4, Princeton 3, Appalachian State and Canisius each 2, and Alabama, Baylor and Winston Salem Teachers, each 1.

Death Takes Watt Powell — Silents Have Big Season

By C. V. BURNS

Nine of the 12 scheduled five-rounders in which Randall "Skeets" Starkey, the Wiley Ford Walloper has engaged, have gone the limit.

The elongated middleweight stopped "Bucky" Henson of Baltimore in three; Bill Mann in three and Herbie Stowe of Washington in four.

Bouts that went the limit were with Buster Meador, Bob Howard, Homer Boone, Wilbur (Young Joe) Lewis, Dick Bryant, Lou Kozarek, Rudy Flowers, Danny Merwood and Omer Dart.

"Skeets" fought his first five-rounder with Meador on December 22, 1947.

One of West Virginia's outstanding baseball leaders passed away last Saturday when Watt B. Powell, 64, died in a Charleston hospital following a month's illness.

Powell was owner and president of the Charleston Mid - Atlantic League team for 12 years — 1931 through 1942—and he was manager of the Senators in 1933 and 1934.

Under Powell's leadership Charleston came into the M. A. in 1931 when the circuit comprised 12 clubs and the Senators battled it out with the Cumberland Colts for the championship, the locals under Leo Mackey winning the title series four games to two. Dick Hoblitzell, one-time Boston Red Sox first sacker, managed the West Virginians.

The following year, however, Charleston won the pennant by defeating Beckley in the playoffs 4 to 2.

Many local fans became acquainted with Powell on his visits here.

In his younger days he was a baseball player. At one time Powell was member of the city council at Charleston and at the time of his death he was state parks chief.

Beall was the best of the Class "A" school soccer teams in the state last year.

Irish Hold 22-2 Edge, 59,000 To See Battle

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Will the Rose Bowl district Northwestern's once-beaten Wildcats against undefeated Notre Dame Saturday?

The Irish better not figure it that way. Because from the opening whistle, the Wildcats will be swinging their Sunday punch in the nation's top football game at South Bend, Ind.

Bob Voigts, 32-year-old Northwestern coach, said today he has been swamped with letters from Wildcats' fans, telling him how to play against Notre Dame and still be ready to whip Illinois and clinch a bowl trip the following Saturday.

"But we're following our season-long policy of playing one game at a time," Voigts told a Chicago football writers' meeting.

"We're concentrating on Notre Dame. We're thinking about Notre Dame. We're going to try to beat Notre Dame."

Star Wildcat center Alex Sarkisian, Voigts disclosed, said one well-meaning fan "assumed" he would be held out of the Notre Dame game to be in good health for the bowl playoff clash with Illinois.

Voigts said Sarkisian retorted: "If that happens, I'll turn in my suit for the season."

Fur Always Flies

"That's the spirit of the whole squad," said Voigts, "they want to beat Notre Dame first, and then think about the Rose Bowl. I don't know if we can whip Notre Dame, but my kids will go all out trying."

The fur always flew in this ancient rivalry, despite its one-sidedness in the record books (Notre Dame leads 22 to 2 with two ties).

But Saturday's scrap before a capacity 59,000 should be a real wing-dinger. First of all, it will be the last meeting between the two schools after 23 straight years of feuding.

Not since 1940 when Northwestern last triumphed, have the Wildcats turned up with so potent an aggregation. They'll want to humble the Irish, not only for long-overdue revenge, but also to take a carload o. prestige into the Rose Bowl, if they get by Illinois.

For the Irish, there is not only the matter of shooting to match two all-time Notre Dame records, 20 straight wins and 26 games without defeat, but also to sprinkle a little salt on the Big Nine's tail. That conference's top teams, Michigan, Ohio State, Minnesota, Illinois and now Northwestern, have given Notre Dame the brush-off.

Still another item on the Irish side, is the fact that Michigan—this week rated over Notre Dame in the AP football poll — clouted Northwestern 28-0 earlier. Coach Frank Leahy will keep that score well in mind.

Respects Irish Speed

Wildcat scout Don Heap told the football writers today that after spying on Notre Dame against Iowa, Navy and Indiana, he was impressed by the exceptional team speed of the Irish.

Wake Forest Will Play In Bowl Game

WAKE FOREST, N. C., Nov. 9 (INS)—The Wake Forest Deacons are Dixie Bowl-bound.

Coach "Pea Head" Walker announced today that Wake Forest has accepted a bid to play in the Birmingham game on New Year's Day.

The Deacons, who jumped into the bowl picture after their thrilling 27-20 victory over Duke last Saturday, as yet don't know who their opponent will be.

Walker, however, refuses to be concerned about it.

According to the veteran coach: "It's just another ball game, and we'll be out to win, naturally.

"I never could get excited about a bowl game — it's just more football."

At Birmingham, Chairman Holt Rast, of the Dixie Bowl committee said that his group has already begun seeking a worthy foe for the offensive-minded Deacons.

Observers believe the opposing eleven will be chosen from among Oklahoma, Missouri, Baylor and Villanova.

The Deacs have been an up-and-down club this season, though generally showing great offensive power. They have lost to Boston College and North Carolina, and have beaten George Washington, William and Mary, Duquesne, North Carolina State and Duke.

MARYLAND IS HOST TO NORTH CAROLINA

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 9—One of the top games of the Southern Conference will be staged this week at Griffith Stadium, Washington. The stellar performers are slated to be the University of North Carolina and the University of Maryland.

North Carolina, with a record of 13 wins and 1 tie over a period of two years, slapped the Terps, 19-0 last year under a rain smitten sky in the nation's capital. The Terps, who have a record of six wins and one loss for the season, are fractionally behind Carolina with a record of six wins being credited for this season out of the 13 previously mentioned and one tie, to William and Mary this past Saturday, 7-7.

One of the largest crowds ever to see a college football game in Washington is expected to see the encounter. It will be the 17th meeting between the two teams and the Old Liners have been held scoreless in the past four encounters. In fact Maryland has only won 4 games out of the 16.

5,000 See Louis Box At New Haven

Louis jabbed Reynolds off balance with his jarring left hand throughout most of the fray, using his right exactly five times.

Reynolds proved a willing, but cautious opponent. The world's champ was in charge throughout and emerged unscathed. Louis, who weighed 220, finished strong without breathing hard.

Reynolds, New England heavyweight champ, weighed 181, and one of his second was Gus Lesnevich, the light heavyweight boxer. The fighters wore 14 ounce gloves and neither wore headguards.

For his efforts, in which he didn't get up a sweat, Louis probably earned himself about $3,500 tonight.

BOWL-MORE JUNIORS SCORE OVER KEYSER

Woody Symons led the victors with a 173 game and a 482 set. Riggleman set the pace for the losers with 169 and 461.

The formation of a junior dux league for the Lower George's Creek-Mineral County (W. Va.) region may become a reality. Teams from Luke, Piedmont, Westernport and Lonaconing are invited to join the junior circuit as well as other teams of the area.

West Chester Accepts Bid To Burley Bowl

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Nov. 9 (AP)—The West Chester (Pa.) State Teachers College football team has accepted an invitation to meet Appalachian State Teachers College of Boone, N. C., in the Burley Bowl at Johnson City, Tenn., Thanksgiving Day.

Coach and Athletic Director Glenn Killinger announced today that his team, winner of six games and loser only to Delaware, would play in its third bowl game in two years.

Appalachian is unbeaten but tied so far this season.

Player Owned By Cubs May Never Play Again

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (INS)—Physicians reported today that Elwood Grantham, young outfielder owned by the Chicago Cubs and considered one of the longest-hitting prospects in baseball, may never play again.

Grantham injured his knee while filling in at second base for the Nashville Vols of the Southern Association last summer. The Cubs brought him to Chicago for treatment, but doctors said today the knee failed to respond properly.

Grantham may undergo surgery early next year.

Player Owned By Cubs May Never Play Again

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (INS)—Physicians reported today that Elwood Grantham, young outfielder owned by the Chicago Cubs and considered one of the longest-hitting prospects in baseball, may never play again.

Grantham injured his knee while filling in at second base for the Nashville Vols of the Southern Association last summer. The Cubs brought him to Chicago for treatment, but doctors said today the knee failed to respond properly.

Grantham may undergo surgery early next year.

Lots Of Summer Romances End For Many Reasons

By NANCY MOTTRAM

Nancy Mottram

(Q) "I have been writing to a girl I met this summer, and we'd been planning to see each other Christmas vacation and as many other times as we could. Then, all of a sudden, she wrote a letter asking me to stop writing and telling me that we were through. I haven't the ghost of an idea what happened. Should I write and ask her about it, or leave it at that? It really has me wondering."

(A) Lots of summer romances come to the same ending. Your girl might have found someone else, or just decided that there wasn't any future in a long-distance friendship. Write one more note, asking her why she changed her mind, if for no other reason than to satisfy your curiosity. But from her point of view, it's pretty clear that it's all over. Start dating the local lasses and put this relationship in your memory book.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I've never gone steady. Ever since I started to date, I've always gone out with a lot of different boys, and now, for the first time, I've accepted a boy're fraternity pin. I've been going steady with him for three weeks, and I know it isn't going to work. I don't like it and I want to break it off without hurting his feelings, but what can I do?"

(A) Don't try stepping out behind his back. He's sure to find out about it and then you'll have real difficulties. The lads who encourage you to play that sort of trick won't have much respect for it, either. Your best bet is to be frank about it. He can still be your favorite date, but you're not ready to be tied down to just one. Tell him that you're sorry, that you want to be fair, but going steady isn't for you. Then hand him back the pin.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I have already decided to give my picture to the boy I'm going with for his birthday present. But I can't think of anything to write on it. I wonder if you could give me any advice?"

(A) There are hundreds of things you could write—but the boys in your life come and go, and it's wiser not to write anything you might be sorry for later. A picture is personal and shouldn't be handed out to just anybody. So, if you're sure that it's the gift you want to give him, start thinking about those few words right now. Even a beautiful picture can be spoiled by the wrong thing, and it's best to stay on the middle road. Before you begin writing, make sure it's something that won't make you cringe when you think of it three romances later.

Nancy will answer as many questions as possible in her column. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Radio's "give-away" programs were under fire recently as the Federal Communications Commission heard argument against banning them from the air.

You all know what a "give-away" program is . . . that's radio talk for, "Hey, Mabel, which one of our refrigerators did you put the butter in?"

The Income Tax Bureau is one of those with a complaint against the "give-away" shows. In the past year it's had to hire 12 extra men at Fort Knox . . . those washing machines are so hard to stack.

The programs are trying to top each other by giving away bigger and bigger things. The announcer on one show signed off by saying: "This is the Radio Broadcasting Company . . . unless somebody has won it."

Every week the "give-away" shows are handing out bigger and grander prizes. In fact, I heard that a lot of Indians have been going on "give-away" shows. They figure if they get on the right show they can get Manhattan island back.

Charles W. Eyler Is Awarded $290 In Damage Suit

Claimed $1,000 In Auto Collision

After an hour's deliberation, a Mineral County Circuit Court jury last night awarded Charles W. Eyler $290 in his damage suit against Russell Wagoner. Eyler had asked $1,000.

Eight witnesses testified for Eyler yesterday in his suit for damages to his car and for time lost from work as a result of a collision with Wagoner's automobile near Eyler's home in Fort Ashby on the night of April 5, 1947.

Testimony from the plaintiff's witnesses indicated Wagoner, who was driving west on Route 28, was under the influence of intoxicating beverages and as a result of such crashed into Eyler as he was entering Route 28 from the private driveway of his neighbor.

Four defense witnesses testified that Wagoner was not under the influence of liquor or other intoxicants and that the accident could not have been avoided because Eyler pulled on to the highway in front of the defendant's car.

Wagoner was convicted of drunken driving during the April term of Mineral County Circuit Court. The charge was made by West Virginia State Police following the accident.

Eyler was represented by Attorneys Vernon E. Rankin and James H. Swadley, Jr., and Wagoner was represented by Attorney Ralph Haines, Romney.

Scheduled for trial today are four civil cases:

Henry W. Burley against H. M. Wright, in which Burley is seeking damages as a result of an automobile accident; Larry R. Mayhew against Joseph Samuels and others, in which Mayhew is seeking damages for injuries he claims he suffered when he fell in front of Samuels' home in Piedmont last winter when the sidewalk was icy; Alvie O. Whetzel against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, in which Whetzel is seeking damages to his automobile which he says was struck by a locomotive, and George W. Shaw against Jay E. Johnson, an appeal from a justice of the peace for $300 damages.

Moorefield Ball Park Lighting Group Formed

Ralph J. Bean Heads Citizens Committee

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Ralph J. Bean was named chairman of a citizens committee to continue an attempt to secure lights for the Moorefield ball park at an organization meeting held at Moorefield High School Friday. Jonathon Paugh, coach at the high school, was named secretary and treasurer.

For the past few months interested sports followers in the county have been gathering data on the cost of such an installation and making surveys as to ways and means of financing such a project. In the discussion at the meeting Friday it was brought out that at least four football games, 20 baseball games and many softball games could be played under lights during a proposed six months season.

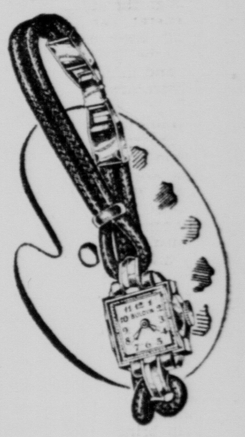

The cost of the installation would be from $14,000 to $18,000 and the cost of the current would be at least $125 per month. However, it was pointed out that attendance at the games would increase fourfold and that similar installations in other towns have paid out during the first and second seasons.

The plan proposed by W. W. Vance, member of the committee, was for a non-profit organization with several hundred members pledging at least a dollar a month until the project was paid for. This plan met with approval of the committee.

Members meeting Friday were R. J. Bean, John Mathias, Nelson Harter, R. S .Dispanet, Don Bean, John Williams, Angus Seymour, Tom Hawse, Hink Fisher, R. M. Gamble, P. W. Clarke, J. E. Matson, Don Hott, R. E. Fisher, Irvin Bowman, W. F. Toohey, H. M. Calhoun, W. W. Vance, J. M. Harrison, Paul Evans, O H. Bean, F. E. Arnold, Martin Kelly, E. L. Puffenberger and Jonathon Paugh.

Another meeting will be held within three weeks to examine bids for the proposed lights.

Claimed $1,000 In Auto Collision

After an hour's deliberation, a Mineral County Circuit Court jury last night awarded Charles W. Eyler $290 in his damage suit against Russell Wagoner. Eyler had asked $1,000.

Eight witnesses testified for Eyler yesterday in his suit for damages to his car and for time lost from work as a result of a collision with Wagoner's automobile near Eyler's home in Fort Ashby on the night of April 5, 1947.

Testimony from the plaintiff's witnesses indicated Wagoner, who was driving west on Route 28, was under the influence of intoxicating beverages and as a result of such crashed into Eyler as he was entering Route 28 from the private driveway of his neighbor.

Four defense witnesses testified that Wagoner was not under the influence of liquor or other intoxicants and that the accident could not have been avoided because Eyler pulled on to the highway in front of the defendant's car.

Wagoner was convicted of drunken driving during the April term of Mineral County Circuit Court. The charge was made by West Virginia State Police following the accident.

Eyler was represented by Attorneys Vernon E. Rankin and James H. Swadley, Jr., and Wagoner was represented by Attorney Ralph Haines, Romney.

Scheduled for trial today are four civil cases:

Henry W. Burley against H. M. Wright, in which Burley is seeking damages as a result of an automobile accident; Larry R. Mayhew against Joseph Samuels and others, in which Mayhew is seeking damages for injuries he claims he suffered when he fell in front of Samuels' home in Piedmont last winter when the sidewalk was icy; Alvie O. Whetzel against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, in which Whetzel is seeking damages to his automobile which he says was struck by a locomotive, and George W. Shaw against Jay E. Johnson, an appeal from a justice of the peace for $300 damages.

Moorefield Ball Park Lighting Group Formed

Ralph J. Bean Heads Citizens Committee

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Ralph J. Bean was named chairman of a citizens committee to continue an attempt to secure lights for the Moorefield ball park at an organization meeting held at Moorefield High School Friday. Jonathon Paugh, coach at the high school, was named secretary and treasurer.

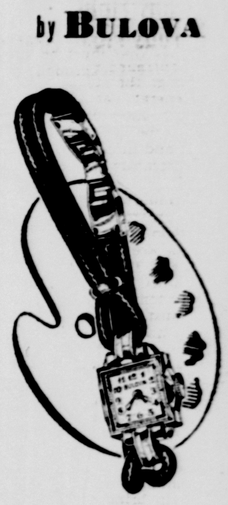

For the past few months interested sports followers in the county have been gathering data on the cost of such an installation and making surveys as to ways and means of financing such a project. In the discussion at the meeting Friday it was brought out that at least four football games, 20 baseball games and many softball games could be played under lights during a proposed six months season.

The cost of the installation would be from $14,000 to $18,000 and the cost of the current would be at least $125 per month. However, it was pointed out that attendance at the games would increase fourfold and that similar installations in other towns have paid out during the first and second seasons.

The plan proposed by W. W. Vance, member of the committee, was for a non-profit organization with several hundred members pledging at least a dollar a month until the project was paid for. This plan met with approval of the committee.

Members meeting Friday were R. J. Bean, John Mathias, Nelson Harter, R. S .Dispanet, Don Bean, John Williams, Angus Seymour, Tom Hawse, Hink Fisher, R. M. Gamble, P. W. Clarke, J. E. Matson, Don Hott, R. E. Fisher, Irvin Bowman, W. F. Toohey, H. M. Calhoun, W. W. Vance, J. M. Harrison, Paul Evans, O. H. Bean, F. E. Arnold, Martin Kelly, E. L. Puffenberger and Jonathon Paugh.

Another meeting will be held within three weeks to examine bids for the proposed lights.

Pair Confess To Local Robbery

Calvin Ashbaugh, 23, alias James Oliver Kent, formerly of this city, who was captured Monday in a hotel at Warren, Ohio, and an accomplice held in Baltimore, have both confessed to the armed robbery of Martin's Liquor Store, Baltimore Street, last week.

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn said that Ashbaugh's partner, William J. Rinker, 47, Brunswick, admitted the local robbery and said they got $40 each of money taken from the store's cash register.

Rinker, who was wounded three times in a gunfight with Baltimore police November 3, two days after the holdup here, is being held under $10,000 bond in Baltimore for grand jury action on charges of assault and armed robbery. Rinker also confessed to the robbery here.

Sgt. John Lepola, head of the Warren Detective Bureau, said Ashbaugh also confessed to robbing two drug stores in southwest Baltimore prior to the gun battle. The fugitive was arrested after authorities in Warren received information from Baltimore that he might be in that area to visit relatives, he added.

According to Sgt. Lepola, Ashbaugh was unarmed and offered no resistance when apprehended. He said the prisoner agreed to waive extradition to Maryland and that Baltimore police planned to arrive there tomorrow to return him for prosecution.

Ashbaugh was not wounded when taken into custody at Warren. Baltimore police had said they also thought he had been hit during the gun battle.

Philip Becker, clerk at the local store, had identified Ashbaugh as one of two bandits who held him up November 1 and took approximately $115.

Chief Flynn indicated detainers will be placed against the pair for prosecution for the holdup here.

Vigorous Fight

the things that must be known are the general background of Communism, the current Communist Party Line and Communist-controlled and influenced organizations, their literature and principal characters.

Informing the public is necessary if the program is to succeed since all should know (1) what the Communists are up to abroad and at home and (2) how this affects this community.

The community, the Chamber said, must be protected against the usually underground Red operations through its front organizations, propaganda experts, controlled labor unions and controlled third parties and splinter groups.

One urgent need is to "dry up" local sources of funds which have kept the Communist movement well financed.

Community work against the Reds will help bring about a better national attitude on Communism, the Chamber asserts.

Whatever action is taken must be done well, the group insists, since the Communists use exceedingly well trained experts. In many communities they operate schools to train their people. "We should do no less," it warns, since to defeat them "your community will need all the skill and knowledge which can be mustered and developed.

State Welfare

ards, Patterson said the 1950 budget will ask for about a million and a half dollars more funds.

At the last session of the Legislature the Welfare Department asked for two and a half millions, he said, but increased Federal assistance and other adjustments has reduced the figure about a million dollars.

Patterson said the budget has been carefully prepared, covers the bare essentials of the program. Compared with other states, Maryland is spending less than all others but four, he said, on its welfare program.

Among those present were C. William Gilchrist, county board chairman; John R. Wilkinson, Rev. B. Ralph Mark and County Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, board members; Commissioners James Holmes and William H. Lemmert; Mrs. Elinor Westerfeld, Welfare Board executive secretary; Benjamin F. O'Rourke, legislative representative of the Railroad Brotherhoods, I. C. Brant, L. E. Geiger, Miss Ethel Rose, Mrs. Anne Staugle, a representative of the Cumberland News, and Delegate Reed.

The group expressed its appreciation to Patterson for coming here to explain the program and budget and outline the plans and needs of the Department of Public Welfare. He visits Garrett Counyt officials today.

Firm Stand Asked Against Russia

Miss Ismet Sanli, noted Turkish journalist, last night told the Cumberland National Dinner Club that America should call Russia's bluff if the U. S. is to stem the tide of Red expansion in the world.

Turkey, she explained, is the "soft belly" in Russian fortifications and is a very direct threat to Russia.

Turkey, she added, was the first country to threaten Russian expansion after the end of World War II and told Russia she was willing to talk things over at the conference table but that if the Reds crossed the border, they would fight to the last Turk.

Hobbies Give Heart Victims A Refuge

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—If you get heart disease and have failed to develop a hobby while you are young, says Dr. Frederick A. Willius, of the Mayo Clinic heart section, you may be:

"A hapless, depressed and often frantic personality who suddenly, and often too late, realizes that the very foundation of his restricted world has vanished. Life becomes a conflict of emotions and each day a futile eternity."

The advice is addressed to professional men and doctors, but to doctors especially because they have heart troubles even oftener than other professional people, and they are among the greatest offenders in having no hobbies.

Writing in the "Proceedings of the Clinic," Dr. Willius advises that the hobbies be sedentary, and start early in life. Sedentary because if heart troubles come, they frequently make any other kind of hobby impossible. They must also be constructive, he says, and keep both hands and mind busy. If they aren't constructive, interest lags and this causes decadence of spirit, morale and intelligence.

37th Statue Ready For St. Peter's Niches

VATICAN CITY—(AP)—Soon all but one of the 39 big recesses in St. Peter's Basilica for statues of the "Heroes of the Faith" will be filled.

Recently the 37th statue, representing Saint Lucia Filippini, 18th-century founder of the Order of the Pious Teachers, was brought into the Basilica.

The 18-foot, 15-ton marble statue by Roman sculptor Silvio Silva is being put in position for the hoist to its niche—in the left wing of the cross under the dome. It represents the saint protecting with one hand a kneeling girl and raising towards the sky a cross held in her right hand.

The 38th statue, protraying St. Louise de Marillac, will soon be brought into the basilica.

The statue to fill the last niche has not been decided upon, Vatican sources said.

In brief, today's committee action:

1. Called on Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia to co-operate with Greece in settling their troubles. The vote was 43 to 0. The Russian bloc refused to vote.

2. Called on the three Soviet satellites to co-operate with the U. N. special committee on the Balkans (UNSCOB) which conducts a watchdog role in Greece's civil-war ridden frontiers. The vote was 50 to 0, with the Russian group not voting.

3. Recommended that all nations do nothing to assist any group fighting the Greek government Approved 42 to 0.

U. S. Mint May Make 7 Cent Coin

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Nov. 9 (INS)—The U. S. Treasury department may be asked to mint a 7-cent coin.

The people who may be doing the asking are members of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association, meeting in St. Petersburg.

There is a widespread feeling among the publishers that the price of newspapers may soon be forced up to 7 cents.

Myron Chambers of the Knoxville, Tenn., News-Sentinel, who suggested the treasury request, pointed out that such a coin would help the street sales of the papers.

Bruce Dudley To Head American Association

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9 (AP)—Dapper Bruce Dudley of Louisville, a former sports writer, today became the seventh president of the American Association.

Choice of Dudley, who has been president of the Louisville club, to succeed Frank Lane as head of the association came in one of the quickest elections on record. Less than 10 minutes elapsed from the time the league directors gathered until they had heard the report of their three-man nominating committee and unanimously voted for Dudley.

Lane resigned to become general manager of the Chicago White Sox.

Dudley's three-year term will begin Nov. 15 and he said the league offices would be moved from Columbus, O., to Louisville about the first of the year.

Ortmann, Michigan Soph, Tops Big Nine In Total Offense

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (INS)—Chuck Ortmann, Michigan's star sophomore, remains the Big Nine's individual total-offense leader — but the field is closing in.

Latest figures from Western Conference headquarters showed today that Ev Faunce of Minnesota is gaining on the talented pass-and-run Wolverine, and there are others just a hoot and holler behind.

Fullback Gasper Perricone, a Northwestern second-stringer, has taken the lead in rushing with an average of 6.2 yards for each of his 20 carries in Western Conference play. He hasn't been half so busy, however, as teammate Art Murakowski, who's carried the ball 71 times for a 5.2 average, or Purdue's redoubtable Harry Szulborski, who's averaging 4.7 yards per try in 91 sallies with the ball.

Crtmann, who wasn't involved in conference play last Saturday, remains the top pass-thrower in the league, and teammate Leo Koceski, another scorer, is still the leading scorer, with 30 points on five touchdowns in four conference games.

Sgt. John Lepola, head of the Warren Detective Bureau, said Ashbaugh also confessed to robbing two drug stores in southwest Baltimore prior to the gun battle. The fugitive was arrested after authorities in Warren received information from Baltimore that he might be in that area to visit relatives, he added.

According to Sgt. Lepola, Ashbaugh was unarmed and offered no resistance when apprehended. He said the prisoner agreed to waive extradition to Maryland and that Baltimore police planned to arrive there tomorrow to return him for prosecution.

Ashbaugh was not wounded when taken into custody at Warren. Baltimore police had said they also thought he had been hit during the gun battle.

Philip Becker, clerk at the local store, had identified Ashbaugh as one of two bandits who held him up November 1 and took approximately $115.

Chief Flynn indicated detainers will be placed against the pair for prosecution for the holdup here.

Eight children, ranging in age from 6 months to 18 years, took part. They were Lois Shaffer, Kathleen Keeley, Wayne Herpich, Johnny Gornall, Frances Ann Deffenbaugh, Emerson Miller, Betty Lou Driver and Homer Martz.

Vigorous Fight

the things that must be known are the general background of Communism, the current Communist Party Line and Communist-controlled and influenced organizations, their literature and principal characters.

Informing the public is necessary if the program is to succeed since all should know (1) what the Communists are up to abroad and at home and (2) how this affects this community.

The community, the Chamber said, must be protected against the usually underground Red operations through its front organizations, propaganda experts, controlled labor unions and controlled third parties and splinter groups.

One urgent need is to "dry up" local sources of funds which have kept the Communist movement well financed.

Community work against the Reds will help bring about a better national attitude on Communism, the Chamber asserts.

Whatever action is taken must be done well, the group insists, since the Communists use exceedingly well trained experts. In many communities they operate schools to train their people. "We should do no less," it warns, since to defeat them "your community will need all the skill and knowledge which can be mustered and developed.

State Welfare

ards, Patterson said the 1950 budget will ask for about a million and a half dollars more funds.

At the last session of the Legislature the Welfare Department asked for two and a half millions, he said, but increased Federal assistance and other adjustments has reduced the figure about a million dollars.

Patterson said the budget has been carefully prepared, covers the bare essentials of the program. Compared with other states, Maryland is spending less than all others but four, he said, on its welfare program.

Among those present were C. William Gilchrist, county board chairman; John R. Wilkinson, Rev. B. Ralph Mark and County Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, board members; Commissioners James Holmes and William H. Lemmert; Mrs. Elinor Westerfeld, Welfare Board executive secretary; Benjamin F. O'Rourke, legislative representative of the Railroad Brotherhoods, I. C. Brant, L. E. Geiger, Miss Ethel Rose, Mrs. Anne Staugle, a representative of the Cumberland News, and Delegate Reed.

The group expressed its appreciation to Patterson for coming here to explain the program and budget and outline the plans and needs of the Department of Public Welfare. He visits Garrett County officials today.

Bowling Green Firemen Take Extension Course

Twenty-four members of the Bowling Green Fire department are enrolled in an extension course in fire training given by the University of Maryland.

The first three lessons consisted of talks on state fire laws, fireman's discipline and operation and care of the fire truck.

Those completing the course will receive a certificate of award and the public may attend.

Firm Stand Asked Against Russia

Miss Ismet Sanli, noted Turkish journalist, last night told the Cumberland National Dinner Club that America should call Russia's bluff if the U. S. is to stem the tide of Red expansion in the world.

Turkey, she explained, is the "soft belly" in Russian fortifications and is a very direct threat to Russia.

Turkey, she added, was the first country to threaten Russian expansion after the end of World War II and told Russia she was willing to talk things over at the conference table but that if the Reds crossed the border, they would fight to the last Turk.

BOWLING GREEN PARSONAGE—Rev. and Mrs. Walter F. Reif have moved into the new $12,000 brick parsonage built for the pastor of the Reformed Church of Bowling Green which will be formally taken into the Pittsburgh Synod of the Evangelical and Reformed Church Sunday. The house was especially constructed as a parsonage. The room on the right is the pastor's study, having a separate entrance to the side street. There are a living room, dining room, kitchen, bath and two bedrooms on the first floor. When the second floor is completed, it will have two more rooms, another bath and storage space under the two gables. Part of the basement will be used for the nursery, kindergarten and primary classes of the Sunday School until a church can be built. The rest of the Sunday School classes and the church service will be held in the Bowling Green Fire Hall as usual. The parsonage was financed by the Board of National Missions of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and was given, as a gift, to the Bowling Green congregation.

New members are being sought for the organization and wives, mothers, daughters, and sisters of honorably discharged veterans are eligible, she said.

Hobbies Give Heart Victims A Refuge

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—If you get heart disease and have failed to develop a hobby while you are young, says Dr. Frederick A. Willius, of the Mayo Clinic heart section, you may be:

"A hapless, depressed and often frantic personality who suddenly, and often too late, realizes that the very foundation of his restricted world has vanished. Life becomes a conflict of emotions and each day a futile eternity."

The advice is addressed to professional men and doctors, but to doctors especially because they have heart troubles even oftener than other professional people, and they are among the greatest offenders in having no hobbies.

Writing in the "Proceedings of the Clinic," Dr. Willius advises that the hobbies be sedentary, and start early in life. Sedentary because if heart troubles come, they frequently make any other kind of hobby impossible. They must also be constructive, he says, and keep both hands and mind busy. If they aren't constructive, interest lags and this causes decadence of spirit, morale and intelligence.

37th Statue Ready For St. Peter's Niches

VATICAN CITY—(AP)—Soon all but one of the 39 big recesses in St. Peter's Basilica for statues of the "Heroes of the Faith" will be filled.

Recently the 37th statue, representing Saint Lucia Filippini, 18th-century founder of the Order of the Pious Teachers, was brought into the Basilica.

The 18-foot, 15-ton marble statue by Roman sculptor Silvio Silva is being put in position for the hoist to its niche—in the left wing of the cross under the dome. It represents the saint protecting with one hand a kneeling girl and raising towards the sky a cross held in her right hand.

The 38th statue, protraying St. Louise de Marillac, will soon be brought into the basilica.

The statue to fill the last niche has not been decided upon, Vatican sources said.

Spaak, Belgium, might make to stop the filibuster.

Bebler told Dulles the purpose of the Soviet group was to "give you time to think because the thing you are doing is dangerous to the peace and well-being of countries."

Bebler jestingly proposed that the 10-minute limit apply to all delegates except Russia, the Soviet Ukraine, White Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia — members of the Soviet Bloc.

Bogomolov Speaks Up

But Alexander Bogomolov, Soviet Ambassador to France who was sitting as the Russian delegate, spoke up seriously and said: "Mr. Chairman, I want to make it clear we did not ask Yugoslavia to speak for us."

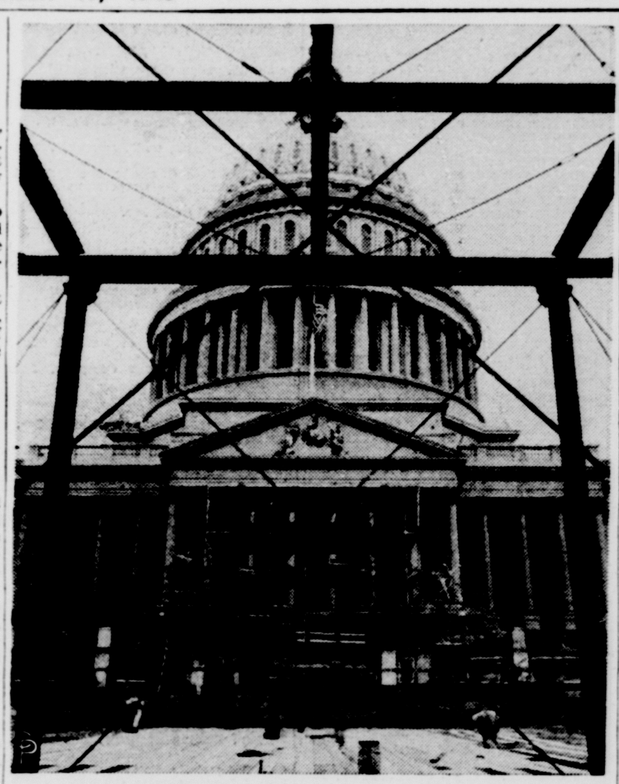

When the committee finally adjourned tonight it had approved all major provisions of the four-power resolution. It will continue voting at 10:30 a. m. (4:30 a. m., EST) tomorrow.

In brief, today's committee action:

1. Called on Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia to co-operate with Greece in settling their troubles. The vote was 43 to 0. The Russian bloc refused to vote.

2. Called on the three Soviet satellites to co-operate with the U. N. special committee on the Balkans (UNSCOB) which conducts a watchdog role in Greece's civil-war ridden frontiers. The vote was 50 to 0, with the Russian group not voting.

3. Recommended that all nations do nothing to assist any group fighting the Greek government Approved 42 to 0.

U. S. Mint May Make 7 Cent Coin

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Nov. 9 (INS)—The U. S. Treasury department may be asked to mint a 7-cent coin.

The people who may be doing the asking are members of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association, meeting in St. Petersburg.

There is a widespread feeling among the publishers that the price of newspapers may soon be forced up to 7 cents.

Swiss Check House Racket

GENEVA (AP) — The tidy Swiss have a new kind of housecleaning problem. The federal council has announced that it is taking steps to clean the rental racketeers out of Geneva. The seat of the European headquarters of the United Nations is bulging with new residents and there aren't enough homes for them.

Before the war there were 6,000 empty dwellings in Geneva. Now there is an estimated shortage of 2,500. Operators have obtained control of a large number of apartments and rent them at fantastic prices either furnished or unfurnished. Some foreigners, in their anxiety to find a home, are even paying rent on apartments still under construction.

Bruce Dudley To Head American Association

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9 (AP)—Dapper Bruce Dudley of Louisville, a former sports writer, today became the seventh president of the American Association.

Choice of Dudley, who has been president of the Louisville club, to succeed Frank Lane as head of the association came in one of the quickest elections on record. Less than 10 minutes elapsed from the time the league directors gathered until they had heard the report of their three-man nominating committee and unanimously voted for Dudley.

Lane resigned to become general manager of the Chicago White Sox.

Dudley's three-year term will begin Nov. 15 and he said the league offices would be moved from Columbus, O., to Louisville about the first of the year.

Ortmann, Michigan Soph, Tops Big Nine In Total Offense

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (INS)—Chuck Ortmann, Michigan's star sophomore, remains the Big Nine's individual total-offense leader — but the field is closing in.

Latest figures from Western Conference headquarters showed today that Ev Faunce of Minnesota is gaining on the talented pass-and-run Wolverine, and there are others just a hoot and holler behind.

Fullback Gasper Perricone, a Northwestern second-stringer, has taken the lead in rushing with an average of 6.2 yards for each of his 20 carries in Western Conference play. He hasn't been half so busy, however, as teammate Art Murakowski, who's carried the ball 71 times for a 5.2 average, or Purdue's redoubtable Harry Szulborski, who's averaging 4.7 yards per try in 91 sallies with the ball.

Ortmann, who wasn't involved in conference play last Saturday, remains the top pass-thrower in the league, and teammate Leo Koceski, another scorer, is still the leading scorer, with 30 points on five touchdowns in four conference games.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

G W G L W M S M S X U W N M G H M D X Y S L
D S Z S V B I P S Z W — I P G Z W G V G X Z.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: SLAVERY ENCHAINS A FEW; MORE ENCHAIN THEMSELVES TO SLAVERY—SENECA.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

D S Z S V B I P S Z W — I P G Z W G V G X Z.

Radio in Review

By JOHN CROSBY

The Day After

Perhaps never before have such handsome admissions of error reverberated from so many lips with such a degree of humility as they did on the air last week. This abnegation is not quite so admirable as it would normally be because sackcloth and ashes were fashionable raiment last week and those who wore them were in distinguished company. Conversely there has probably never been an election post-mortem in which the words "I told you so" were heard at all (or if they were said, I didn't hear them). No professional commentators to my knowledge told anyone so.

John Crosby

Appropriately, the degree of humility of each commentator matched almost precisely the degree of his error. The man who had the most to answer for was Fulton Lewis jr., who went far beyond the other commentators and had predicted Republican victories in states where most observers foresaw a seesaw battle. Lewis fully admitted his wrongness at the opening of his fifteen minute comment Wednesday night and closed by reading telegrams in which a number of his listeners invited him to drop dead, to throw himself into the Chesapeake River and to go soak his head in a vinegar barrel.

• — • — •

Out of the wreckage Lewis salvaged a few crumbs of comfort. The southern Democrats and the Republicans still in Congress seemed sufficient, he predicted — getting right out on that limb again—to block repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, price control and other social legislation.

Lowell Thomas made haste on his program to point out that he had never predicted the election of Thomas E. Dewey, that he had just passed along the opinions of others. He admitted, however, that if he had made a prediction, he'd have been as wrong as everyone else.

Elmer Davis's genuflection to his misled public seemed more sensible and sincere than anyone else's. "Any of us," he said, 'who analyze news on the radio or in the papers must hesitate to try to offer any explanation to a public which remembers too well the lucid and convincing explanations we all offered day before yesterday of why Dewey had it in the bag. We have all beaten our breasts and heaped ashes on our heads since then but we probably still look pretty foolish and had better not stick our necks out for awhile again."

H. V. Kaltenborn rumbled along for fifteen minutes without saying anything that could be construed as apology though he had certainly strung along with the rest of the boys on the pre-election forecast. Kaltenborn closed with a sentence I haven't figured out yet: "Cheer up you losers," he said. "It isn't as bad as you think." Sometimes I wonder what goes on in H. V. Kaltenborn's mind.

• — • — •

The explanations as to why President Truman won were almost as identical as the pre-election prediction that he wouldn't. The nation liked an underdog, particularly a fighting underdog. The Republican campaign was cast on too lofty a plane of generality. The housewives wanted price control. The farmers wanted to retain government support of farm prices. Everyone said virtually the same thing as if they had all furtively listened to each other and didn't dare deviate from what might be described as the sackcloth and ashes line of reasoning.

Also many of the commentators derived rather odd comfort from the fact that Josef Stalin, who had predicted the election of Dewey, had been just as wrong as they were. There appeared to be something wonderfully soothing in the thought that the distant, inscrutable figure in the Kremlin shared the common discomfiture.

Nature Made Simple In India

NEW DELHI—(AP)—Why is the ant narrow about the waist, and the frog mottled all over? The Mikirs, picturesque tribesmen of Assam, will tell the reason.

"Once upon a time an ant set off with some rice for his uncle. A frog blocked the way and made the ant creep under him. And then sat on the ant. The ant in despair bit the frog hard on the belly. The angered frog jumped and by chance broke the ladder of a big old squirrel. The squirrel cut in two a stem of gourd, and the gourd fell on a wild boar.

"The wild boar uprooted a plaintain tree containing a sparrow's nest. The bewildered sparrow flew into the ear of a deaf elephant. The elephant, wild at what had happened, rooted up a rock. And the rock rolled down and killed the maharajah's son.

The maharajah held an inquest. The blame was traced back to the ant and the frog. Both were found guilty of murder of the king's son. The ant was tied fast around the waist with the hair of the dead prince. Now his waist is small. The frog was beaten severely with a stinging nettle. Now his is spotty all over"

Old Roman Wall Found

CANTERBURY, England (AP)—A Roman defense wall, said to have been built about 200 A.D., around Canterbury, has been discovered in excavations where the medieval wall was hit by a bomb in 1942.

The builders of the existing medieval wall had incorporated the Roman wall as a core and covered it with a flint facing. Six feet thick and eight feet high, it is said to be in as good condition as when it was built.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9—(INS)—A little swap between 20th Century-Fox and Paramount will bring Ray Milland to 20th for "It Happens Every Spring," and Gene Tierney to Paramount for a movie to be selected later by Henry Ginsberg.

Maureen O'Sullivan

Gene's baby is due in a few weeks, and I suppose it will be the first of the year when she returns to Hollywood. Thus Henry has plenty of time to find a good screen play.

As for Ray—Mrs. Milland tells me that he's so delighted over their newly adopted daughter, he spend all his time in the nursery. Victoria is very cute, with blonde hair, and they have no trouble keeping eight-year-old Danny Milland home, now that he has this charming playmate. How wise of the Millands to adopt this child after Mal lost her expected baby early this year.

In telling me about "Cariboo Trail," the movie Nat Holt is making in Canada to follow "Canadian Pacific," he says the reason he is going so far from home is because backgrounds for westerns have been absolutely dissipated in Arizona, New Mexico and California.

Holt says the cast will be 100 percent Hollywood workers, and there isn't a penny of Canadian money in the venture. This I am glad to report, because of the many bitter letters I have received against producers making movies in foreign locations.

"Cariboo Trail," by John Sturdy, calls for rugged, dangerous backgrounds to fit a western story about a ruthless cattle baron.

I had expected an announcement that Glenn McCarthy's second picture would be a Sonja Henie skating epic, but that couldn't be farther from the truth.

He's negotiating with Stan Laurel and Babe Hardy to play themselves in "You Can't Do That," a rip roaring comedy. This really looks like a mad film with the locale in an animated cartoon factory, and Stan and Babe doing their stuff.

Monty F. Collins is writing the script, and the cast calls for six stars. Well, Mr. Texas oil millionaire has plenty of money to pay the bills. Another fellow Texan will release the picture, Mr. Howard Hughes at RKO.

What a whirl Mary Lee and Douglas Fairbanks are having in Europe. Winston Churchill entertained them at lunch. They were guests of honor at a party given by the Duchess of Kent. They also were at the party given for the Danny Kayes by Ambassador and Mrs. Lewis Douglas, attended by Princess Margaret Rose and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Mary Lee writes that she and Douglas land in Hollywood December 4 in time for their eldest daughter, Victoria's, sixth birthday. She says they are exhausted with all the holiday and official goings on. Doug is vice president of the United Nations Association and national chairman of CARE, and that takes time, too.

Chatter in Hollywood: The attractive Countess of Warwick, who visited here with the Earl, is expected to marry David Hutcheson, British actor, when she gets her divorce in June.

When I questioneh Robert Douglas, whose wife is the sister of the Countess, he said the family had heard nothing about such a marriage, but they had heard she was getting a divorce.

Her father and mother are the guests of the Douglases and are spending the winter in California.

The Countess is an extremely pretty woman, and all of Folkes Warwick's friends liked her so much when they were here together.

Maureen O'Sullivan and John Farrow expect their sixth child in early June. Maureen has always said she's going to have 10 children and it looks like she's keeping her word. She has the most beautiful children—each one is perfect and a beauty, and she is such a marvelous mother.

John has just signed a new contract with Paramount and he'll certainly have to work hard to buy shoes for six. In this day of small families, it's wonderful to tell about an old fashioned family like this.

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Gossip from Houston, Texas, is that Eddie Judson, first husband of Rita Hayworth, has married an 18 year old girl.

Claire James and Bill Girard as lovey-dovey as if they hadn't filed for divorce, a Palm Springs twosome.

Andy Devine was voted the best square dancer at the party given by Mr. and Mrs. William C. Stroube of Texas at Ocean House. Sally and Bob Cobb carried off honors for the best dressed couple. Bob's shirt was made of the same material as Sally's dress, which was sensational.

That's all today.

Kea Is Key To Controversy

AUCKLAND—(AP)—A proposed zoo swap between San Diego, Calif., and Auckland is causing a rumpus in New Zealand.

Auckland Zoo wants to send keas to the United States in exchange for other zoo exhibits. Some New Zealanders don't like the idea.

The kea is a bird of the parrot family. It lives in New Zealand's high mountains. As a zoo exhibit it is attractive. Flying around in its native New Zealand, it preys on the kidney fat of live sheep and lambs. Naturally, ranchers don't like it.

Last March the Auckland Zoo sent three keas to San Diego. Now San Diego is offering approximately $20 each for two dozen of the birds to continue the exchange.

Edgar P. Stead, a bird expert, is one of the most outspoken objectors. He says the kea eventually dies in misery when sent to a new life in a different climate. "The Auckland Zoo does NOT care where it sends keas as long as it gets the exchange," Stead complained.

Auckland Zoo is controlled by the local city council. Mayor John A. C. Allum told a reporter the zoo would do nothing likely to cause suffering to birds or animals.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9—(INS)—A little swap between 20th Century-Fox and Paramount will bring Ray Milland to 20th for "It Happens Every Spring," and Gene Tierney to Paramount for a movie to be selected later by Henry Ginsberg.

Maureen O'Sullivan

Gene's baby is due in a few weeks, and I suppose it will be the first of the year when she returns to Hollywood. Thus Henry has plenty of time to find a good screen play.

As for Ray—Mrs. Milland tells me that he's so delighted over their newly adopted daughter, he spend all his time in the nursery. Victoria is very cute, with blonde hair, and they have no trouble keeping eight-year-old Danny Milland home, now that he has this charming playmate. How wise of the Millands to adopt this child after Mal lost her expected baby early this year.

In telling me about "Cariboo Trail," the movie Nat Holt is making in Canada to follow "Canadian Pacific," he says the reason he is going so far from home is because backgrounds for westerns have been absolutely dissipated in Arizona, New Mexico and California.

Holt says the cast will be 100 percent Hollywood workers, and there isn't a penny of Canadian money in the venture. This I am glad to report, because of the many bitter letters I have received against producers making movies in foreign locations.

"Cariboo Trail," by John Sturdy, calls for rugged, dangerous backgrounds to fit a western story about a ruthless cattle baron.

I had expected an announcement that Glenn McCarthy's second picture would be a Sonja Henie skating epic, but that couldn't be farther from the truth.

He's negotiating with Stan Laurel and Babe Hardy to play themselves in "You Can't Do That," a rip roaring comedy. This really looks like a mad film with the locale in an animated cartoon factory, and Stan and Babe doing their stuff.

Monty F. Collins is writing the script, and the cast calls for six stars. Well, Mr. Texas oil millionaire has plenty of money to pay the bills. Another fellow Texan will release the picture, Mr. Howard Hughes at RKO.

What a whirl Mary Lee and Douglas Fairbanks are having in Europe. Winston Churchill entertained them at lunch. They were guests of honor at a party given by the Duchess of Kent. They also were at the party given for the Danny Kayes by Ambassador and Mrs. Lewis Douglas, attended by Princess Margaret Rose and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Mary Lee writes that she and Douglas land in Hollywood December 4 in time for their eldest daughter, Victoria's, sixth birthday. She says they are exhausted with all the holiday and official goings on. Doug is vice president of the United Nations Association and national chairman of CARE, and that takes time, too.

Chatter in Hollywood: The attractive Countess of Warwick, who visited here with the Earl, is expected to marry David Hutcheson, British actor, when she gets her divorce in June.

When I questioneh Robert Douglas, whose wife is the sister of the Countess, he said the family had heard nothing about such a marriage, but they had heard she was getting a divorce.

Her father and mother are the guests of the Douglases and are spending the winter in California.

The Countess is an extremely pretty woman, and all of Folkes Warwick's friends liked her so much when they were here together.

Maureen O'Sullivan and John Farrow expect their sixth child in early June. Maureen has always said she's going to have 10 children and it looks like she's keeping her word. She has the most beautiful children—each one is perfect and a beauty, and she is such a marvelous mother.

John has just signed a new contract with Paramount and he'll certainly have to work hard to buy shoes for six. In this day of small families, it's wonderful to tell about an old fashioned family like this.

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Gossip from Houston, Texas, is that Eddie Judson, first husband of Rita Hayworth, has married an 18 year old girl.

Claire James and Bill Girard as lovey-dovey as if they hadn't filed for divorce, a Palm Springs twosome.

Andy Devine was voted the best square dancer at the party given by Mr. and Mrs. William C. Stroube of Texas at Ocean House. Sally and Bob Cobb carried off honors for the best dressed couple. Bob's shirt was made of the same material as Sally's dress, which was sensational.

That's all today.

Kea Is Key To Controversy

AUCKLAND—(AP)—A proposed zoo swap between San Diego, Calif., and Auckland is causing a rumpus in New Zealand.

Auckland Zoo wants to send keas to the United States in exchange for other zoo exhibits. Some New Zealanders don't like the idea.

The kea is a bird of the parrot family. It lives in New Zealand's high mountains. As a zoo exhibit it is attractive. Flying around in its native New Zealand, it preys on the kidney fat of live sheep and lambs. Naturally, ranchers don't like it.

Last March the Auckland Zoo sent three keas to San Diego. Now San Diego is offering approximately $20 each for two dozen of the birds to continue the exchange.

Edgar F. Stead, a bird expert, is one of the most outspoken objectors. He says the kea eventually dies in misery when sent to a new life in a different climate. "The Auckland Zoo does NOT care where it sends keas as long as it gets the exchange," Stead complained.

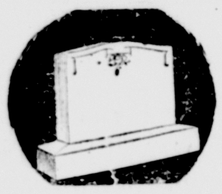

Auckland Zoo is controlled by the local city council. Mayor John A. C. Allum told a reporter the zoo would do nothing likely to cause suffering to birds or animals.

A new plastic wrapper for fruits, vegetables, tobacco, and other products, thin as paper and transparent as cellophane, keeps moisture in or out. The chemicals used in the plastic films are made entirely from petroleum.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my Mother, Mrs. Bridget Logsdon, who passed away two years ago today, November 10, 1946.
There's not a day that passes, Mom,
That I do not think of you,

Your voice, your footsteps too.
There's many a lonely tear,
God only knows how much I miss you, Mom.
At the end of these two years.
Sadly missed by her son,

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my Mother, Mrs. Bridget Logsdon, who passed away two years ago today, November 10, 1946.
There's not a day that passes, Mom,
That I do not think of you.
Your face is in my memories still—
Your voice, your footsteps too.
There's many a lonely tear,
God only knows how much I miss you, Mom.
At the end of these two years.
Sadly missed by her son,
"Joe".

IN loving memory of our dear husband and Father, Roland O. Mease, who died Nov. 10, 1946.
He gave his honours to the world again.
His blessed part to Heaven, and slept in peace.
Sadly missed by

FRESH DAILY — OLD HOME BUMPER BREAD — AT YOUR GROCER

Stock Market Drops To Lowest Point Since March Yesterday

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP) — The stock market dropped to the lowest level since late March today under a post-election pounding.

Leading issues plunged one to around five points, some to new lows for the year. Extreme losses piled up to about six at one time.

Pressure was so intense at times that twice during the day the price reporting mechanism failed to keep up with dealings on the floor of the exchange. During the morning the lag amounted to as much as three minutes.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed two points lower at 3.9. Not since March 29 has so low a level been reached. Bottom for the year was touched February 10 at 60.3.

Of the 1,151 stocks which changed hands, 970 declined while only 85 advanced. More than 175 issues sold at new lows for the year.

Among the losers were U. S. Steel at 72⅜, Youngstown Sheet 74⅛, National Steel 97⅝, General Motors 59⅞, Chrysler 54, Goodrich 56⅝, Sears Roebuck 37⅞, Oliver Corp. 27, Douglas Aircraft 49, Boeing 20⅝, Schenley 26, Electric Power & Light 18⅞, Phelps Dodge 50¼, Kennecott 53, Westinghouse Electric 24⅝, General Electric 37⅝, Johns-Manville 35⅝, J. C. Penney 43½, Philip Morris 33, Radio Corp. 10⅞, American Woolen 40½, Santa Fe 99⅝, Union Pacific 82½, Nickel Plate 76½, Standard Oil (NJ), 72⅝, Gulf Oil 65⅞, Transcontinental & Western Air 12, and Texas Co. 53.

Heavy selling pressure sent bonds into a new slump today, a few rails lost three or four points.

Central of New Jersey bonds took a heavy pounding. The 5's of the 1897 lost 4⅜ points at 74¼, and the 4's were off 3⅞ at 64⅛. International Great Northern first 6's skidded 3¼ to 71¼. Most liens of the Missouri Pacific lost more than a point, and the general 4's were off 3⅜ at 43.

Other losers by at least two points were Chicago & Eastern Illinois incomes of 1997, Gulf Mobile & Ohio liens of 2044, New Haven Income 4½s, Third Avenue Adjustment 5s and Wisconsin Central (Superior & Duluth) 4's.

A few liens managed to move counter to the trend and mark up fractional advances, including Santa F. 4's, Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern 5's, Dow Chemical 2.35s, Katy 5's and Westinghouse 2⅛s.

U. S. governments were unchanged to up 2/32ds of a point.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The Bill states the parties were married on February 26, 1945, in Cumberland, Maryland; that no children were born of said marriage; that the defendant deserted the plaintiff on or about the 1st day of August, 1945, without just cause or reason and that said desertion has been continuous and uninterrupted since said date; that said desertion is deliberate and final and beyond any reasonable expectation or hope of reconciliation; that the plaintiff has resided in Allegany County, Maryland, for more than two years preceding the filing of the Bill of Complaint and the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and his present address and whereabouts is unknown with the exception that his last known address is 118 Hull Street, Brooklyn, New York.

It is thereupon this 9th day of November, 1948, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, for once a week for four successive weeks before the 13th day of December, 1948, give notice to the non-resident defendant of the object and substance of this suit warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 29th day of December, 1948, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Local Man Object Of $10,000 Suit

As the result of an automobile collision in Uniontown, Pa., last May, a $10,000 damage suit has been filed in Federal Court, Pittsburgh, against Paul J. Stein, 454 Walnut Street.

Samuel Smith, Pittsburgh, instituted proceedings Monday.

Smith contended he was standing on a sidewalk at the intersection of Main and Beeson streets in Uniontown last May 16, when a car operated by Stein struck him after hitting another machine.

He stated in the suit that he suffered head, body and spine injuries, and charged that "Stein operated his vehicle in a careless, reckless and negligent manner."

Smith further contended Stein was operating his auto at a high rate of speed, and added that the local man's car went through a red light before striking the other machine.

Attorney for Stein is John Wirtsman, Pittsburgh. Stein is employed as a plumber by the Clyde W. Love Company here.

Police Probing Theft At Armory

City Police are still investigating a breaking and entering and theft of $38 at the State Armory Monday night, and the report of Chester Shanholtz, 140 North Centre Street, that he was struck on the head by an unknown assailant who asked him if he had "any money."

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn said Arnet J. Arrington, operator of a club room in the basement of the Armory on South Centre Street, notified authorities the theft occurred between 11:55 p. m. Monday and 8:15 a. m. yesterday. The money was taken from a cash box.

Investigating officers said intruders gained entrance to the room by breaking a glass in the door and then sawing a lock from the money container. No arrests have been made.

Shanholtz appeared at headquarters about 1:05 a. m. and told Officer C. D. Manges he had been drinking coffee with another man at the Central Lunch, 35 Frederick Street. Later they walked into an alley at the rear of 118 North Centre Street and his companion inquired concerning his financial status, he said.

Then, according to Shanholtz, the man hit him on the head and fled, as four men including J. E. May, Potomac Edison bus driver, entered the alley after hearing a commotion. After receiving treatment at Allegany Hospital for a head wound, the victim described his assailant as being six feet tall, about 30 years old and weighing 175 pounds. The man had a dark complexion and wavy hair, he said.

The theft of five money orders, a check and a woman's wrist watch, totaling $85, was reported by Mrs. L. Shaffer, 533 Central Avenue. She said the items were in a purse stolen from her home over the weekend. Police said the money orders amounted to $40 and the check was for $15. Cash was also listed as missing.

Stock Market Drops To Lowest Point Since March Yesterday

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP) — The stock market dropped to the lowest level since late March today under a post-election pounding.

Leading issues plunged one to around five points, some to new lows for the year. Extreme losses piled up to about six at one time.

Pressure was so intense at times that twice during the day the price reporting mechanism failed to keep up with dealings on the floor of the exchange. During the morning the lag amounted to as much as three minutes.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed two points lower at 3.9. Not since March 29 has so low a level been reached. Bottom for the year was touched February 10 at 60.3.

Of the 1,151 stocks which changed hands, 970 declined while only 85 advanced. More than 175 issues sold at new lows for the year.

Among the losers were U. S. Steel at 72⅜, Youngstown Sheet 74⅛, National Steel 97⅜, General Motors 59⅝, Chrysler 54, Goodrich 56⅜, Sears Roebuck 37⅞, Oliver Corp. 27, Douglas Aircraft 49, Boeing 20⅝, Schenley 26, Electric Power & Light 18⅝, Phelps Dodge 50¼, Kennecott 53, Westinghouse Electric 24⅝, General Electric 37⅝, Johns-Manville 35¾, J. C. Penney 43½, Philip Morris 33, Radio Corp. 10⅝, American Woolen 40½, Santa Fe 99⅝, Union Pacific 82½, Nickel Plate 76½, Standard Oil (NJ), 72⅝, Gulf Oil 65⅞, Transcontinental & Western Air 12, and Texas Co. 53.

Heavy selling pressure sent bonds into a new slump today, a few rails lost three or four points.

Central of New Jersey bonds took a heavy pounding. The 5's of the 1897 lost 4⅜ points at 74¼, and the 4's were off 3⅞ at 64⅛. International Great Northern first 6's skidded 3¼ to 71¼. Most liens of the Missouri Pacific lost more than a point, and the general 4's were off 3⅜ at 43.

Other losers by at least two points were Chicago & Eastern Illinois incomes of 1997, Gulf Mobile & Ohio liens of 2044, New Haven Income 4½s, Third Avenue Adjustment 5s and Wisconsin Central (Superior & Duluth) 4's.

A few liens managed to move counter to the trend and mark up fractional advances, including Santa Fe 4's, Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern 5's, Dow Chemical 2.35s, Katy 5's and Westinghouse 2½s.

U. S. governments were unchanged to up 2/32ds of a point.

Local Man Object Of $10,000 Suit

As the result of an automobile collision in Uniontown, Pa., last May, a $10,000 damage suit has been filed in Federal Court, Pittsburgh, against Paul J. Stein, 454 Walnut Street.

Samuel Smith, Pittsburgh, instituted proceedings Monday.

Smith contended he was standing on a sidewalk at the intersection of Main and Beeson streets in Uniontown last May 16, when a car operated by Stein struck him after hitting another machine.

He stated in the suit that he suffered head, body and spine injuries, and charged that "Stein operated his vehicle in a careless, reckless and negligent manner."

Smith further contended Stein was operating his auto at a high rate of speed, and added that the local man's car went through a red light before striking the other machine.

Attorney for Stein is John Wirtsman, Pittsburgh. Stein is employed as a plumber by the Clyde W. Love Company here.

Police Probing Theft At Armory

City Police are still investigating a breaking and entering and theft of $38 at the State Armory Monday night, and the report of Chester Shanholtz, 140 North Centre Street, that he was struck on the head by an unknown assailant who asked him if he had "any money."

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn said Arnet J. Arrington, operator of a club room in the basement of the Armory on South Centre Street, notified authorities the theft occurred between 11:55 p. m. Monday and 8:15 a. m. yesterday. The money was taken from a cash box.

Investigating officers said intruders gained entrance to the room by breaking a glass in the door and then sawing a lock from the money container. No arrests have been made.

Shanholtz appeared at headquarters about 1:05 a. m. and told Officer C. D. Manges he had been drinking coffee with another man at the Central Lunch, 35 Frederick Street. Later they walked into an alley at the rear of 118 North Centre Street and his companion inquired concerning his financial status, he said.

Then, according to Shanholtz, the man hit him on the head and fled, as four men including J. E. May, Potomac Edison bus driver, entered the alley after hearing a commotion. After receiving treatment at Allegany Hospital for a head wound, the victim described his assailant as being six feet tall, about 30 years old and weighing 175 pounds. The man had a dark complexion and wavy hair, he said.

The theft of five money orders, a check and a woman's wrist watch, totaling $85, was reported by Mrs. L. Shaffer, 533 Central Avenue. She said the items were in a purse stolen from her home over the weekend. Police said the money orders amounted to $40 and the check was for $15. Cash was also listed as missing.

State Welfare Needs Outlined By Patterson

Says Reliefers Get Insufficient Help

Recipients of public assistance in Allegany County are existing on grants that are not in line with the present high cost of living, according to J. Milton Patterson, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, who came here yesterday to meet with members of the County Commissioners, the Legislature and the local Welfare Board.

The meeting was held last night in the Welfare Board office, Cumberland Street Building, and members of the Welfare Board, the Board of County Commissioners and several interested citizens were present. Lester B. Reed, Mt. Savage, was the only member of the Allegany County delegation to the Legislature in attendance.

Patterson explained he is visiting each county to outline to interested officials and citizens the welfare program of the state and county, the financial needs and proposed budget.

Speaking of the budget, Patterson said that across the state, not a single group of County Commissioners has raised an objection to increasing their county share of the co-operative plan of federal, state and county participation for relief.

Allegany County has always been very co-operative, he said. He called attention to the fact that the state has assumed more and more of the relief load, and the Federal government is steadily expanding its welfare activities. At present, he said, the county appropriation of Allegany County for relief amounts to 10.85 cents of the tax rate, compared to 14.37 in 1937.

Legislators throughout the state who must pass on the state's budget have been especially interested in the facts surrounding the Welfare Board and its state budget, Patterson said.

Most Of Delegation Absent

He expressed his disappointment that the other six Allegany County legislators, including five members of the House of Delegates and the county's state senator, were not at the meeting, because the facts he discussed and the story he told were primarily for their benefit.

Reed said that he believes the Legislature will probably act on whatever recommendation the governor makes in his budget message, and told Patterson he welcomes, personally, the opportunity to "get the facts, first hand."

Outlining the program, Patterson pointed out that although a small increase in grants had been made in October as a result of increased Federal financial participation in the Welfare program, the amount being received by those on relief is still below the cost of living as indicated by prices prevailing in July 1948. The living costs have also increased slightly since that time, he reminded those present.

Additional funds are being requested, he said, in order to help persons receiving assistance to meet current high prices as well as to permit the inclusion in grants of small allowances for insurance premiums and for household replacements, such as the replacement of essential bedding and kitchen utensils.

If funds are available for the above purposes, the group was told, the result would be an average monthly increase of $5.79 for each individual benefiting from old age assistance; $4.03 for a child receiving aid to dependent children; a monthly average of $6.07 for a person receiving public assistance to the needy blind; and $6.55 for a family or individual receiving general public assistance.

For September, Patterson stated, average monthly grants for the various types of assistance were $20.94 for old age assistance; $71.65 for each aid to dependent children family; $26.76 for persons receiving blind assistance; and $37.79 for general public assistance. In addition, payments for the care of children in foster homes averaged $38.02 per child for the month of September.

Demand Below Peak

Although expenditures for assistance have increased, the number of families and individuals receiving grants is below the peak period before the war, according to the State Department director.

During the war, he pointed out, a noticeable drop occurred in the caseload, particularly in the number of families receiving aid to dependent children which declined by about 50 per cent. At the conclusion of hostilities employment opportunities for mothers and the aged and handicapped were lessened, he said, and as a result the caseload for Allegany County, like that of other industrial areas of the state, began to rise.

In recent months, the number of persons receiving assistance has leveled off and in some instances has declined. This trend has not occurred in the number of children in foster care, but he pointed out, a steady increase has been evident since before the war in this type of service.

In 1941 the number of children receiving payments for care in foster homes was less than 30, while for September this number had climbed to 64. This development, too, he said, was similar to that taking place in other industrialized areas and had resulted in increased expenditures.

Explains Proposed Budget

In order to meet the increasing case load and raise the amount of subsistence payments to recipients of relief to reasonable living stand-

Weather

Rain took over again yesterday and erased any effects Monday's Indian Summer afternoon may have had on Cumberland spirits. The temperature went down to 56 degrees to add chilliness to the damp air. The low temperature was 34 and late last night showed 44 degrees to usher in what the weatherman calls a mild day today. Even after giving the city 0.15 inches of rainfall, the elements are threatening to make themselves known again today and it should be cooler tonight.

Legion Work In Fever Campaign To Be Outlined

Goal For State Drive $25,000

Arthur G. Ramey, mountain district vice commander of the American Legion, will meet with Dr. Winter R. Frantz and Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson today to discuss places for participation by the Legion and 40 and 8 in the campaign for funds to fight rheumatic fever.

Members of Voiture No. 164, 40 and 8, will precede the Armistice Day parade tomorrow night to solicit funds for the campaign. Members will form a "bucket brigade" to obtain donations. An Army sound truck will aid them in soliciting donations.

Officials of the 40 and 8 voiture pointed out that an annual campaign for funds to combat rheumatic fever is conducted nationally by the Legion and the 40 and 8.

The goal for Maryland has been set at $25,000 for the year by Harry S. Allen, national executive committeeman for the state, who is chairman of the Maryland campaign.

A large part of the funds realized from the campaign in Cumberland will remain here for the use of the local clinic, which was set up by Dr. Jacobson, it was reported.

The rest of the funds will be divided between the National Heart Association and the Legion fund for fighting rheumatic fever in the state.

The local campaign is headed by Mrs. Martha McNary, chairman of the Legion child welfare committee, and Paul C. Weisenmiller, chairman of the 40 and 8 child welfare committee and commander of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

Charles O'Donnel, chef de gare of the 4 0and 8, has asked all 40 and 8 members to participate in soliciting funds tomorrow night. Members are asked to wear their smocks and chapeaux.

Open House At AHS Tonigh'

Open house for parents and friends of Allegany High School will be held at the school tonight from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. The occasion is the national celebration of American Education Week, November 7-13.

The theme of the week is "America's Future Depends on American Schools." The annual get-together affords opportunity for parents to visit the school, discuss teaching problems with the faculty, and attend a typical assembly program in the auditorium presented by their children.

"Wanted: Facilities for Leasure" is the title of the assembly program which will be directed by Miss Virginia Dixon of the English department.

Boys Admit Breaking Tombstones Here

A wave of vandalism in local cemeteries has apparently ended with the apprehension yesterday of two small boys, who police said had admitted doing much of the damage.

Authorities said several complaints concerning damage to grave markers and monuments in three local cemeteries had been received recently.

The boys, it was reported, admitted pushing over and breaking several tombstones in St. Luke's Cemetery on Baltimore Avenue recently. They were released in the custody of their parents after restitution was made, officers said.

Assistant Chief B. Frank Gaffney said any further cases would not be treated with clemency, but that the offenders would be prosecuted when caught.

Flood Warning Plan Is Revised

Copies of a revised flood emergency warning plan for the Cumberland area will be sent today to the United States Weather Bureau and the Army Engineers in Washington, D. C., according to City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer.

Rizer is chairman of Area No. 17, which also includes the communities of Corriganville, Ellerslie, Glencoe and Hyndman, Pa., Locust Grove, Mt. Savage, and Ridgeley and Patterson Creek, W. Va.

Maryland is divided into 23 flood areas, each of which has a flood warning organization.

Meeting To Discuss Legislation Planned

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday the Mayor and Council has been invited to attend a public meeting Saturday, December 4, at City Hall, to discuss proposed legislation to be introduced at the next session of the General Assembly in January.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly, is making arrangements for the meeting.

County officials and interested organizations will also be invited to attend to offer suggestions on legislation.

Bond Forfeited In Motor Case

A local driver forfeited bonds totaling $112.90 yesterday when he failed to appear for a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of reckless and drunken driving.

The motorist, Charles O. Ruckman, 327 South Centre Street, had obtained several continuances of his hearings, according to Magistrate Frank A. Perdew.

Ruckman forfeited $101.45 on the drunken driving charge and $11.45 on the reckless charge. He is also charged with driving without a license, but the case is still pending.

He was arrested October 29 by State Trooper Thomas Barton.

In another case yesterday, Lindy J. Catherman, Frostburg, was fined $100.75 for exceeding 70 miles per hour. He was arrested by City Police after a chase from Cumberland to Corriganville early yesterday morning.

Officers Donald H. Smith and Harold E. Crabtree were on cruiser car duty when they spotted Catherman at the intersection of North Mechanic and North Centre Streets, "traveling at a fast rate of speed." They gave chase and followed him to the Narrows.

During the pursuit, police said, the officers sounded the siren warning, but Catherman failed to halt and continued speeding, apparently in an effort to escape apprehension.

Catherman, who said he was enroute to Frostburg at the time, told Magistrate Frank A. Perdew he did not hear the siren the first time due to the distance between the two vehicles.

At one point during the chase, according to police, the cruiser's speedometer hit 90.

Magistrate Perdew lectured Catherman before imposing the fine.

Stolen Car Is Believed To Hold Burglary Loot

Auto Recovered At Berkeley Springs

A stolen car recovered last night near Berkeley Springs, W. Va., contained merchandise believed to have been stolen from three service station-stores on the Uhl Highway in the Oldtown Road section early yesterday morning.

Trooper First Class William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police, said the car, belonging to Samuel Stewart, RFD 1, Cumberland, was recovered by West Virginia State Police late last night.

The car was reported stolen early yesterday morning.

Baker said no arrests have been made in connection with the case.

The burglars left a trail of destruction at the three service-stores which they entered.

State Troopers Baker and A. M. Spioch reported the thieves, who entered the places by forcing front doors, took many articles while engaging in wholesale ransacking.

At the Sinclair station operated by Robert Lynn near North Branch, the culprits took 12 cartons of cigarets and about $30 in coins from two coin-operated machines. One of the latter, a music box, was broken to splinters, State Police said.

Four miles east of Oldtown at a service station and store owned by Harry Shryock, the intruders stole 30 cartons of cigarets and an assortment of fountain pens, wrist watches and shaving articles valued at $100.

They left behind a 30-pound wrecking bar used to open the front door.

At the third place three miles east of Oldtown, the robbers forced the front door of a gas station operated by Lloyd Lowery and stole six packs of cigarets and $1 in tax money.

State Police said all of the stores were ransacked. Meat from refrigerators was left on the floor and other articles of merchandise tossed about.

Baker indicated the breaking and entering were engineered before 5 a. m. yesterday. He added that no noise was heard at any of the establishments, although Lowery and Shryock both live near their stations.

Fort Hill To Present Third Education Play

The third of a series of National Education Week programs will be presented today at 8:50 a. m. over the Fort Hill High School public address system.

Members of the cast are Ronald Tipton, Loay Twigg, Bill Brooks and Clyde Mackereth.

Yesterday's program at Fort Hill was a play, "Who, Me?" presented by the fourth period senior English class. In the cast, under the direction of Miss Gerardine Pritchard, were Nadeane Atkinson, Robert Stevenson, Larry McKenzie, Charles Lattimer and Royce Hendrickson.

State Permit Is Needed For Pool Filtration Work

Rizer Will Confer With Health Official

City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer said yesterday he plans to confer with officials of the State Department of Health before making a final recommendation to the Mayor and Council regarding the five bids which have been submitted for installation of a recirculating system at the Constitution Park swimming and wading pools.

The sealed bids were opened at Monday's council meeting, and referred to Rizer for study and a report.

Rizer said he was notified last month by George L. Hall, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, that the city must obtain a permit from the state before any type of recirculating system can be installed.

To Contact Hall

Since plans and specifications must be approved by the State Department of Health before such a permit can be issued, Rizer said he plans to contact Hall in the near future to request a conference on the subject. Rizer added the city "welcomes" the permit requirement.

Advertisement for the bids contained a specification that the Mayor and Council shall fix some requirement to guarantee successful operation of the recirculating system for one year after installation, Rizer pointed out.

The successful bidded may not begin the work until the guarantee has been made, Rizer said. The type of guarantee has not been set.

One of the five firms, Refinite Sales Company, Omaha, Neb., quoted its prices for the work in a telegram to the Mayor and Council, while a detailed letter regarding the bid was received yesterday.

Some question was raised regarding the legality of the bid. Rizer said yesterday, however, that City Attorney Thomas B. Finan believed that since the telegram quoted the figures of the bid and arrived before Monday's deadline, the bid was acceptable.

Rizer said the Mayor and Council decided that installation of the recirculating system during the winter would be more convenient since the two pools would not be in use at that time.

The city engineer estimated that installation would probably be complete in time for the regular Memorial Day opening of the pools.

He pointed out that he will be unable to begin work on designs for a necessary building in conjunction with the system until the successful bid has been determined, because of varying specifications in the five bids.

Bids Are Varied

Two of the firms submitted bids only for a conventional type of filter, while two others quoted figures for diatomaceous type installations and the fifth concern gave alternate bids on both types.

Rizer said the bids will take several days of study because of the variety of specifications involved.

Bids were as follows:

1. Permutit Company, New York City (conventional type)—automatic, $25,020; manually operated, $22,530, and chlorinator, $24,445.

2. Proportioneers, Inc., Providence, R. I. (diatomaceous)—$17,673.40. This bid was submitted

Vigorous Fight Against Red Threat Is Urged By U. S. Commerce Body

Vigorous and intelligent action at the community level is the answer to Communism which is a threat to you, your home and your community, the United States Chamber of Commerce asserts in a booklet, "A Program for Community Anti-Communist Action."

Copies of the pamphlet, the fifth of a series aimed at American Communists who "owe their first allegiance to world Communism" were received yesterday by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and will be submitted to its Executive Board for consideration and action.

Communists, the Chamber says, are "a fifth column in our midst, agents of a declared enemy." After comparing the Nazis and Communists, it terms Communism "a more dangerous enemy because it is more subtle and effective. It disguises itself as a political and social reform movement. Hence it deceives and misleads millions who would never have fallen for Nazism."

Outlines Action

In an outline of action against the menace of world Communism the Chamber advocates four measures to fight the Red menace here and abroad:

Learn why Communism is a menace.

Call meetings to do something about Communism in your community.

Form local committees to get information, to give it out and to start community action programs.

Use your community influence and aid to set up state and national programs to fight Communism on a broader scale.

The first step in fighting Communism is to know your enemy, the Chamber said. "Its false coloration must be widely recognized. In fighting it, we are not curtailing free speech. We are not opposing men for their ideas or political beliefs. We fight them because they are using every effort to betray us to a hostile foreign dictatorship—Red Fascism."

An effective local campaign against Communism, the Chamber said, is usually a community job and should be undertaken by persons who are or can be convinced that Communism is a menace and who are willing to do something about it.

Must Get Facts

Getting the facts is vital and one of the sub-committees should get facts on local, national and world Communist activities. Among

An Army sound truck and jeep will precede the parade by 15 minutes in the interest of child welfare work under the sponsorship of the 40 and 8, Conlon said.

Conlon said a distance of 40 paces must be maintained between divisions and 20 paces between units.

Shavings Catch Fire At Lumber Firm

East Side Fire Company was called to the Cumberland Lumber Company, 227 Williams Street, early last night after a pile of shavings under a planing machine caught fire.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employes turned in an alarm after the blaze was discovered.

Officials were unable to determine the source of the fire which was burning fiercely when firemen arrived.

Firemen said a belt was burned off the planer by the fire but that the only damage was to the machinery. Fire fighters had to wet down the large piles of shavings near the machines before leaving the building.

East Side firemen answered a false alarm at the home of J. W. Connor, 481 Goethe Street, Monday at 11:23 p. m. They said an oil heater became overheated after one of the controls stuck.

Marines Have Birthday Today

Today is the 173rd anniversary of the United States Marine Corps, Capt. John T. Fey, commanding officer of the local Marine Reserve unit, reminded Cumberlanders.

General Clifton B. Cates, Marine commandant, issued a statement to the Reserves saying, "Today on the occasion of the 173rd anniversary of the Marine Corps, we commemorate the achievements of those gallant Marines who worked and fought in the service of their country. We salute them as free men with initiative, courage and ability.

"We of the regular establishment are genuinely happy to share our proud traditions of readiness and fidelity with our comrades in the Marine Corps Reserve."

Headquarters, Fifth Marine Corps Reserve District, Washington, D. C., also sent "best wishes to all members of "D" Company, Fifth Infantry Battalion . . . for a festive occasion."

The local birthday party will have to be postponed, Capt. Fey said, because Company "D" has been concentrating on its first public appearance in the Armistice Day parade tomorrow. However, the company plans to celebrate the occasion in the near future.

At the present time, according to Gen. Cates, the Marine Corps Reserve numbers 117,416, while the Regular Marines numbered 85,000 at the beginning of the fiscal year June, 1948.

Possible Sites For Stadium Are Discussed

Commission Will Be Organized

A number of possible locations for the proposed War Memorial Stadium were discussed and temporary officers were named pending organization of a permanent commission at a public meeting last night in City Hall, sponsored by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce.

Approximately 75 persons, representing 39 fraternal, veterans, labor, civic and women's organizations, attended the meeting.

Kenneth Gerard, general chairman of the Jaycee committee, who presided, was named temporary chairman, while Charles S. Catherman, Jr., Jaycee president, was named secretary.

Interested organizations are asked to submit nominations for the permanent commission to the Jaycee office, Room 514, Liberty Trust Building, within the next 10 days.

Working Group Planned

A 10-member working committee will be selected to begin detailed work on problems of selecting a site, type of construction and methods of financing the proposed stadium.

David Kauffman, who discussed organization and legal duties with reference to the project, suggested that the remainder of the persons selected serve in an advisory capacity.

James Wilkinson, who spoke on possible locations being investigated by the Jaycee committee, mentioned the Community Ball Park property, the old Taylor Tin Plate Mill property, the Locust Grove section at the end of Laing Avenue, an area adjacent to Fort Hill stadium, the North End Playground and a large tract of land between the C. and O. canal and the Potomac River.

Of those locations, the Community Ball Park site received most attention during the forum discussion which concluded the meeting.

Kauffman suggested that the permanent commission be formed as a non-profit, civic corporation.

Discussing the construction phase of the project in place of David Moreland, another Jaycee committee member unable to attend because of illness, Kauffman said Moreland felt that the primary need was for a baseball stadium which could be converted to football use, with two softball diamonds and space for other athletic activities.

Although reinforced concrete bleachers would be more expensive to build than structural steel, maintenance costs would be less, Kauffman said.

Estimated Costs Cited

Moreland estimated in his report that a 5,000-seat stadium of reinforced concrete would cost $150,000, while the same amount of money would build a structural steel stadium seating 6,000 to 7,000 persons, Kauffman said.

Both costs would include locker and shower rooms and a ticket office.

Kauffman pointed out that the city has a $150,000 recreation bond issue authorized, but he added that "we had better not rely on obtaining any of that sum for the project.

In this connection, J. C. Patterson, chairman of the Recreation Planning Commission, said his group would not recommend spending any of the $150,000 for the stadium since the money is designed for general recreation purposes and not for any one project.

Patterson turned over to the committee a blueprint of the Elmer Bopp property on Frederick Street as another possible site for the stadium.

William Meagher, former president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, suggested a conference with local construction firms to determine the best type of materials to be used for the stadium.

Frank J. Davis, past governor of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, said in his opinion the stadium should be constructed of reinforced concrete and should be designed to seat at least 10,000 persons.

Robert Chisholm of J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, recalled previous investigations of the Community Ball Park site, which is involved in Army Engineers' plans for the Cumberland flood control project.

Catherman discussed fund-raising procedures which have been used in other communities for similar projects.

Howard M. Spiker, chairman of the membership committee, has asked members of the various membership teams to submit membership lists before midnight tomorrow.

Weisenmiller said the post will attempt to recruit another 50 per cent of last year's number before the end of the year.

Says Reliefers Get Insufficient Help

Recipients of public assistance in Allegany County are existing on grants that are not in line with the present high cost of living, according to J. Milton Patterson, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, who came here yesterday to meet with members of the County Commissioners, the Legislature and the local Welfare Board.

The meeting was held last night in the Welfare Board office, Cumberland Street Building, and members of the Welfare Board, the Board of County Commissioners and several interested citizens were present. Lester B. Reed, Mt. Savage, was the only member of the Allegany County delegation to the Legislature in attendance.

Patterson explained he is visiting each county to outline to interested officials and citizens the welfare program of the state and county, the financial needs and proposed budget.

Speaking of the budget, Patterson said that across the state, not a single group of County Commissioners has raised an objection to increasing their county share of the co-operative plan of federal, state and county participation for relief.

Allegany County has always been very co-operative, he said. He called attention to the fact that the state has assumed more and more of the relief load, and the Federal government is steadily expanding its welfare activities. At present, he said, the county appropriation of Allegany County for relief amounts to 10.85 cents of the tax rate, compared to 14.37 in 1937.

Legislators throughout the state who must pass on the state's budget have been especially interested in the facts surrounding the Welfare Board and its state budget, Patterson said.

Most Of Delegation Absent

He expressed his disappointment that the other six Allegany County legislators, including five members of the House of Delegates and the county's state senator, were not at the meeting, because the facts he discussed and the story he told were primarily for their benefit.

Reed said that he believes the Legislature will probably act on whatever recommendation the governor makes in his budget message, and told Patterson he welcomed, personally, the opportunity to "get the facts, first hand."

Outlining the program, Patterson pointed out that although a small increase in grants had been made in October as a result of increased Federal financial participation in the Welfare program, the amount being received by those on relief is still below the cost of living as indicated by prices prevailing in July 1948. The living costs have also increased slightly since that time, he reminded those present.

Additional funds are being requested, he said, in order to help persons receiving assistance to meet current high prices as well as to permit the inclusion in grants of small allowances for insurance premiums and for household replacements, such as the replacement of essential bedding and kitchen utensils.

If funds are available for the above purposes, the group was told, the result would be an average monthly increase of $5.79 for each individual benefiting from old age assistance; $4.03 for a child receiving aid to dependent children; a monthly average of $6.07 for a person receiving public assistance to the needy blind; and $6.55 for a family or individual receiving general public assistance.

For September, Patterson stated, average monthly grants for the various types of assistance were $20.84 for old age assistance; $71.65 for each aid to dependent children family; $26.76 for persons receiving blind assistance; and $37.79 for general public assistance. In addition, payments for the care of children in foster homes averaged $38.02 per child for the month of September.

Demand Below Peak

Although expenditures for assistance have increased, the number of families and individuals receiving grants is below the peak period before the war, according to the State Department director.

During the war, he pointed out, a noticeable drop occurred in the caseload, particularly in the number of families receiving aid to dependent children which declined by about 50 per cent. At the conclusion of hostilities employment opportunities for mothers and the aged and handicapped were lessened, he said, and as a result the caseload for Allegany County, like that of other industrial areas of the state, began to rise.

In recent months, the number of persons receiving assistance has leveled off and in some instances has declined. This trend has not occurred in the number of children in foster care, but he pointed out, a steady increase has been evident since before the war in this type of service.

In 1941 the number of children receiving payments for care in foster homes was less than 30, while for September this number had climbed to 64. This development, too, he said, was similar to that taking place in other industrialized areas and had resulted in increased expenditures.

Explains Proposed Budget

In order to meet the increasing case load and raise the amount of subsistence payments to recipients of relief to reasonable living stand-

Weather

Rain took over again yesterday and erased any effects Monday's Indian Summer afternoon may have had on Cumberland spirits. The temperature went down to 56 degrees to add chilliness to the damp air. The low temperature was 34 and late last night showed 44 degrees to usher in what the weatherman calls a mild day today. Even after giving the city 0.15 inches of rainfall, the elements are threatening to make themselves known again today and it should be cooler tonight.

Legion Work In Fever Campaign To Be Outlined

Goal For State Drive $25,000

Arthur G. Ramey, mountain district vice commander of the American Legion, will meet with Dr. Winter R. Frantz and Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson today to discuss plans for participation by the Legion and 40 and 8 in the campaign for funds to fight rheumatic fever.

Members of Voiture No. 164, 40 and 8, will precede the Armistice Day parade tomorrow night to solicit funds for the campaign. Members will form a "bucket brigade" to obtain donations. An Army sound truck will aid them in soliciting donations.

Officials of the 40 and 8 voiture pointed out that an annual campaign for funds to combat rheumatic fever is conducted nationally by the Legion and the 40 and 8.

The goal for Maryland has been set at $25,000 for the year by Harry S. Allen, national executive committeeman for the state, who is chairman of the Maryland campaign.

A large part of the funds realized from the campaign in Cumberland will remain here for the use of the local clinic, which was set up by Dr. Jacobson, it was reported.

The rest of the funds will be divided between the National Heart Association and the Legion fund for fighting rheumatic fever in the state.

The local campaign is headed by Mrs. Martha McNary, chairman of the Legion child welfare committee, and Paul C. Weisenmiller, chairman of the 40 and 8 child welfare committee and commander of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

Charles O'Donnel, chef de gare of the 4 0and 8, has asked all 40 and 8 members to participate in soliciting funds tomorrow night. Members are asked to wear their smocks and chapeaux.

Open House At AHS Tonigh'

Open house for parents and friends of Allegany High School will be held at the school tonight from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. The occasion is the national celebration of American Education Week, November 7-13.

The theme of the week is "America's Future Depends on American Schools." The annual get-together affords opportunity for parents to visit the school, discuss teaching problems with the faculty, and attend a typical assembly program in the auditorium presented by their children.

"Wanted: Facilities for Leasure" is the title of the assembly program which will be directed by Miss Virginia Dixon of the English department.

Boys Admit Breaking Tombstones Here

A wave of vandalism in local cemeteries has apparently ended with the apprehension yesterday of two small boys, who police said had admitted doing much of the damage.

Authorities said several complaints concerning damage to grave markers and monuments in three local cemeteries had been received recently.

The boys, it was reported, admitted pushing over and breaking several tombstones in St. Luke's Cemetery on Baltimore Avenue recently. They were released in the custody of their parents after restitution was made, officers said.

Assistant Chief B. Frank Gaffney said any further cases would not be treated with clemency, but that the offenders would be prosecuted when caught.

Flood Warning Plan Is Revised

Copies of a revised flood emergency warning plan for the Cumberland area will be sent today to the United States Weather Bureau and the Army Engineers in Washington, D. C., according to City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer.

Rizer is chairman of Area No. 17, which also includes the communities of Corriganville, Ellerslie, Glencoe and Hyndman, Pa., Locust Grove, Mt. Savage, and Ridgeley and Patterson Creek, W. Va.

Maryland is divided into 23 flood areas, each of which has a flood warning organization.

Meeting To Discuss Legislation Planned

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday the Mayor and Council has been invited to attend a public meeting Saturday, December 4, at City Hall, to discuss proposed legislation to be introduced at the next session of the General Assembly in January.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly, is making arrangements for the meeting.

County officials and interested organizations will also be invited to attend to offer suggestions on legislation.

Bond Forfeited In Motor Case

A local driver forfeited bonds totaling $112.90 yesterday when he failed to appear for a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of reckless and drunken driving.

The motorist, Charles O. Ruckman, 327 South Centre Street, had obtained several continuances of his hearings, according to Magistrate Frank A. Perdew.

Ruckman forfeited $101.45 on the drunken driving charge and $11.45 on the reckless charge. He is also charged with driving without a license, but the case is still pending.

He was arrested October 29 by State Trooper Thomas Barton.

In another case yesterday, Lindy J. Catherman, Frostburg, was fined $100.75 for exceeding 70 miles per hour. He was arrested by City Police after a chase from Cumberland to Corriganville early yesterday morning.

Officers Donald H. Smith and Harold E. Crabtree were on cruiser car duty when they spotted Catherman at the intersection of North Mechanic and North Centre Streets, "traveling at a fast rate of speed." They gave chase and followed him to the Narrows.

During the pursuit, police said, the officers sounded the siren warning, but Catherman failed to halt and continued speeding, apparently in an effort to escape apprehension.

Catherman, who said he was enroute to Frostburg at the time, told Magistrate Frank A. Perdew he did not hear the siren the first time due to the distance between the two vehicles.

At one point during the chase, according to police, the cruiser's speedometer hit 90.

Magistrate Perdew lectured Catherman before imposing the fine.

Auto Recovered At Berkeley Springs

A stolen car recovered last night near Berkeley Springs, W. Va., contained merchandise believed to have been stolen from three service station-stores on the Uhl Highway in the Oldtown Road section early yesterday morning.

Trooper First Class William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police, said the car, belonging to Samuel Stewart, RFD 1, Cumberland, was recovered by West Virginia State Police late last night.

The car was reported stolen early yesterday morning.

Baker said no arrests have been made in connection with the case.

The burglars left a trail of destruction at the three service-stores which they entered.

State Troopers Baker and A. M. Spioch reported the thieves, who entered the places by forcing front doors, took many articles while engaging in wholesale ransacking.

At the Sinclair station operated by Robert Lynn near North Branch, the culprits took 12 cartons of cigarets and about $30 in coins from two coin-operated machines. One of the latter, a music box, was broken to splinters, State Police said.

Four miles east of Oldtown at a service station and store owned by Harry Shryock, the intruders stole 30 cartons of cigarets and an assortment of fountain pens, wrist watches and shaving articles valued at $100.

They left behind a 30-pound wrecking bar used to open the front door.

At the third place three miles east of Oldtown, the robbers forced the front door of a gas station operated by Lloyd Lowery and stole six packs of cigarets and $1 in tax money.

State Police said all of the stores were ransacked. Meat from refrigerators was left on the floor and other articles of merchandise tossed about.

Baker indicated the breaking and entering were engineered before 5 a. m. yesterday. He added that no noise was heard at any of the establishments, although Lowery and Shryock both live near their stations.

Fort Hill To Present Third Education Play

The third of a series of National Education Week programs will be presented today at 8:50 a. m. over the Fort Hill High School public address system.

Members of the cast are Ronald Tipton, Loay Twigg, Bill Brooks and Clyde Mackereth.

Yesterday's program at Fort Hill was a play, "Who, Me?" presented by the fourth period senior English class. In the cast, under the direction of Miss Gerardine Pritchard, were Nadeane Atkinson, Robert Stevenson, Larry McKenzie, Charles Lattimer and Royce Hendrickson.

State Permit Is Needed For Pool Filtration Work

Rizer Will Confer With Health Official

City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer said yesterday he plans to confer with officials of the State Department of Health before making a final recommendation to the Mayor and Council regarding the five bids which have been submitted for installation of a recirculating system at the Constitution Park swimming and wading pools.

The sealed bids were opened at Monday's council meeting, and referred to Rizer for study and a report.

Rizer said he was notified last month by George L. Hall, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, that the city must obtain a permit from the state before any type of recirculating system can be installed.

To Contact Hall

Since plans and specifications must be approved by the State Department of Health before such a permit can be issued, Rizer said he plans to contact Hall in the near future to request a conference on the subject. Rizer added the city "welcomes" the permit requirement.

Advertisement for the bids contained a specification that the Mayor and Council shall fix some requirement to guarantee successful operation of the recirculating system for one year after installation, Rizer pointed out.

The successful bidded may not begin the work until the guarantee has been made, Rizer said. The type of guarantee has not been set.

One of the five firms, Refinite Sales Company, Omaha, Neb., quoted its prices for the work in a telegram to the Mayor and Council, while a detailed letter regarding the bid was received yesterday.

Some question was raised regarding the legality of the bid. Rizer said yesterday, however, that City Attorney Thomas B. Finan believed that since the telegram quoted the figures of the bid and arrived before Monday's deadline, the bid was acceptable.

Rizer said the Mayor and Council decided that installation of the recirculating system during the winter would be more convenient since the two pools would not be in use at that time.

The city engineer estimated that installation would probably be complete in time for the regular Memorial Day opening of the pools.

He pointed out that he will be unable to begin work on designs for a necessary building in conjunction with the system until the successful bid has been determined, because of varying specifications in the five bids.

Bids Are Varied

Two of the firms submitted bids only for a conventional type of filter, while two others quoted figures for diatomaceous type installations and the fifth concern gave alternate bids on both types.

Rizer said the bids will take several days of study because of the variety of specifications involved.

Bids were as follows:

1. Permutit Company, New York City (conventional type)—automatic, $25,020; manually operated, $22,530, and chlorinator, $24,445.

2. Proportioneers, Inc., Providence, R. I. (diatomaceous)—$17,673.40. This bid was submitted

Vigorous Fight Against Red Threat Is Urged By U. S. Commerce Body

Vigorous and intelligent action at the community level is the answer to Communism which is a threat to you, your home and your community, the United States Chamber of Commerce asserts in a booklet, "A Program for Community Anti-Communist Action."

Copies of the pamphlet, the fifth of a series aimed at American Communists who "owe their first allegiance to world Communism" were received yesterday by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and will be submitted to its Executive Board for consideration and action.

Communists, the Chamber says, are "a fifth column in our midst, agents of a declared enemy." After comparing the Nazis and Communists, it terms Communism "a more dangerous enemy because it is more subtle and effective. It disguises itself as a political and social reform movement. Hence it deceives and misleads millions who would never have fallen for Nazism."

Outlines Action

In an outline of action against the menace of world Communism the Chamber advocates four measures to fight the Red menace here and abroad:

Learn why Communism is a menace.

Call meetings to do something about Communism in your community.

Form local committees to get information, to give it out and to start community action programs.

Use your community influence and aid to set up state and national programs to fight Communism on a broader scale.

The first step in fighting Communism is to know your enemy, the Chamber said. "Its false coloration must be widely recognized. In fighting it, we are not curtailing free speech. We are not opposing men for their ideas or political beliefs. We fight them because they are using every effort to betray us to a hostile foreign dictatorship — Red Fascism."

An effective local campaign against Communism, the Chamber said, is usually a community job and should be undertaken by persons who are or can be convinced that Communism is a menace and who are willing to do something about it.

Must Get Facts

Getting the facts is vital and one of the sub-committees should get facts on local, national and world Communist activities. Among

An Army sound truck and jeep will precede the parade by 15 minutes in the interest of child welfare work under the sponsorship of the 40 and 8, Conlon said.

Conlon said a distance of 40 paces must be maintained between divisions and 20 paces between units.

Shavings Catch Fire At Lumber Firm

East Side Fire Company was called to the Cumberland Lumber Company, 227 Williams Street, early last night after a pile of shavings under a planing machine caught fire.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employes turned in an alarm after the blaze was discovered.

Officials were unable to determine the source of the fire which was burning fiercely when firemen arrived.

Firemen said a belt was burned off the planer by the fire but that the only damage was to the machinery. Fire fighters had to wet down the large piles of shavings near the machines before leaving the building.

East Side firemen answered a false alarm at the home of J. W. Connor, 481 Goethe Street, Monday at 11:23 p. m. They said an oil heater became overheated after one of the controls stuck.

Marines Have Birthday Today

Today is the 173rd anniversary of the United States Marine Corps, Capt. John T. Fey, commanding officer of the local Marine Reserve unit, reminded Cumberlanders.

General Clifton B. Cates, Marine commandant, issued a statement to the Reserves saying, "Today on the occasion of the 173rd anniversary of the Marine Corps, we commemorate the achievements of those gallant Marines who worked and fought in the service of their country. We salute them as free men with initiative, courage and ability.

"We of the regular establishment are genuinely happy to share our proud traditions of readiness and fidelity with our comrades in the Marine Corps Reserve."

Headquarters, Fifth Marine Corps Reserve District, Washington, D. C., also sent "best wishes to all members of "D" Company, Fifth Infantry Battalion . . . for a festive occasion."

The local birthday party will have to be postponed, Capt. Fey said, because Company "D" has been concentrating on its first public appearance in the Armistice Day parade tomorrow. However, the company plans to celebrate the occasion in the near future.

At the present time, according to Gen. Cates, the Marine Corps Reserve numbers 117,416, while the Regular Marines numbered 85,000 at the beginning of the fiscal year June, 1948.

Possible Sites For Stadium Are Discussed

Commission Will Be Organized

A number of possible locations for the proposed War Memorial Stadium were discussed and temporary officers were named pending organization of a permanent commission at a public meeting last night in City Hall, sponsored by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce.

Approximately 75 persons, representing 39 fraternal, veterans, labor, civic and women's organizations, attended the meeting.

Kenneth Gerard, general chairman of the Jaycee committee, who presided, was named temporary chairman, while Charles S. Catherman, Jr., Jaycee president, was named secretary.

Interested organizations are asked to submit nominations for the permanent commission to the Jaycee office, Room 514, Liberty Trust Building, within the next 10 days.

Working Group Planned

A 10-member working committee will be selected to begin detailed work on problems of selecting a site, type of construction and methods of financing the proposed stadium.

David Kauffman, who discussed organization and legal duties with reference to the project, suggested that the remainder of the persons selected serve in an advisory capacity.

James Wilkinson, who spoke on possible locations being investigated by the Jaycee committee, mentioned the Community Ball Park property, the old Taylor Tin Plate Mill property, the Locust Grove section at the end of Laing Avenue, an area adjacent to Fort Hill stadium, the North End Playground and a large tract of land between the C. and O. canal and the Potomac River.

Of those locations, the Community Ball Park site received most attention during the forum discussion which concluded the meeting.

Kauffman suggested that the permanent commission be formed as a non-profit, civic corporation.

Discussing the construction phase of the project in place of David Moreland, another Jaycee committee member unable to attend because of illness, Kauffman said Moreland felt that the primary need was for a baseball stadium which could be converted to football use, with two softball diamonds and space for other athletic activities.

Although reinforced concrete bleachers would be more expensive to build than structural steel, maintenance costs would be less, Kauffman said.

Estimated Costs Cited

Moreland estimated in his report that a 5,000-seat stadium of reinforced concrete would cost $150,000, while the same amount of money would build a structural steel stadium seating 6,000 to 7,000 persons, Kauffman said.

Both costs would include locker and shower rooms and a ticket office.

Kauffman pointed out that the city has a $150,000 recreation bond issue authorized, but he added that "we had better not rely on obtaining any of that sum for the project.

In this connection, J. C. Patterson, chairman of the Recreation Planning Commission, said his group would not recommend spending any of the $150,000 for the stadium since the money is designed for general recreation purposes and not for any one project.

Patterson turned over to the committee a blueprint of the Elmer Bopp property on Frederick Street as another possible site for the stadium.

William Meagher, former president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, suggested a conference with local construction firms to determine the best type of materials to be used for the stadium.

Frank J. Davis, past governor of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, said in his opinion the stadium should be constructed of reinforced concrete and should be designed to seat at least 10,000 persons.

Robert Chisholm of J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, recalled previous investigations of the Community Ball Park site, which is involved in Army Engineers' plans for the Cumberland flood control project.

Catherman discussed fund-raising procedures which have been used in other communities for similar projects.
